BORAH ENTERS CANDIDACY IN OHIO PRIMARIES

Campaign Expected in Illinois, Too.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho today formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for President.

He made the announcement in the form of a statement that he will enter the presidential primary in Ohio, which will be held on May 12. Ohio is the only state that requires the declaration of the candidate in writing. Hence entrance into the Ohio primary is equivalent to a formal announcement of candidacy.

The Senator's Statement.

The statement issued by Senator Borah follows:

"After a thorough survey of the Ohio situation I am convinced that the people of that state should be given an opportunity to express their choice in the presidential primary on May 12. Under the so-called 'favorite son' plan this privilege is denied them.

"To obtain an expression of popular will it is my intention to place at least eight candidates or delegates at large in the field.

"I shall make a number of speeches in Ohio and present the issues as I see them."

Ready to Sign Papers.

"Will you sign the necessary papers?" the senator was asked.

"Certainly," he replied.

Senator Borah made his announcement following a conference with the Ohio Republican leaders, former State Senator Roscoe Conkling McCulloch, John S. Knight, and C. Nelson Sparks of Akron, Judge Daniel E. Morgan of Cleveland, and Max Myerovich of Youngstown.

Mr. McCulloch predicted that Ohio will send a delegation to the Cleveland convention pledged to Senator Borah. He said that organization work for the senator would be undertaken at once.

Expect Illinois Campaign.

Friends of the senator said they had reason to believe he would make a no less vigorous campaign for delegates in Illinois than in Ohio. He is understood to take the position that the favorite son candidacy of Frank Knox, the Chicago publisher, is operating to deny the Republicans of Illinois a free choice of a candidate for President in the same manner that the favorite son device would have operated in Ohio had he not decided to make a fight for delegates in that state.

Senator Borah has already signified that he will participate in the New York, West Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, North and South Dakota, and numerous other presidential primaries. Eventually, it is understood, he will be a contestant in virtually every state having a preference primary.

Pennsy Cost Too High.

He reconsidered an intention to make a fight in Pennsylvania in the light of information that a primary contest alone in that state would cost him $150,000.

Mr. Borah is confident that, if nominated, he could defeat President Roosevelt. He believes that none but a liberal Republican standing on a liberal platform can defeat the President. That he is the outstanding liberal in the party today is commonly conceded. Senators Norris, Johnson and La Follette and the other radicals and liberals have quit the party and are now in the New Deal family.

In making his fight for the nomination for President Senator Borah is warring upon the conservative eastern leadership represented by such men as National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles of New York and National Committeeman Henry Roraback of Connecticut.

Demands Retirement.

Ever since the Republican debacle in the 1924 election he has been demanding the retirement of these men and their associates from power in the party.

According to Senator Borah, as he enunciated his position in his Brooklyn speech, these old guard leaders have been controling and dictating Republican nominations for President

LIGGETT WIDOW ADDS CHARGES AGAINST OLSON

State Closes Case in Slaying Trial.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Floyd B. Olson's statement today that the charges by Mrs. Walter Liggett, widow of the slain editor, were incited by political enemies was met almost at once this afternoon by a renewal of her assertions and a scathing list of new allegations.

Mrs. Liggett had asserted from the witness stand in the trial of Isadore [Kid Cann] Blumenfeld as her husband's machine gun assassin that the governor either had "ordered or permitted" his murder.

Prosecution Ends Case.

The state's case against Blumenfeld was brought to an abrupt close today after Marda Liggett, the 10 year old daughter of the slain editor, and two Chicago radio executives had taken the stand.

By stipulation, then, the time of the Liggett assassination was set at 5:41 p. m., Dec. 9. This was as the result of testimony that words, "a castle of ice," had been heard over the radio at the exact time of the shooting.

The defense then opened its case with statements by Cann's attorneys that his alibi would be his chief defense, and with the first of a parade of defense witnesses.

"Can't Be Responsible."

Gov. Olson's statement, made in Rochester, Minn., where he is recovering from a serious illness, was much shorter than Mrs. Liggett's reply. To facilitate understanding of the points involved, the widow's statement is given below in the form of answers to Olson's assertions. The governor began:

"In her bereavement Mrs. Liggett is entitled to and has the sympathy of every one. But that does not give her the right to make false and unfair statements, such as her charges that I was connected with the murder of her husband. I hope it was not inspired by some politician.

"I never wronged Liggett in any way nor wished him any harm. After he started to defame me I ignored him. If every man in public office is to be held responsible for the safety of his defamers we will have to maintain a large standing army."

Called Governor's Duty.

To this Mrs. Liggett replied:

"The first curious remark in Gov. Olson's statement is that 'If every man in public office is to be held responsible for the safety of his defamers we will have to maintain a large standing army.' It is the duty of any governor to see that the safety of every citizen is protected. By a curious coincidence, in Minnesota the men who are opposing the governor are in danger.

"Olson's statement that Walter presented his impeachment charges to the regular 1935 session of the legislature and that the legislature ignored them is untrue. Walter refused to have anything to do with the investigating commission when he saw who was conducting the investigation.

No Faith in Quiz Body.

"While he was certain that Senator Carley was perfectly honest, he had no faith in the personnel in charge of the investigation and knew that some political deals were being made for Olson's protection.

"Liggett had announced long in advance that he intended to appear before the special session of the legislature to demand Gov. Olson's impeachment on 10 definite charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, and nonfeasance in office—in answer to the statement regarding Liggett's appearance planned for the special session. The session was delayed by Olson for no other reason but the hope that Liggett would be in jail before it convened.

Declines to Reveal Names.

"Gov. Olson postponed calling the legislature until December in the hope that by that time Walter Liggett would have been convicted on the filthy frameup engineered by Olson supporters and hence would be unable to press his charges. It is known that the night he was murdered Walter Liggett left his office earlier than usual in order to work on his impeachment speech.

"Since the names of the men who would have enabled him to bring his

Call 105,000 to Walkout in Garment Mills

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Strikes and strike threats continued to beset New York today.

Dressmakers in 3,800 plants, calculated to affect 105,000 to 150,000 workers in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, and other states, were ordered to quit work at 2:30 o'clock Friday pending a vote on a general strike throughout the industry.

More than 20,000 millinery workers went on strike here today, but indications were that this strike would be short lived owing to a quick agreement for the setting up of a miniature NRA to settle all the issues and problems involved. The return of about half the workers to their shops is expected on Monday.

Building Strike Postponed.

The one optimistic note on the troubled labor horizon was postponement of the proposed walkout of 20,000 elevator operators and building workers in 1,200 New York buildings. This strike was deferred pending further conferences in Mayor La Guardia's office tomorrow morning.

The breakdown in negotiations in the dressmaking industry—the largest in New York City—cast a pall of gloom over Mayor F. H. La Guardia's efforts to avert this and other impending walkouts.

The strike announcement was made by David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment union, and Julius Hochman, general manager of the Joint Board of Dressmakers' Unions, after earlier reports had indicated progress was being made in negotiations.

Wages and Conditions Involved.

The strike is impending because employers' organizations have failed to meet the union's demands for contractor limitation and jobber responsibility for wage standards and working conditions. Negotiations were resumed early today at the urging of Mayor La Guardia between the union and the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers, a group of "inside" employers, and the National Dress Manufacturers' association.

Hochman said union leaders had been trying for three months to settle the dispute peacefully, but that the employers "obstinately refuse to write a new agreement" and "seem to have been devoting their major attention during the crisis facing the industry to raiding each other's membership lists."

Morris Kolchin, executive director of the Affiliated Dress manufacturers, declared "the next step in this situation is up to the members of the industry themselves." He reported the negotiations had made "disappointing progress" and called a meeting of the members of his organization for tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Astor.

"The union remains obdurate on the question of direct piece-price settlement with manufacturers and wholesalers who employ contractors," Kolchin said. "The committee representing the association in these negotiations feels that this procedure would disrupt the efficient and equitable procedure of the industry and declines to accept it unless authorized to do so by the membership as a whole."

NEBRASKA VILLAGE REPORTS ALL WELL ALBEIT SOME QUIET

Denton, Neb., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Mayor Walter W. Hocking of Denton, a village of slightly more than 100 population, wrote to the state fire marshall at Lincoln:

LEWIS SUGGESTS FRANCE, BRITAIN, PAY VETS' BONUS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—A plan whereby Great Britain and France could pay to the United States 6 billion dollars on account of their war debts to help this country finance payments of the veterans' adjusted service compensation and agricultural benefits to the farmers was suggested to the senate today by Senator Lewis. The Illinois senator spoke in an ironical vein, inspired by a recent statement of Sir Josiah Stamp, British financier, that United States bankers do not lend wisely.

His debt payment suggestion called for the issue of bonds in small denominations by the debtor governments to an amount equal with their indebtedness to this country.

Driver's Excuse for Passing Stop Sign Satisfies Judge

Judge George N. Blatt of Joliet, sitting in the County court here, yesterday freed Herman Schaller, 6204 South Park avenue, of a charge of driving past a stop sign. "For twenty miles," Schaller said, "I had been trying to pass a string of twelve liquor trucks, and when I did, at Torrence avenue and the Glenwood-Dyer road, the trucks masked the stop sign from my sight." Schaller said the liquor trucks travel in large convoys to foil hijackers.

Arctic Cold and Storms Cover Nation

Howling down from the frozen wastes of western Canada, a fresh arctic blast last night swept Chicago and most of the country east of the Rocky mountains. Little of the south escaped the bite of the new cold wave. The worst blizzard in 20 years raged through the northwest, Wisconsin, and Michigan, disrupting railroad and highway trafic.

At 10 o'clock last night the mercury in the official government thermometer at Chicago airport tumbled below zero. By 3 o'clock this morning it registered 12 degrees below. Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted a temperature range in the city of between 5 and 10 degrees below zero this morning. In the western and northern suburbs, Mr. Donnel said, the temperature might sink to 20 below.

Predicts Zero Through Friday.

Even without the new frigid incursion, this winter has become what the graybeards call an "old-fashioned winter." But as Mr. Donnel pointed out, memory plays strange tricks, particularly with weather.

"A man remembers most vividly the winters of his youth, when his legs were short and the drifts looked awfully high," said the forecaster. "Those winters weren't any colder or snowier than the normal range of weather over the years."

Most Severe in 16 Years.

Moreover, the winter of 1935-'36 gives every indication of going down in the weather records as the coldest in history. Although he refrained from "long range" forecasting, Mr. Donnel pointed out that, with only two-thirds of the winter gone, it is already the coldest in sixteen years.

It is far colder than the last five winters, during which it was sloppy underfoot nearly every month. Since the first of the year the daily temperature has averaged eight degrees below the same period last year.

Should bitter cold prevail for five or six days, dealers yesterday admitted the coal situation might become acute. Wholesalers, however, asserted they had enough supplies on hand to care for normal consumption. In neighboring states a serious shortage was threatened by the weather which has curtailed mine operations and slowed railroad trafic.

Special Trains Haul Coal.

Special trains sped last night to replenish bunkers of the Chicago board of education, whose reserve supply had fallen to 8,000 tons. The public schools during cold weather burn 1,500 tons daily.

Although not heavy enough to seriously hamper city trafic, the snow yesterday drifted high on state roads, already covered with a sheath of ice. Highways to the west and north were blocked last night.

Many communities in Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota were completely cut off except by telephone. Only a few trains ran on schedule. Some on the North Western and Milwaukee railroads were stalled in high drifts to the north and west. The North Western held up many of its trains at Milwaukee and Omaha, Neb., because the blizzard filled cuts with huge drifts. Two Milwaukee trains due here last night were snowbound early today at Sturtevant, Wis., 23 miles this side of Milwaukee.

Food and Coal Shortage.

A serious food and coal shortage was reported from Darlington, Wis., on highways 62 and 84 in the southwestern part of the state, early today. The town of 2,700 has been cut off

More about the forcing two-bid

"When a hand contains more honor tricks than losing tricks it should be opened with a forcing two-bid," says Ely Culbertson in his article on contract bridge in next Sunday's Chicago Tribune. But there's a lot more to it than that, as you will see when you read the article.

HOFFMAN FACES HERCULEAN JOB IN KIDNAP PROBE

Hostile Aids Hamper Lindbergh Solution.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—After nearly four years, despite the arrest and conviction of the alien German carpenter, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the kidnaping and death of the baby son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh still remains a partially unsolved crime and a subject of bitter controversy.

It is likely to sink into history as such unless in the next few weeks the state police of New Jersey dig up a new explanation or Hauptmann decides at the last moment to try to save his life by talking. These both are considered remote possibilities.

New Issues Obscured.

So much propaganda, publicity and politics have entered this case from its conception, and such a fog of rumor and doubt has been raised above the New Jersey marshes during the last few weeks that it is difficult to get a clear picture of the new issues involved. When they are sifted down it is seen that they largely are the old issues, questions that were raised at the trial of Hauptmann or in the courts of appeal and which the New Jersey and New York police and the department of justice considered immaterial or unanswerable except by Hauptmann himself.

Against this triumvirate of authority, against the massed opinion of the prosecutors and the police and detectives who worked on this case for two and a half years and who considered it solved with the arrest of Hauptmann, the Lindbergh ransom money in his possession, Gov. Hoffman entered the case in dramatic manner and now threatens one of the greatest upsets in criminal history. His success against such great odds would make not only the police of two states but the famous sleuths of the department of justice look like amateurs and quitters.

Want Governor to Fail.

In this situation there can be no real cooperation of action between the fighting governor and those who think he is wrong and do not want him to succeed. The guilt of Hauptmann is almost lost sight of in such a struggle, the court evidence forgotten, the political and personal interests coming to the front to obscure the issue.

Gov. Hoffman sits on historic fighting ground in this battle of wits. Near the old statehouse where he camps with a hostile legislature is the spot where Washington crossed the Delaware and the army of the revolution cleared the path for the new republic. Bruno Hauptmann in Trenton prison near by may look across the sunset plains of the old battle ground of Trenton. Between the statehouse and the prison, however, there is a slight link of sympathy. It is not the life of Hauptmann that concerns the governor, but the chance that by prolonging that life he may clear a great mystery.

Critics Concede One Point.

The chief question in the governor's mind is whether Hauptmann had accomplices. In this doubt, it may be said with confidence, some of his critics, even in the prosecution camp, agree with him. The disagreement comes in what each side is willing to do about it.

The prosecutors are willing to let Hauptmann go to the chair and let the whole story die with him rather than let him escape this punishment because of a few doubts which may never be answered.

The governor is convinced that the majority of people share these doubts and want every step taken to remove them. It is comparatively unimportant to his mind whether Hauptmann dies now or later, so long as he remains in prison.

By implication, at least, his actions before and after the reprieve of Hauptmann would indicate a belief in Hauptmann's guilt, but even here he leaves the door open to possible developments. His closest confidant in the Hauptmann case, Detective Ellis Parker of Burlington county, maintains that Hauptmann is innocent of the kidnaping and murder for which he was tried and convicted; that the carpenter's only part in the case was to handle the ransom money.

Strengthens Governor's Stand.

Detective Parker's reputation in his community and state is such that this statement is regarded with mingled respect and incredulity. It adds much, however, to the governor's position and makes it necessary to suspend judgment until Parker and the governor are through with it.

Gov. Hoffman took his first independent action in this case last October when he went to visit Hauptmann in the death cell. Both he and Parker had been dissatisfied with the handling of the case by state police.

Before the Hauptmann trial Gov. Hoffman had asked Parker to go to work on the case. Parker had written to the state police for facsimiles of the ransom notes, which he maintains Hauptmann did not write, and had been refused. This had fanned an old feud into a flame. Parker took other steps and encouraged the governor in his opposition to official closing of the case.

One Weakness in Strategy.

It was six weeks after the death-house interview before the governor told any one about it. During these six weeks, it appeared, nothing new had been developed, and the governor was in varying moods about his next step. His hope was that if Hauptmann was kept in doubt about his fate until the last minute he might break, although this little accorded with Parker's view of the case under which Hauptmann had nothing more to tell.

The error in the governor's strategy was that when he finally did decide to reprieve Hauptmann he let Mrs. Hauptmann know about it, and therefore the prisoner knew it. One last hope of breaking the case in this manner lies in the next time Hauptmann faces the electric chair in the last few minutes of life when no word of hope is forthcoming. Hauptmann's keepers, however, and those who have studied his peculiar mentality hold little hope that he will ever confess.

Police Lose Interest.

The attitude of the New York police, who worked for two and a half years on this case, is that it was closed on Oct. 19, 1934, with the arrest of Hauptmann. All work on accomplices has resulted in nothing tangible, and they are willing to regard Hauptmann as the lone wolf. This also is the attitude of the New Jersey state police, who now are ordered out into a new hunt for accomplices. They regard all the questions and doubts raised by the governor as answered in the trial record so far as they are answerable by any one except Hauptmann.

The attitude of the department of justice is that the case was closed in November, 1934, when they turned over their evidence to the police. Attorney General Cummings in September, 1934, officially announced the Lindbergh case as solved.

"The result obtained in the Lindbergh case," he said, "is due to no master detective of fiction working on intuition or sporadic inspiration, but to a practical arrangement for coöperation in which trained experts, methodical, patient, attentive to the smallest details, whether these appeared important or not, hung on to the trail until the end came in sight."

Doubts Hit All Agencies.

Gov. Hoffman's hints as to a possible frameup in this case bear equally upon the three agencies involved, for Attorney General Cummings said in his discussion of the case:

"Several months ago [in the spring of 1934] an agreement was reached among the various agencies working on this case that there should henceforth be complete coördination in an unceasing attempt to solve this crime. These agencies were the division of investigation of the department of justice, the New Jersey state police and the New York City police.

"It happened that in this case the three factors involved presented what I might term a classic setup in the forces which, under our American form of government, are called upon to deal with the detection and apprehension of criminals.

"Each of these agencies had its own personnel, each its own ideas of the crime, each its own accumulation of evidence. Each carried on its own activities, but amongst the three there was the fullest exchange of information and frequent consultation."

The attitude of the department of justice today is the same as it was when it closed the case with the Hauptmann arrest. No comments have been made on Gov. Hoffman's activities or statements. There is a vast, cold silence in this quarter. The department of internal revenue, which played such a large part in tracing the ransom money, also has discontinued its activities.

Schwarzkopf "Sits Tight."

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, has been sitting tight and saying nothing, like a soldier. A clean cut West Pointer, he maintains that this is the cleanest case his department ever worked on; that the evidence is complete against Hauptmann and that every effort to unravel the trail of possible accomplices has ended in failure.

The colonel has had the offered help of all sorts of volunteer investigators, from crystal gazers to those who move about at will in the astral body. Astrologers, twig tippers, mind readers, amateur criminologists, pseudo-scientists of all sorts have thronged to his office and have had patient hearings. He has been convinced in his own mind that there is nothing to uncover except the complete story of Hauptmann's own actions.

Accomplice Theory Discarded.

The prosecution in this case, headed by Attorney General David T. Wilentz, was faced at first with the theory of accomplices which was held by many of the police, but as they proceeded with the evidence the case was narrowed rigidly to Hauptmann. This did not mean that they did not run down all possible clews. They had agents investigate every possible angle that was presented during the investigation, even the wild stories of Gaston Means and John Hughes Curtis. They sent spies into prison to talk with Means and had his mail watched and his house searched.

At the end of the trial Wilentz told the jury that every one connected with the case, except the defense, had come to the conclusion that Hauptmann alone was guilty. He maintains that attitude today. No one was present at the kidnaping except Hauptmann, he declares, and therefore no one can tell the whole story but the prisoner. At the same time he is ready to reopen the case before Justice Thomas Trenchard if any new evidence turns up.

Wilentz Slightly Worried.

Wilentz is not hunting for such evidence and believes that it is impossible to find. He is somewhat worried, however, as to what possible "ace" the governor might have up his sleeve in this poker game, but not sufficiently worried to keep him from going to Florida to play golf in the midst of this new clamor.

Wilentz and Schwarzkopf are appointees of a Democratic governor, A. Harry Moore, and political gossip in New Jersey has it that Gov. Hoffman, a Republican, is acting in part to discredit them and make new appointments possible. It is whispered that he has Schwarzkopf's job all marked out for Col. Mark Kimberling, head of the state prison, who has been given the job of trying to get a confession from Hauptmann.

Faces Hostile Legislature.

Gov. Hoffman's first year has been marred by struggles with his opponents in the legislature. He forced through a state 3 per cent sales tax which proved so unpopular that it recently was repealed. At present he is in a deadlock with them over new methods of taxation and raising relief, at the same time trying to economize and cut taxes. The Hauptmann reprieve has been used in an effort to discredit him, and there are rumblings about impeachment that end in nothing.

The Democratic members of the legislature controled by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City have been keeping hands off in this situation, which they feel is filled with political dynamite. No one knows just what the governor has in reserve in this case. He has much to gain by a solution and little to lose by failure to find one, as there never will be unanimity of opinion in the case unless it is settled by new evidence.

GLORIA VANDERBILT KIDNAP SCARE IS ONLY ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—An attempt to hold up the superintendent of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's estate at Wheatley Hills gave rise to a report tonight, promptly discounted by authorities, that kidnapers had sought to snatch 12 year old Gloria Laura Vanderbilt.

Two men threatened the superintendent, Thomas Griffin, with a pistol Monday night in front of his home, two miles from the main house, but were frightened away by the screams of Griffin's daughter, Mrs. H. A. Johnson.

Sergt. Thomas Hennessey of the Old Westbury police said he was satisfied the men sought a $500 pay roll which Griffin had. The sergeant said he understood little Gloria, whose principal custody was won by Mrs. Whitney, her aunt, in a long legal battle with the mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, was not at the estate Monday night.

SENATE OKAYS PAY FOR TRIO SHOT IN DILLINGER FIASCO

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Bills authorizing payments totaling $8,500 for the shooting of three bystanders by justice department agents while trying to capture John Dillinger at Little Bohemia lodge, Manitowish, Wis., in 1934 were passed today by the senate and sent to the house.

One measure would give Izelda Boisoneau of Mellen, Wis., a $4,000 settlement for the death of her son, Eugene. John Morris and John Hoffman, both of Mercer, Wis., would get $3,000 and $1,500, respectively, for having been wounded in the encounter. Boisoneau and Hoffman were CCC enrollee.

Evidence given the senate indicated that the three men were in the resort when the G-men, on the hunt for the Dillinger gang, surrounded the place. When the men came out they were told to halt, but did not. They were fired upon as they rode away in an automobile.

The gangsters escaped from the lodge in the meantime.

N. J. POLICE HEAD ASKS U. S. TO AID NEW LINDY QUIZ

Wants Same Men as on Hauptmann Trail.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state superintendent of police, today asked the coöperation of the federal government and the New York police in the renewed investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping-murder aimed at finding Bruno Richard Hauptmann's accomplices, if any.

Schwarzkopf mailed letters to J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice in Washington and to Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine in New York City. He requested them to assign the same men who participated in the two year man hunt which ended with the arrest of Hauptmann. If this is done there will be at least 55 men, with the resources of their departments behind them, working to fulfill the order of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who instigated the new inquiry.

Some Best in Country.

These half hundred, among them some of the best detectives in the country, will have the job of answering the questions contained in Gov. Hoffman's brief. It was expected that the first step would be conferences between the New Jersey police superintendent and the two other chiefs.

Governor Hoffman remained out of the city today. His secretary, William S. Conklin, said he was at his South Amboy home, but there were reports from other sources that he had gone to New York, where he expected to meet Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective, who has been supplying information to the governor.

Parker is working now on one of the points raised in the brief. The governor demanded to know the identity of the man with the handkerchief seen by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at St. Raymond's cemetery on the night the fruitless ransom was paid.

Has Name of Suspect.

Parker has given him the name of a suspect, but both are known to be unwilling to make a too hasty arrest.

Col. Schwarzkopf's action was reported based on his belief that through the resources of the federal agents and the New York police he could obtain an immediate contact with Col. Lindbergh and with Dr. John F. Condon, the Jafsie of the ransom payment.

Col. Schwarzkopf believes Col. Lindbergh in England can answer any question raised by Gov. Hoffman, except that of identifying the man with the handkerchief, as well as he could if he returned. He does not want to make a request that Col. Lindbergh return.

LINDBERGH REMAINS SECLUDED IN WALES ON 34TH BIRTHDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LLANDAFF, Wales, Feb. 4.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was 34 years old today. With Mrs. Lindbergh and their son Jon he spent a quiet day in the home of J. Llewellyn Morgan where the family is seeking seclusion from publicity in connection with the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted kidnaper of Charles Lindbergh Jr.

Morgan is the father of Aubrey Niel Morgan, widower of Mrs. Lindbergh's deceased sister, who was Elisabeth Morrow. The Morgans gave instructions today that the Lindberghs were not to be disturbed, and the servants would only say, "Col. Lindbergh is entertaining friends."

The colonel, who won fame when he flew the Atlantic from New York to Paris in 1927, was born in Detroit in 1902, the son of the late Representative Charles Lindbergh [Rep., Minn.], and Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Land Lindbergh. The colonel's family has been at Llandaff, overlooking Cardiff, since Jan. 4. The Morgan estate is walled and two dogs at the gate warn of strangers' approach.

TROOPS WAIT AT PEORIA TO TAKE CHARGE IN PEKIN

Night Parley on Truce Is Broken Up.

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Strikers from 31 Pekin unions tonight refused to call off their general walkout at a meeting held to consider the proposal, and the city faces another day with its business seriously crippled. In Peoria, ten miles away, National Guardsmen were held ready to rush into Pekin in the event of serious disorders.

Gov. Horner ordered the troops mobilized in Peoria after Sherif Ralph Goar admitted the situation was getting out of control and sent an urgent request for help. His plea was made after one home was bombed and another made the target of gunmen.

Called "Workers' Holiday."

Several hundred delegates of the Pekin Trades and Labor assembly attended the massmeeting. They dispersed at midnight, announcing that the strike would continue, but took no formal action on requesting coal miners, yeast plant workers, and corn products refinery employés to join in what they called a "workers' holiday."

Martin P. Durkin, director of the state department of labor, who was sent by the governor to seek conciliation, announced that peacemaking efforts will be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Then George Michell, vice president of the American Distilling company, will confer with leaders of the distillery strike which led to the city-wide demonstration today. F. E. O'Connor, representing the national labor relations board, was expected to arrive tomorrow from Washington.

Business Is Crippled.

Meanwhile general business was crippled, scores of shops were closed and numerous services interrupted as union employés, variously estimated at between 1,500 and 3,000, responded to the call for the general walkout.

The unionists today made a formal demand on Mayor W. E. Schurman that he oust Chief of Police Harry Donahue and remove himself from a citizens' committee which has been attempting to settle the labor trouble. Although the committee tonight resigned, the mayor flatly announced he would not dismiss his police chief.

The union men's ire against Chief Donahue is based primarily on his efforts to reopen the distilling plant yesterday when he and his men laid down a barrage of tear and stench bombs while a busload of loyal employés ran the picket lines and entered the plant.

Would End General Strike.

Frank S. Mahoney, chairman of the strike committee, told the mayor the general strike, but not the distilling company strike, would be called off if the police chief were ousted.

If he is not, Mahoney said, the city will be "tied up tighter than a drum tomorrow." He declared that whereas milk and some coal deliveries were being made today and food stores permitted to remain open, every kind of industry will be closed down tomorrow.

Mahoney estimated that between 2,500 and 3,000 union employés were on strike today and that at least that many more would quit work tomorrow if the strike committee's demands are not granted. Authorities estimated, however, that there were about 1,500 men on strike today.

Bomb Home of Deputy.

Several acts of violence contributed to the seriousness of the situation. Early today a bomb was thrown under the front porch of the home of Special Deputy George Jibbens, jolting him and his family from their beds but injuring no one.

Jibbens was sworn in as a special deputy only yesterday and took part in the police attack on the distilling company pickets. According to reports strikers believed he was too zealous in his efforts against them.

Soon after this bombing a bullet was fired through a window of the home of Emily Soldwedel, secretary of the Pekin Distillery Employés' association, a so-called company union in the American Distilling concern's plant.

A .45 caliber bullet was imbedded in a wall of the dining room after narrowly missing her mother, Mrs. George Soldwedel.

The balance of the day was free from disorders. Few persons ventured out of their houses into the cold, and the closing of barber shops, movies, taverns, restaurants, and beauty shops gave few persons reason to be out in the streets.

All chauffeurs, except bus drivers, failed to report for work.

ITALIANS ROUTED, 1,700 REPORTED SLAIN IN ETHIOPIA

[Copyright: 1936: By Havas and New York News.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Feb. 4.—An unconfirmed report today said 1,700 Italians had been slain in a great Ethiopian victory on the southern front. Most of the dead were said to be Fascist Black Shirt troops.

The battle began when an Italian column advancing toward Addis Ababa as part of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani's motorized army was routed disastrously by tribesmen under Dedjazmatch Bayenna Mared, governor of Bale, the report added. The victorious Ethiopians captured seventy machine guns, three field cannon, 11 trucks and 16 tents containing supplies.

Count Luigi Viaci-Gigliucci, former Italian minister to Ethiopia, was said to have been serving as a captain in the defeated column. Col. Ruggiero, former military attaché at Addis Ababa, was another officer in the column.

Italy Accused of Slavery.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government issued a communique tonight charging that slavery exists in the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Tripoli.

Denying Italian claims of a victory in the south, the communique said the Ethiopians had retreated in order to take up "much more easily defendable positions."

The government admitted, however, that "the retreat was not executed with the precision and rapidity which the general staf desired and therefore the Italians were able to surprise some convoys."

Rumors that Ras Mulugheta, minister of war and commander on the northern front, had been wounded and his son killed were denied.

Italy Claims a Victory.

ROME, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Today's war communique said native troops which have joined the Italian side routed Ethiopian bands around Neghelli, on the southern front.

"Aviation bombarded enemy concentrations in the Ellot region, between the Webbe Gestro and the Webbe Shibeli," the communique added. "There is nothing to note on the Eritrean front."

Britain Ready to Arm Greece.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 4.—Great Britain will send military aviators and fighting planes to Greece if war results from the British-Greek alliance concluded by King George of Greece shortly after his enthronement.

No war loan is believed to have been made to Greece by the British financiers who are reported to have backed the restoration of the monarchy. London bankers, who hold 70 per cent of Greece's partly defaulted foreign debt, appear reluctant to advance further amounts.

Most of Greece's aviation budget will be spent on thirty-five training planes of British make. British pilots and planes will be quickly supplied in an emergency without the difficulties of private financial negotiations.

HIJACKERS TAKE CLOTHING.

Dynamite Bomb Causes $400 Damage to Tavern

A dynamite bomb was exploded early today at the front door of a tavern at 556 West 37th street, shattering windows in the tavern and in several nearby buildings. The owner of the tavern, John [Stub] Sheehan, 437 West 38th street, estimated the damage at $400. Members of two families who live on the third floor were thrown from their beds by the blast. They are Clifford Mitchell, his wife, Stella, and their baby, Raymond; and Charles Hartman, his daughter, Emily, 19, and son, Albert, 17. Windows were broken in a building across the street at 551 West 37th street, in which is the office of Ald. Hugh B. Connelly.

WE ARE READY TO FIGHT SANCTIONS! ITALY TO WORLD

"Definite Line of Action" Adopted by Council.

ROME, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Italy, through the Fascist grand council, warned the world tonight that new sanctions aimed at stopping the invasion of Ethiopia will bring opposition along a "definitly fixed line of counteraction."

The council, in session for the second time in four days, determined its future course of action, but declined to disclose its nature.

Informed circles were quick to recall, however, the recent admonition in Premier Mussolini's newspaper Popolo d'Italia that sanctions will ultimately "mean a blockade and a blockade will be war."

Backs Rejection of Peace.

The grand council meeting, which lasted two hours and a half and followed an earlier session of the supreme commission on defense, decided Italy had acted wisely in rejecting the Franco-British proposal for peace in East Africa.

"The grand council finds there is full justification for its line of conduct inspired by preliminary reserve in the face of the Franco-British peace plan," the official communique said.

"The council considers recent victories of our armed forces on the Eritrean and Somaliland fronts as prominent determining factors in the situation."

"It [the council] renews its firm decision of reaching objectives for which the military undertaking was initiated, feeling secure in interpreting the spirit of the fighting forces and the conscious will of the Italian people.

Duce Talks for an Hour.

"The Fascist grand council examined the internal situation which prevailed at the end of the third month of the economic siege. After it eulogized the calm, admirable resistance of the Italian people, unanimous beneath the lictors, it established lines of Italy's counter-action in the event of further tightening of sanctions."

In the course of the council's deliberations Premier Mussolini addressed his advisers for an hour. Then the minister of finance emphasized the necessity of regulating foreign commerce and proposed this resolution, which was approved:

"The Fascist grand council, having examined the problem of foreign commerce in conformity with the Fascist economic doctrine in the present circumstances, recognizes foreign trade as a matter of public interest which justifies direct control of a coöperative state."

Duce Tells His Enthusiasm.

Mussolini told the council of his renewed enthusiasm for the Ethiopian campaign and offered good wishes on the eve of their departure to Africa to his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Lieut. Col. Achille Starace, secretary of the Fascist party, and Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party.

POPE IS DEPRESSED; FEARS THE OUTCOME OF WAR SITUATION

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Pope Pius, prelates said today, was "tremendously depressed" mentally over the Italo-Ethiopian war situation and this was chiefly responsible for his cancelation of public audiences yesterday.

The pontiff resumed the audiences today, receiving several hundred newlyweds, among others.

Persons close to the pope said the European situation growing from the proposal at Geneva of an oil embargo against Italy and Italy's warning against a blockade has caused him deep anxiety. This concern, they added, reacted on his physical condition. They pointed out the pope is nearly 80 years old and must conserve his energy.

COUNTY LEADERS DOWNSTATE LINE UP WITH BROOKS

Choice of 45 Chairmen, Proxies Out of 67.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Returning yesterday from Monday's brief party conference at Springfield, supporters of Wayland Brooks' candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor said the developments at the capital definitly assured their candidate of support by a substantial majority of the downstate Republican county chairmen.

It was the Brooks forces, they disclosed, who determined there should be no attempt to indorse a candidate at the meeting of the chairmen. It was thought, they said, a better taste would be left in the mouths of all participants if the only declaration adopted by the gathering was one to "let the voters choose." Otherwise, they declared, a vote on candidates would have produced an indorsement for Brooks.

Claim 45 of 67 Backers.

There were 52 chairmen present, and 15 others were represented by proxies. The Brooks leaders expressed confidence that if there had been a showdown there would have been 31 chairmen and 14 proxy holders for Brooks, a total of 45 out of a possible 67.

Going a step further, they said they were confident that if all of the 101 downstate chairmen had been present Brooks would have had the support of 73. This indication, coupled with the fact that the candidate has the active support of a majority of the Cook county central committee, was made the basis for a contention that Brooks right now is stronger than all the many other candidates in the field.

List Friends at Parley.

In support of the assertion of strength in the Springfield meeting, Brooks' Chicago headquarters made public the list of the participants in the gathering of whose support they had been assured. The list follows, with asterisks indicating proxies:

Conferences on the question of county candidates were held at the Brooks headquarters and in the headquarters of H. Wallace Caldwell, who is suported by the anti-Brooks elements of the county committee.

Fill Two Places on Slate.

At an all afternoon session the Brooks group selected candidates for two of the eleven major places on the local ticket. They named William H. Feigenbutz, committeeman from the Forty-fifth ward, for bailif of the Municipal court, and Maxwell Maximillian Nowak, head of the Nowak Milling corporation of Hammond, Ind., for county treasurer.

Feigenbutz, a former alderman, was said to have been put on the ticket by Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court.

Nowak, whose residence, 6811 Crandon avenue, is in the Seventh ward, was endorsed by a number of Polish organizations.

The Caldwell forces have agreed on County Commissioner William Busse for county recorder and Arthur C. Lueder, former postmaster, for county treasurer.

Although he has said he will not run, the Brooks group intends to ask Dwight H. Green, former United States attorney, to become a candidate for the state's attorneyship. It also is considering Judge William V. Brothers and William F. Waugh, former assistant district attorney, for this place. The Caldwell group is considering James W. Breen, former assistant corporation counsel, and Waugh for state's attorney.

BORAH'S CANDIDACY HAILED BY DEMOCRATS AS SIGN OF A SPLIT

Columbus, O., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Senator Borah's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination in Ohio is "the best news we've heard," in the opinion of Ohio Democratic leaders.

"That's just what we want," chorused Undersecretary of Interior Charles West, State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Francis W. Poulson, and Central Committee Chairman Earl H. Hanefeld as they left a conference.

All made no attempt to disguise their pleasure at the Borah candidacy, in which they saw the makings of a split in the Republican forces.

BORAH FORMALLY OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENCY

Ready to Enter Ohio Primary Lists.

for decades. Through manipulations of state conventions and primaries and national convention delegations the old guard has made up the ticket and the rank and file of Republicans have been deprived of any effective voice in the selection of the candidates.

By such practices, according to the senator, the old line leadership has wrecked the Republican party. The conservative leadership, the senator charges, has no thought beyond the restoration of the status quo ante the New Deal. Because it had nothing more constructive, to offer, the party lost the 1934 election, he held.

Foresees Same Result.

The same thing will happen this year, Mr. Borah asserts, if the old guard is allowed to dictate the nomination. The ticket will not inspire confidence and Mr. Roosevelt will have a walkaway in the election. The senator has made it perfectly clear that he himself would lend no support to a ticket headed by a candidate whom he could not indorse as a blown in the bottle liberal.

The senator is understood to feel that he either will win the nomination himself or will be able to exercise a potent voice in the selection of the nominee. There has been no end of speculation on the compromise candidate who would be acceptable to the Idaho statesman.

Holds Hoover Suicidal.

Mr. Borah at no time has made any bones of his intense repugnance to Mr. Hoover. No surer way of committing party suicide could be devised than the renomination of Hoover, as Senator Borah views it. He suspects Mr. Hoover of harboring an overweening desire for the honor and of quietly pulling the wires here and there to achieve it.

He is reputed to regard Mr. Knox as not sufficiently liberal to qualify for the nomination. Moreover, the senator is said to be greatly disturbed by evidences of the close and friendly relations existing between Knox and Hoover on the one hand and Knox and the old guard easterners on the other.

Nor does Gov. Landon of Kansas appeal to Borah as a tried and true liberal, if current reports of the senator's present state of mind may be believed. Gov. Landon's recent keynote speech is said to have struck the Idaho senator as just the sort of pronouncement that might be calculated to win the plaudits of the old guard. So the senator is reputed to have said that Landon would not do.

Holds Vandenberg Liberal.

With Hoover, Knox and Landon crossed off the Borah slate, only two other widely discussed possibilities for the nomination are left—Senator Vandenberg of Michigan and Senator Dickinson of Iowa Senator Borah at various time has indicated his high opinion of Senator Vandenberg. In his estimation, apparently, Senator Vandenberg is an honest to goodness liberal.

The supposition, therefore, is that Mr. Borah, if unable to win the nomination for himself, would favor a compromise on Mr. Vandenberg. Of his attitude toward Senator Dickinson less is known, though the Idaho and Iowa senators have the friendliest relations.

HORNER VETOES PENSION RULE BY COUNTY JUDGES

Finds Act Unacceptable to Federal Board.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today vetoed house bill No. 32, which proposed to give county judges authority to set up local machinery to administer old age pensions, on the ground that its provisions wouldn't be acceptable to the federal social security board.

The bill had been nearly three months in passage, and in its final form represented compromises between many conflicting opinions in the legislature. It was introduced on Oct. 30 and was adopted on Jan. 22. However, the governor said in his veto message that the legislature could pass a bill for "an effective administration organization" within the next ten days.

Hope to Override Veto.

After the veto message was read to the house, a vote to override the veto was set for a special order of business tomorrow. Representative F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson] then intorduced a new bill proposing that the state welfare department, instead of the county judges, appoint the county welfare commissions, which the governor believes would meet federal requirements.

House members were astonished at the verbal spanking given the legislature. Gov. Horner was "disappointed" at the failure of the assembly to provide efficient administrative machinery, and was "shocked" by the legislature's further failure to enact bills dealing with dependent children and blind persons, or to do something regarding unemployment insurance.

Doubts Federal Acceptance.

"This bill does not now comply with requirements of the federal security act," the message continued. "Every indication which has been given us by the federal social security board has been to the effect that this type of administrative organization will not be approved. I am at a loss to understand why any one should favor legislation which will endanger our chances for securing many millions from the federal government to supplement state moneys for the relief of needy aged persons.

"No one approves more heartily than I do the true principle of home rule. Home rule, however, means local control over local functions. It certainly has no application to local control over state functions."

Wants Counties to Share Cost.

The message indicated further that the governor wants the counties to share the pension administrative costs with the state, and desires more administrative authority for the state department of public welfare. Unless the state department has more power, the message read, the federal government will not match the $15 a month pension which the state would pay.

Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Democratic majority leader, immediately took issue with the governor. He compared the provisions of house bill No. 32 with requirements set up in the federal act, and declared that the Illinois bill complies with every demand of the federal government.

Points Out State Control.

"If the payment of old age pensions is a state function, why should the counties share in the administrative costs?" asked Adamowski. "The governor says it is better for economy to have the counties pay part of the cost, but this bill gives the state powers to restrict the number of pension employés in the counties and limit their salaries, which would furnish an effective check on expenditures."

Unsuccessful attempts were made to adopt bills shortening the life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and transferring relief administration to the counties. Also defeated was a bill that would deprive the relief commission of any revenue from the sales tax and would reduce the excise rate from 3 to 2 per cent.

On the farm bloc "Soak Chicago" tax bills, Adamowski moved to strike the enacting clause, but the motion was defeated by downstaters. However, amendments were adopted so that property owners in city sections of townships would not be taxed a maximum of 30 cents per $100 valuation by both the city and the township.

SEN. BORAH OPPOSES DELEGATE CONTEST IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Mass., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Robert M. Washburn, president of the [T. R.] Roosevelt club of Boston, made public today a letter from Senator William E. Borah opposing any contest for delegates to the Republican national convention by his Massachusetts supporters.

"I am of the opinion that we ought not to undertake a contest in Massachusetts," Senator Borah wrote. "I had not thought at any time that it would be a practical thing to do."

He said that "under all the circumstances, and in view of the time which I must give to other parts of the country, where I have already made engagements, I am disposed to discourage you from going forward."

It was Washburn's plan to put a ticket of candidates for delegates, pledged to Borah, in the field for the presidential primary, April 28.

ELY PROPHESIES NEW DEAL WILL BEAT ROOSEVELT

Boston, Mass., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Liberty league Democrat, said today the reëlection of President Roosevelt was "an impossibility" unless the administration policies were changed.

Ely, who nominated Alfred E. Smith for President in 1932, announced in an interview he would lead a fight in Massachusetts for an uninstructed delegation to the Democratic national convention.

His successor in office, Gov. James M. Curley, a pioneer Roosevelt supporter and leader of the state democracy, has insisted the delegation should be pledged to renominate the President.

Asked if he would "take a walk" with former Gov. Smith from the convention if the administration was upheld in the party's national assembly, Ely replied.

"To take a walk you have to cross a bridge, and I'm not going to cross any bridges until I have to."

ALBERTA SOCIAL CREDITORS STUDY RULES OF ORDER

EDMONTON, Alberta, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Because not one social credit member of Alberta's legislature has ever sat in a legislative assembly, drilling in parliamentary procedure was the highlight of a two-day caucus of government members that opened today.

Robert A. Andison, clerk of the assembly, was the instructor.

Fifty-six of Alberta's total representation of 63 members were named from the social credit party in the last governmental elections. The party promised each legal resident of the province a monthly cash allowance from public funds.

SPEAKER BLOCKS MOVE FOR STATE PRISON INQUIRY

Legislature in Session "for Relief Only."

An effort to force a sweeping legislative investigation of conditions in all Illinois prisons was blocked last night in the lower house of the general assembly at Springfield after a joint resolution of both parties calling for the inquiry was introduced.

State Representative John F. Devine [Dem., Dixon], speaker of the house, forestalled the investigation, at least temporarily, by tabling the resolution. He said that the present special session of the assembly was called to consider relief legislation only and that according to the state constitution no other business can be introduced.

Speaker Devine added that he would consult Attorney General Kerner on the possibility of considering the resolution at this session, but that until he is assured such a course is possible, the measure will remain tabled.

New Resolution in Senate.

A similar resolution was introduced later in the evening in the senate by Senator James Monroe [Dem., Collinsville] and had the support of Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago]. By senate rules the resolution was automatically held over until tonight. Monroe and Ward contended that the appointment of a committee is not strictly legislative business, as are the relief bills, and therefore the assembly can act on the resolution at the special sesion.

The legislators' demand for an investigation into prison conditions resulted from public clamor following the murder on Jan. 28 in the Stateville penitentiary of Richard Loeb, one of the slayers of Bobby Franks.

Loeb, who with Nathan Leopold, was serving terms of 99 years and life imprisonment for the murder of the Franks boy, was slashed to death with a razor by a fellow convict, James Day, who asserted he acted in self-defense.

Five Accept Horner Invitation.

On Monday night Gov. Horner invited sixteen men to serve on a commission to investigate prison conditions. Republican and Democratic legislators alike asserted yesterday that the commission would only give the prison administration a "political whitewash." The legislators said that their committee could conduct an unlimited inquiry while the governor's commission would not receive much more than statements from voluntary witnesses.

Of the sixteen men invited to serve on the governor's commission, five accepted yesterday. They are State's Attorney Courtney, Circuit Judge John F. Prystalski, State Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston], State Representative Thomas Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], and Warden Roy Best of the Colorado state prison at Canon City. Albert D. Lasker of Chicago, former chairman of the United States shipping board, who was invited, is now vacationing in Florida and said he could not return in time for the investigation.

Other wardens and prison experts asked to serve are Oscar Lee of the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun; Lewis Lawes of Sing Sing prison, New York, and Sanford Bates of Washington, D. C., director of federal prisons.

G. O. P. WOMEN PLAN 'VICTORY LUNCHEON' 8 MONTHS BEFORE VOTE

Republican women are so confident of victory in the November election that they will hold a "victory luncheon" in the first week of March, eight months before the election. The affair will be the climax of a two day regional conference in the Palmer house, attended by 2,000 women from Chicago, the central west, and the far west.

Mrs. George W. Rogers, western director of Republican women's activities, announced yesterday that national committeewomen from the 29 states in the western division will be invited to the luncheon, together with the vice chairmen of the state central committee of each state in the fifth region. Mrs. Rogers said all other Republican women will be welcome.

The principal speaker will be Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal of Douglas, Ariz., national director of the Republican women's division.

LENDING POWER OF NEW DEAL CUT BY ONE BILLION

Roosevelt Finds Agencies Won't Need It.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—The potential lending power of far flung New Deal agencies will be curtailed by a billion dollars, President Roosevelt announced today. The action will have no effect on the continued annual deficits and the all-time record public debt of 30½ billion dollars.

When asked whether the new policy meant that the administration considered the emergency at an end the President replied that this was too broad a conclusion.

Mr. Roosevelt promised, in effect, that a billion dollars' worth of lending authorized by acts of congress would not be carried out. For example, the Home Owners' Loan corporation has passed on nearly all proposed loans and will not need between 500 million and a billion dollars, the President declared. Applications for HOLC loans closed last June 27. Outstanding loans of the agency amount to nearly 2 billion 900 dollars.

Certain All Will Pay.

With a show of asperity, the President denied that the public debt would be increased by HOLC. He insisted that the loans would be repaid.

Some observers regarded the Roosevelt announcement as a move to the right, a gesture to business which has been at odds with the New Deal over continued spending on experimentation and unbalanced budgets.

It was recalled that a month ago Robert V. Fleming, president of the American Bankers' association, carried a plea to the White House that the federal government start to relinquish its huge lending operations in favor of the banks of the country.

The President's announcement followed a two hour conference with cabinet members and fiscal officers. Among those attending were Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation; Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator; Chester Davis, administrator of the defunct AAA, and Cyril Upham, Morgenthau's contact man with congress.

Others in Like Situation.

Five or six other government lending agencies are similarly situated to the HOLC and will not need further advances from the treasury, the President said. Some of these agencies drain their funds from the RFC, while others go direct to the treasury, he added.

Asked whether it would be necessary to ask congress to cancel the authorizations, the President replied that it wasn't necessary, but if congressional action didn't follow he would send a letter telling about the situation.

The President admitted that the canceling the authorizations would not mean a saving and he denied that the action meant the liquidation of the agencies. He said that in the case of the HOLC, for example, some loans would run for twenty years.

Seek to Learn Totals.

Treasury officials said that they were studying the situation in an effort to arrive at the amount of funds in excess of the authorizations that the adencies would not require.

The RFC, largest of the government's lending agencies, has made loans of 4½ billion dollars of which nearly 3 billions have been repaid. Outstanding loans for other agencies, excluding HOLC, are as follows:

Commodity Credit corporation, $271,286,000; Public Works administration, $164,742,000; Regional Agricultural Credit corporation, $43,400,000; Federal Land banks, 2 billion 128 million; intermediate credit banks, $145,881,000; Farm Mortgage corporation, 794 millions; banks for coöperatives, 50 millions; home loan banks, 102 millions, and miscellaneous, 191 millions.

GOVERNOR CALLS A THIRD SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Opens Offensive Upon Political Foes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner made the Illinois general assembly a battleground for his fight for renomination with the issuance late today of a call for a third special session. The new session will convene at noon tomorrow and run concurrently with the first and second special sessions.

In the call the governor included six subjects, two of which had been promoted by his political advisers as being detrimental to the Cook county Democratic organization. These are permanent registration, and the Chicago park district consolidation act.

Supporters Urge Action.

The other four subjects in the call are occupational disease measures, elimination of the "gold clause" in the state security act to make it conform to federal law, grain storage in warehouses, and appropriations for the expenses of the third special session.

Agitation among Horner's followers for a third special session was started immediately after the governor's bid for organization support for renomination was turned down. Democratic slatemakers chose Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, as the organization candidate and the selection was ratified by the Cook county and the state central committees.

In the call the governor, who wasn't active in the fight by Republicans in the regular session for permanent registration, cites a need for strengthening election laws, and says that the park expenditures have increased.

Test of Governor's Strength.

Ever since the subject of permanent registration was brought up following the organization's rejection of the Horner candidacy, there has been speculation whether the governor can command 102 and 34 votes to have it adopted respectively in the house and senate as emergency legislation effective at once.

Many say that the governor can't get 102 votes, but hopes to embarrass the Cook county organization, which fought the "honest election" bills last spring on orders of County Chairman P. A. Nash. With the aid of Republicans, he may get 77 house and 26 senate votes to make it effective July 1.

Provisions of the state securities law respecting the medium of payment of certain securities is inappropriate, the call reads, in view of legislation recently enacted by congress and by a decision of the United States Supreme court. The proposed change in the grain storage is desirable, the call states, in view of proposed federal legislation. Industry and labor are said to have agreed on occupational disease and workmen's compensation bills to replace laws recently struck out by the state Supreme court.

SENATE REPEALS 3 ACTS TO LIMIT FARMING CROPS

Cotton, Tobacco, Potato Laws Up to House.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—In response to President Roosevelt's message of yesterday, the senate today adopted a resolution repealing the Bankhead cotton control act, the Kerr-Smith tobacco act, and the potato act. The house is expected to follow suit tomorrow and the three principal experiments in compulsory crop control will become economic history.

The measures were adopted by congress after experience had shown, according to their sponsors, that American farmers would not voluntarily limit thier production, at least in those commodities, under the benefit plans provided by the agricultural adjustment act. The acts which Mr. Roosevelt wants repealed provide penalty taxes for producers who raise more than their allotted amounts.

Move to Shorten Litigation.

The Supreme court decision in the Hoosac Mills case, which invalidated the AAA, held that congress had no power to compel farmers to reduce production, and reasoned from that premise that it likewise had no power to induce them to do so, since it lacked the power to compel. In the light of this position of the court, agricultural leaders in both houses of congress decided that the three compulsory acts would be thrown out as soon as the Supreme court could get to them.

President Roosevelt's recommendation, therefore, appealed to most members as being a step to prevent useless litigation. The senate adopted the repealing resolution without opposition or a record vote.

Take Up Cotton Surpluses.

Tomorrow, the committee will start consideration of a bill by Senator Smith under which the government would dispose of the surplus cotton it holds at the rate of 25,000 bales a week. Mr. Smith is of the opinion that such regular and compulsory marketing would have less effect on the price structure than would Secretary Wallace's plan of holding the cotton for disposal when prices are high.

The cotton fell into the hands of the government as a result of the loans made to producers at rates higher than the world price for cotton. As the loans became due, the farmers preferred to let the government keep the cotton, since they were unable to dispose of it at prices sufficiently high to repay the advances they had received.

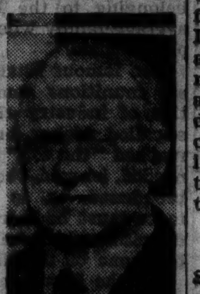
Philip S. Graver Takes Park Commissioner Seat

Philip S. Graver, vice president of the Graver Tank and Manufacturing company, was installed as a park district commissioner at a meeting of the board yesterday. Mr. Graver was appointed to the board by Mayor Kelly to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Martin Kennelly. Mr. Graver was a commissioner of the former south park system from 1928 until the park consolidation in 1934.

Assails Wallace as 'Misfit'; New Impeachment Cry Heard

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—The impeachment of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace for his recent attack upon the Supreme court's AAA decision as the "greatest legalized steal" in history again was suggested on the floor of the house today.



REPRESENTATIVE ALLEN TREADWAY.

In an attack upon Wallace as "a misfit," "a sensational notoriety seeker," and a "miserable failure," Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.], also wanted to know why President Roosevelt apparently had acquiesced in Wallace's remarks and had not reprimanded him.

"A week ago," Treadway began, addressing the members, "I stated that the insulting and untruthful remarks of the secretary of agriculture deserved impeachment. I repeat that at this time, especially in the light of subsequent events.

Cites President's Inaction.

"At his press conference that day the secretary displayed his usual ignorance in confessing that he didn't know the method of impeachment. Worse than that, he repeated his remarks for the moving pictures, and I am glad to say that in Massachusetts he was well booed by audiences.

"As a sensational notoriety seeker this man has been far more successful than as a secretary of agriculture. I dislike to believe that the President acquiesces in his cabinet member's remarks, but nothing has happened, although the President's attention undoubtedly has been directed to the incident. I recall that as a candidate in 1932 the President intimated that the Supreme court was dominated by the Republican party.

Terms Him "Great Failure."

"As to Wallace, before accusing the Supreme court, this great failure should inform himself of the facts. The processing taxes he speaks of never were in the treasury. They were impounded in the courts.

"Perhaps he merely thought he was acting in accord with the President, who suggested the passage of the Guffey act regardless of doubts as to its constitutionality. The President, however, has not insulted the Supreme court directly and why he allows his secretary of agriculture to do so remains to be explained."

When Treadway, remarking that Democrats were as critical of Wallace as Republicans, quoted Representative Tom Blanton [Dem., Tex.] as saying that "Wallace has done more harm in Texas than any other administrative officeholder," Blanton yelled,

"That's all right for us Democrats to criticize in our family! But we don't like you Republicans to butt in!"

Holds Impeachment "Useless."

"I know it would be useless to bring impeachment proceedings in this house because of the huge Democratic majority," Treadway concluded. "And there is a quicker way of getting at him and his kind, as will be proved at the polls next November."

Chairman Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.] of the committee on agriculture, sought to answer Treadway.

"Wallace has the right of free speech," he declared. "You don't judge a man by one statement. You judge him on his record, and a magnificent work has been done by the secretary of agriculture that can't be destroyed by a single sentence whether the Supreme court is justified or not."

Stainless Steel Coach to Be Exhibited Today

The Santa Fe railway will exhibit again today the new light stainless steel coach which was placed on display yesterday in the Dearborn street station. A company official said that the purchase of more cars of the same type would depend on the success of this car. It weighs 83,000 pounds — approximately half the weight of the conventional car — and seats fifty-two passengers instead of the customary eighty. The extra space is used for lounging and dressing rooms in the new car.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

EXPLODE LEGEND U. S. JOINED WAR TO SAVE MORGAN

British Records Show the Story Is False.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—J. P. Morgan & Co. today denied and disproved for the first time the 20 year old pacifist legend that the United States went to war to "bail them out" of a 400 million dollar loan to Great Britain.

The disclosure came as the senate munitions committee, which has been trying for some 20 months to prove the legend, resumed its examination of Mr. Morgan and his principal partners in the international banking house.

It was manifestly disconcerting for the inquisitors. Lawrence Brown, who was conducting the examination, quickly suggested: "Supposing we go on to something else." He then went into a 25 million dollar Italian loan floated by Lee, Higginson & Co.

It was the contention of the munitions committee first that the United States treasury actually paid off the 400 million dollar demand loan after America's entry into the war and second that the British treasury paid it with loans from the United States.

British Memorandum Introduced.

Both contentions were exploded when Thomas W. Lamont introduced into the record a memorandum compiled last July 31 by the secretary of the British treasury, after consultation with the lord commissioners of the treasury.

The document also apparently disposed of a third contention of the investigators, namely, that if the United States had not gone into the war the loan would never have been paid.

"I have laid before the lords commissioners of his majesty's treasury your letter of the 11th ultimo with reference to the so-called demand loan which was arranged by Messrs. J. P. Morgan & Co. on behalf of his majesty's government during the war," the document stated. "In reply I am directed to inform you that in the period immediately preceding the entry of the United States government into the war it was the intention of his majesty's government to issue a market loan out of the proceeds of which the demand loan would be repaid.

"The proposal to issue a market loan at this time, however, was abandoned in deference to views expressed by the United States treasury."

U. S. Treasury Blocked Payment.

The document went on to explain that after the United States entered the war the treasury expressed the wish that no part of the funds being advanced to Great Britain should be used for reduction of the demand loan, which amounted at this time to 345 million dollars. Before this wish was expressed, 100 million dollars out of an advance of 200 million dollars made on April 25, 1917, was temporarily applied on the demand loan. This amount was less than the expenditure of Great Britain for supplies in the United States between April 6, 1917, and April 26, 1917, while the demand loan was increased during that period by 91 million dollars.

The document stated that the demand loan was increased to 398 million dollars by May 16, 1917, with the final result that "in accordance with the wish of the United States treasury it was eventually repaid out of the independent resources of his majesty's government, including 80 million dollars received from the United States government for certain British ships taken over by the American authorities, proceeds of the sales of securities, gold shipments, and from the spring of 1919 onwards, of purchase of exchange."

Academic Discussion of War.

The document also explained that the United States treasury was supplied with periodical statements showing the disposition of government loans to Great Britain and "thus afford independent proof that it [the loan] was repaid from other sources."

After some prefunctory allusions to the 25 million dollar Italian loan, which the treasury did pay, the senators and their investigators launched into a philosophical discussion of the causes and effects of war, which the Morgan partners evidently regarded as rather academic for their line of endeavor.

Loans and Territory.

The committee, earlier in the day, had ventured into the speculative realms in connection with American loans to the allies and their relation to territorial ambitions of the European powers.

Russell Leffingwell, a wartime assistant secretary of the treasury and now a Morgan partner, said he had no knowledge of such territorial ambitions and was not concerned with them at the time.

Raushenbush recalled evidence showing that President Wilson took the position that the allies would be financially in our hands at the close of the war and we would be able, at that time, to force our peace objectives upon them, regardless of territorial engagements. He then read a letter from Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo to President Wilson, urging that the allies be put on notice "to the effect that the making of such loans is not to be construed as committing this government in any way to the national objectives which the various powers have in view."

No Action Taken.

President Wilson referred the letter to Secretary of State Robert Lansing, who objected to McAdoo's suggestion and nothing ever came of it. Raushenbush referred to McAdoo's "remarkable foresight" and demanded to know why his suggestion was not carried out.

"We made every loan with a vigorous inquiry as to whether it would conduce to the winning of the war. That was our sole purpose," replied Mr. Leffingwell. "They were not political loans. We were in a war."

Senator Nye insisted that there was a clash of opinion in the Wilson administration, that the policy of making "victory" uppermost would inevitably defeat President Wilson's ultimate aims of "making the world safe for democracy."

"We were up against a practical problem. We were not concerned about academic and philosophical questions," Mr. Leffingwell declared.

"You don't win a war except in a technical, military sense, do you?" asked Raushenbush. "You may crush Germany and Hitler will spring up. Isn't the only way you win a war in the sense that President Wilson meant?"

Recalls Practical Problem.

"You are getting into the field of philosophy," Mr. Lamont interposed. "Your question is whether in a sense anybody ever wins a war. We were confronted with a practical problem and that was to lick Germany as quickly as possible."

The committee's tender solicitude today for the ideals of President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo was particularly noticeable, for only two weeks ago Senator Nye was assailed as a "coward" for calling the dead President a "falsifier." The controversy in the senate reached such intensity that the committee, for a time, despaired of getting any more funds, and this may or may not have accounted for the kid glove treatment today. The Morgan hearing is expected to be concluded tomorrow.

LIGGETT WIDOW ADDS TO CHARGES AGAINST OLSON

State Closes Its Case in Slaying Trial.

impeachment charges before the legislature were secret, and since my naming them would merely expose those legislators to the bitter animosity of the highway department and state oil inspector's office, who would work against them in their own districts, I certainly will not aid the vengeance of the Olson all-party machine by disclosing their names."

"Rehash," Says Governor.

From Gov. Olson:

"The so-called Liggett impeachment charges were largely a rehash of false statements that some opposing politicians had been whispering or shouting for a long time.

"The attempt to connect these charges with Liggett's death is pure bunk. I regarded his paper with contempt and the people of Minnesota gave no credence to his oral or written statements."

Recalls Paper's Tactics.

Mrs. Liggett's reply:

"It is curious in view of Olson's statement that he never harbored resentment of a personal nature against newspaper critics that immediately upon Walter Liggett's assassination the governor went out of his way to malign the memory of the murdered man, and that his personal organ, The Minnesota Leader, whose editor runs nothing without strict supervision from the governor, spread filthy lies about Olson's slain foe.

"Absolutely knowing the falsity of his own charges both Gov. Olson and the Minnesota Leader have repeatedly insisted that we were inspired and supported by the late Senator Tom Schall. This is an unqualified falsehood. Liggett never received one nickel from Tom Schall.

"Never was he in communication with Schall in regard to the policies of The Midwest American. Furthermore, as soon as Walter Liggett had been murdered and was unable to defend himself, Gov. Olson and his press bureau deliberately lied and said that my husband had received bribes from the underworld of Minneapolis. Not only were these statements utterly false, but Gov. Olson, who through his spies knew of our poverty and followed our every move, knew perfectly well that they were false."

"Can Name" Her "Inciters."

From the governor:

"Since her husband's murder Mrs. Liggett has been incited by some crafty politically minded men to make various statements reflecting upon me. I can name the men if I am challenged."

Challenges His Statement.

The widow's answer:

"As for Olson's statement that I have been incited by some crafty politically minded men to make various statements and that he can name the men if challenged, I should hereby like to challenge him.

"I have been ill, living almost in complete seclusion, and have been inspired in no statement whatever by any politician."

Gov. Olson's assertion:

"For Mrs. Liggett I have only sympathy. If an act of mine could help her I would gladly perform it."

Wants None of Sympathy.

From Mrs. Liggett:

"He concludes by saying that 'For Mrs. Liggett I have only sympathy. If any act of mine could help her, I would gladly perform it!' I feel that I have been injured, that my life has been wrecked as completely as it is within the power of his machine to wreck it.

"My children are fatherless. In trying to gather the wreckage together so that I can support my two children, I can do without either sympathy or aid from any such source as Gov. Olson."

Witness Is Found.

Other developments today in the trial and investigation of the criminopolitical alliances that Liggett was exposing included:

From Gardner, Ill., Mrs. Annette Fawcett, witness reported missing, wired state's attorneys she would be available to testify when called.

The Minneapolis city council upheld Mayor Thomas E. Latimer's veto of an amendment to the liquor ordinance which would have permitted convicted felons and bootleggers to engage in the liquor business. At the same time 12 license renewals were denied because of the applicants' ineligibility under the clause which the council last week voted 14 to 12 to remove.

Newspaper Inquiry.

A Minneapolis newspaper in a front page announcement revealed that its sports editor had been turned loose on a special assignment to "take Minneapolis apart."

His first effort, given prominent display, dealt with the Liggett murder and said that "gin, gals, and G-men finally have bought chips in the current caper of the law to mop up the city's precincts and wring out the rackets until the motive for the blotting out of Liggett is uncovered."

J. P. MORGAN DEFINES 'LEISURE CLASS' AS FAMILY WITH A MAID

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—J. P. Morgan defined today as belonging to the leisure class "the average family who can afford to employ a maid."

The famous financier told the senate munitions committee that taxation of industry and persons in the so-called higher brackets had about reached "the top." If more taxes are needed, he said, the tax base must be broadened, or, in other words, the taxes must be increased on the middle class, which he described as "the backbone of the nation."

"If the leisure class is destroyed," Mr. Morgan said, "civilization itself will be ruined."

If another war involves the United States, Mr. Morgan told the committee, the nation will have to finance it "just as it did before."

"Either that or you stay out," he said, "and you may not be able to stay out."

SHIPPERS WARN THEY WON'T USE FLORIDA CANAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] produced before the senate commerce committee today a number of letters from steamship operators saying they would not use the proposed Florida ship canal, even if no tolls were charged.

The committee has under consideration a resolution by Mr. Vandenberg to appoint a special senate committee to investigate economic necessity of the project.

The companies he quoted included the Socony Vacuum company, Standard Vacuum Transportation company, Cities Service Transportation company, American Shipping Transit corporation, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, American-West African line, A. H. Bull & Co. of New York, Texas company, Sun Oil company, Gulf Refining company, and Richfield Oil company of California.

The letters asserted that the expense of employing canal pilots added to the risk of damage to ships would offset saving in navigation costs. The proposed canal would cost between $140,000,000 and $200,000,000.

LEADERS DECIDE TO 'PIGEONHOLE' NEUTRALITY BILL

Plan to Extend Present Measure for Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—The possibility of new neutrality legislation at this session of congress became remote today. Leaders in both senate and house leaned toward an agreement to extend the present neutrality law, which expires Feb. 29, for one year, allowing more time for consideration of the new bill which has been attacked as tending to draw the United States into the league of nations.

The senate foreign relations committee is expected to vote tomorrow on whether a new bill should be passed at this session or to follow the recommendation of Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] that a resolution be adopted extending the life of the present act for twelve months.

Charge of Lobby Is Heard.

The house rules committee today listened to a charge by Chairman Sam D. McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.] of the foreign affairs committee that "a powerful lobby" is seeking to block the administration's permanent neutrality bill because it might reduce foreign trade.

McReynolds asked the rules committee to give neutrality legislation the right of way in the house and moved for eight hours' debate on the question. The committee will meet again tomorrow to hold further hearings, but there were private predictions that the leaders have decided against permitting the controversial measure to reach the floor until the senate has indicated its course of action.

"Some interests fighting the bill desire big trade, open trade," McReynolds charged in a plea to the committee. "Some members of the house don't want to vote for a section providing for discretionary embargoes on shipments of war materials to belligerent nations because it would interfere with some classes of trade."

"Trade Loss Cheaper Than War."

McReynolds asserted that the measure "represents abandonment of America's policy of freedom of the seas to a great extent," but rights under international law are reserved in the bill, he added.

"It means that we retain the rights, but won't fight for them," remarked Representative Joseph W. Martin [Rep., Mass.].

"That's it," McReynolds assented. "But if the people of this country want neutrality, as they say they do, they are going to have to pay something for it. If we pass any bill to keep us out of war it would be much cheaper to lose a little trade than to lose millions of lives and billions of dollars as in the last war."

Asked about the assertion of John Bassett Moore, authority on international law, that the bill was a "curiour blend of homicidal with suicidal mania," McReynolds said he thought the statement was "far fetched."

REP. ADAIR OF QUINCY BACKED FOR JUDGESHIP

Major or Briggle in Appeals Post Seen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Representative J. Le Roy Adair, Democrat of Quincy, Ill., was indorsed by sixteen of his Illinois Democratic colleagues for appointment as federal judge in the southern district at Springfield today.

J. LE ROY ADAIR.
[A. P. Photo.]

The indorsement was made on the theory that either Federal Judge J. Earl Major or Federal Judge Thomas G. Briggle will be named to the vacancy on the bench of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago. The vacancy was caused by the death of Judge Louis FitzHenry last November.

Dieterich Favors Elevation.

Senator William H. Dieterich, a member of the senate judiciary committee, has declared himself for the elevation of either one of the Springfield district judges and is said to be behind the Adair movement.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis has not committed himself on the vacancy, other than to write a letter to the Chicago Federation of Labor expressing himself as favorable to the candidacy of Benjamin F. Goldstein, Chicago lawyer, whose study under Prof. Felix Frankfurter, whose Harvard law lassses have filled New Deal legal posts, has brought him to the favorable attention of the White House.

Assert They'll Fill Post.

More recently, Lewis has declared that the administration did not intend to fill the Circuit Court of Appeals vacancy, because, since repeal, the docket of the court has been light. The department of justice refuted Senator Lewis and announced that Attorney General Homer Cummings will make a recommendation as soon as he has completed a study of candidates.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois is still conceded as having the best chance for the post should he want it. The position was offered indirectly to the governor before the Illinois Democratic organization dropped him as the party's choice for reëlection. At that time Horner said he would not accept the post.

CLAIM JAPS PLAN TO BUILD WARSHIP OF 45,000 TONS

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The Daily Express today featured a sensational story that Japan is planning to build the biggest warships in the world.

The paper, publishing information claimed to have been received by a European country not a member of the naval conference from a former naval attaché at Tokio, alleged Japan is preparing secretly to lay down battleships of 45,000 tons with 16 or 18 inch guns when the Washington naval treaty expires.

Other units of the reported super-Japanese navy would be battleships of 15,000 tons, a powerful flotilla of 2,400 tons destroyers and 3,000 ton submarine cruisers armed with two eight inch guns.

[Japan's comparative tonnage strength at the start of the 1935 London naval parley was given as 272,070 tons, compared with 474,750 for Great Britain and 455,400 for the United States. The British battleship Hood is the largest war craft with a total displacement of 42,100 tons.]

WPA CREWS PUT IN HALF TIME FOR $10,000,000 PAY

Figures on Cold Losses Are Discontinued.

Although "security wage" employés in Illinois WPA construction projects have received $10,000,000 for full time wages since Jan. 1, they have worked only about half time, according to an offhand estimate yesterday by Deputy Administrator Ralph H. Burke. One project supervisor who bosses 1,000 men declared that in the past month they have worked only ten out of a scheduled 120 hours.

The actual extent of WPA's "weather loss" in January will never be known, however, because the WPA area statistical office decided to skip that month in compiling reports showing hours credited but not worked, it was disclosed yesterday. In December reports showed a loss of 14 per cent. Data for February will be compiled.

Denies Move to Cover Up.

Malcolm Morrow, chief statistician, denied that the temporary discontinuance of the reports was for the purpose of concealing the loss in hours worked. He said his office was undermanned in January.

Mr. Burke was inclined to minimize the seriousness of this loss upon the WPA program, stating that WPA's primary purpose is to "put bread in the mouths of people who were on relief."

However, H. E. Hudson, state director of construction projects, indicated his desire to cut down the loss by expressing disagreement with the common practice of excusing workers if the temperature stands at 15 degrees above zero. On Monday 50 project supervisors were instructed not to follow this practice any longer unless wind or snow made work virtually impossible.

"There is no reason for setting 15 degrees or even 10 degrees as minimum temperature for work," Mr. Hudson declared. "While we wouldn't work in subzero weather, it is quite possible that zero or 5 degrees above would be suitable for work if the men are sheltered by hills or are in a ditch."

Local Expenses Go On.

In addition to the cost of idleness borne by WPA are the expenditures which must be made—without return, in bad weather—by local governments contributing supervisory employés and equipment to WPA projects. In many cases there are fixed charges to be paid by the sponsoring agencies regardless of whether work is going forward on a project.

For instance, supervisory salaries must be paid. In Chicago, according to David McLean, in charge of street repair and resurfacing projects for the city, hired trucks cost $1,100 a day even when they are not used. Steam must be kept up in the city's asphalt plant even though WPA workers do not work.

KEOGH SANITY JURY DISAGREES IN SECOND TRIAL

A jury in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph Burke was locked up for the night at 8:15 o'clock last night when it had failed to reach a verdict in the second sanity trial of John W. Keogh, slayer of Attorney Christopher Kinney in the courtroom of Judge John Prystalski on Jan. 13. The jury was reported to stand 8 to 4 in favor of declaring Keogh insane.

If a verdict is reached during the night it will be returned this morning. The case went to the jury at 4:45 p. m. yesterday after the 72 year old defendant had delivered another long lecture on the subject which has obsessed him for many years—reapportionment in Illinois. He declared:

"I think I acted as a clever, inventive lawyer. If that is paranoia more lawyers ought to have it."

Earlier in the day Dr. H. Douglas Singer, who had been retained by Keogh's daughter, Mrs. Ruth Dickinson, reaffirmed the testimony of two other alienists that Keogh is a dangerous type of paranoiac. Despite similar testimony at a previous trial Keogh was found sane.

Ground Broken for New Oak Park Sewer System

Carl A. Bauer, Illinois director of the Federal Works administration, and James A. Howe, president of the village of Oak Park, broke ground yesterday for construction of the new $2,000,000 Oak Park intercepting sewer system. The ceremonies were held at East avenue and Harrison street. The sewer will extend under East avenue from North avenue to Roosevelt road, where it will empty into the Chicago sanitary district system. The PWA is paying $735,000 of the cost and Oak Park is paying the balance.

MINNESOTA FACTORY DRIVEN FROM STATE BY BURDEN OF TAXES

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 4.—Plans of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company to open a plant in Detroit because of "confiscatory" taxes in Minnesota were announced today by William L. McKnight, president.

McKnight said the company in deciding to establish a rubber cement plant at Detroit digressed from its policy of concentrating operations here in view of taxation policies "more unfavorable to industry than in such states as Michigan."

The company employs 1,091 persons here on an annual $1,300,000 pay roll. McKnight attacked Minnesota's corporate excess tax particularly, as well as the property tax and threatened increase in corporate income and moneys and credits taxes.

ACCUSED RELIEF WORKERS CHARGE POLITICS; FREED

Ten $55 a month employés of the Works Progress administration, arrested by state highway police on charges of driving overloaded trucks, were dismissed yesterday by Judge George M. Blatt of Joliet, sitting in County court.

The truck drivers and their superiors declared during the trial, which began last Friday, that the charges were trumped up as a political reprisal because friends of Gov. Horner had been barred from WPA projects where they had attempted to campaign for the governor. The state police testified that the arrests were made on the "complaints of citizens."

William E. Borg, superintendent of a WPA project at Church street and McCormick road, asserted that on three occasions just before Jan. 11, when the arrests began, political workers had tried to circulate among the relief crews to obtain signatures on a nominating petition for Gov. Horner. Each time, Borg said, guards turned them away.

After dismissing the truck drivers, Judge Blatt turned to State Policemen Anthony Martorano and Frank Rizzo and said:

"I think that in the future the highway police can do better than arrest $55 a month work relief employés."

CHANGE IN TIME MARCH 1 VOTED BY PARK RIDGE

The Park Ridge city council passed an ordinance last night providing for the adoption of eastern standard time as official in the suburb after March 1. This follows recent adoption of similar measures in other suburbs, to conform to the change of time in Chicago on that date.

Jose was found guilty of passing a worthless check on a south side merchant. "I received the honorary title of lieutenant colonel at St. Charles and that made me gentleman," Jose replied when Judge Braude asked him if there was any reason why he should not be sentenced.

'GIGOLO' PLACED ON PROBATION IN $18,000 SWINDLE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Henry Guttman, convicted of defrauding wealthy Mrs. Blanche Sewell of $18,000 in securities, won 10 years' probation today, nine months of which must be served in a county road camp.

"He did not become a 'gigolo' because he wanted to, but because somewhere back in Europe his father and mother were sick and needed money," pleaded his attorney, Miss Anna Zacsek, former actress.

"The purchase of attractive young men and the purchase of love by wealthy women who frequent European watering places is a common occurrence. Henry was ruined because he was a stupid young idiot and gave himself to a woman who had so much money that the purchase of Henry Guttman for a few thousand dollars wasn't very important."

On his release from the road camp, Guttman must start a savings account, Judge Thomas P. White ordered.

Mrs. Sewell is the mother of Barton Sewell, wealthy sportsman involved last year in "wife swapping" divorce charges.

Baldwin Park, Cal., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Mabel Stark resumed her argument today with Nellie—and won.

The noted woman animal trainer and the tigress clashed four months ago and Miss Stark has spent most of her time since in a hospital recovering from her injuries.

Miss Stark entered a cage at circus winter headquarters here today. "Let 'em come," she signaled, and 17 tigers, including Nellie, loped down the runway. It was now or never.

"Up!" Miss Stark commanded, snapping her whip at Nellie.

Nellie growled, crouched, hesitated, then slowly, sullenly mounted her pedestal. A few seconds later, urged by Miss Stark's whip and chair, she pushed a ball around the ring.

"You've got to be boss," said Miss Stark, "or find new work."

MICHIGAN AREA PROVES SUCCESS OF TIME SAVING

Change Is Held Beneficial to Health, Business.

BY LLOYD WENDT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Holland, Mich., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Chicago's plan to gain sunlight and business advantages by changing from central to eastern standard time on March 1 has been given a practical test in Michigan and residents of the western part of the state heartily indorse the change after five years' experience with it.

Western Michigan is only five minutes sun time from Chicago, so the time experience of the two areas should provide almost an exact parallel. Citizens of Paw Paw, Kalamazoo, Dowagiac, and Holland declare that eastern time, opposed at the beginning now would be given a nine-to-one vote of approval. Farmers in the surrounding area agree that eastern time has worked no hardships for them.

Cite Health Advantages.

In Kalamazoo, officials, business men, and workers interviewed unanimously declared that their city would not think of abandoning eastern time. It has brought, they said, the health, economic, and recreational advantages promised Chicago. In addition, it is reducing trafic accidents.

E. E. Norman, general superintendent of water and electricity for the city of Kalamazoo, said eastern time has not only reduced lighting costs for the individual consumer but also has reduced electric rates in general.

Mr. Norman also cited savings in electric rates to factories and said that Chicago should save millions in lighting costs by adopting eastern time.

Mayor Tells Business Gains.

Mayor Paul Todd, vice president of A. M. Todd & Co., large industrial chemists, told of business advantages.

"We ship to all parts of the United States," he said. "Eastern time has given us definite business advantages. About ten years ago we tried eastern time for two years, then abandoned it. The benefits were so obvious, however, that the public demanded it again."

Dr. John MacGregor, leading child specialist in Kalamazoo, said: "You bet we like eastern time. It's an obvious health measure. Children and adults alike need all the sun they can get. You can't speak against the time change from a health standpoint."

"We like eastern time because it is reducing accidents," said Capt. Dee Williams, chief of the Kalamazoo accident prevention bureau. "Every one knows that the accident frequency is greatest in darkness. If we take away darkness from the afternoon rush hour accidents will decrease. They have here. That alone sells us on eastern time."

School Official Backs Plan.

W. M. Kilgore, who lives on a farm on route 6, near Kalamazoo, said that he at first opposed eastern time.

"I am a member of the Millwood school board," he said. "We didn't want eastern time because we thought it would get the kids up in the dark. On a few mornings it does, but every afternoon in the winter it brings them home while its light and they have a chance to play. Also, we use less light at school. And that should help their eyes. Our board is now 100 per cent for eastern time."

Holland fought adoption of eastern time by Michigan in 1931 and appeared before the interstate commerce commission in opposition to the plan. Today a cursory survey failed to reveal anyone opposing the plan.

"We didn't want eastern time at first because we thought it would be hard on school children," said Mayor Nicodemus Bosch, a manufacturer. "Now we know better. The children have more time in open air and they get just as much rest. We like eastern time for business, but it is the children who really count."

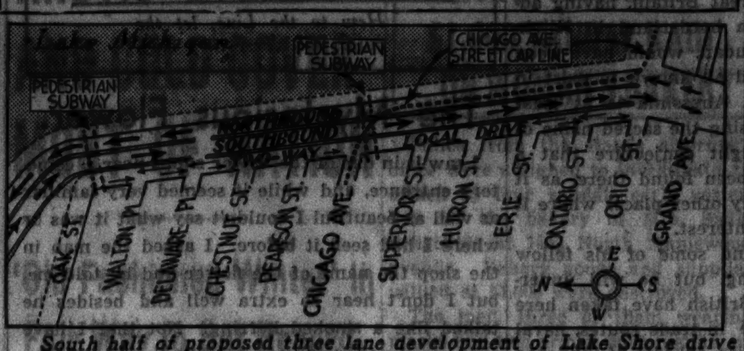
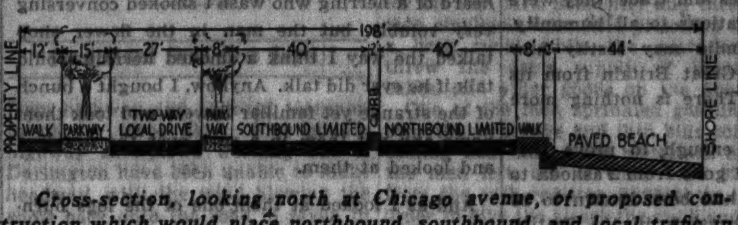
LAKE SHORE DRIVE PROJECT



South half of proposed three lane development of Lake Shore drive between the outer drive bridge and North avenue.



Cross-section, looking north at Chicago avenue, of proposed construction which would place northbound, southbound, and local trafic in three separate roadways.

PLANS APPROVED FOR LAKE SHORE DRIVE EXPANSION

Parks Renew Fight to Rip Up Car Tracks.

Plans for reconstruction of Lake Shore drive between North avenue and the north approach to the outer link bridge at Ohio street were approved yesterday at a meeting of the park board. The board ordered a renewal of the 15 year fight for the removal of the street car tracks from the drive in order to make way for the project. James M. Slattery, attorney for the board, said a petition for the removal would be filed this week with the Illinois commerce commission.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district, said work on the new drive would start as soon as the tracks, which run from Chicago avenue to Navy pier, are removed. He estimated the total cost at $150,000, to be derived from a park board loan and grant of $1,700,000 from the federal Public Works administration.

Details of Development.

According to plans drawn by Otto K. Jelinek, parks trafic engineer, the new drive would consist of three parallel roadways. The roadway nearest the lake would be for north bound through trafic. Curbing would separate this lane from the center roadway, which would carry southbound through trafic.

A parkway with trees would divide the center lane from the landward roadway, in which local trafic would move in both directions. The local lane would be accessible from every street which it crossed, but the continuous parkway and curbing would be broken only at Ohio street, Delaware place, and North avenue to let vehicles enter or leave the express lanes.

Salvage Part of Present Drive.

The express roadways are each to be 40 feet wide, and the local thoroughfare 27 feet wide, from Ohio street to a point near the junction of Lake Shore drive and Michigan avenue at Oak street, where all three lanes will increase to 45 feet.

The landward half of the present 50 foot Lake Shore drive is to be retained, according to Mr. Dunham, as the new local roadway. Down the other half of the present drive would lie the new parkway with its trees, and several feet of the new central [southbound] thoroughfare.

Ground for the rest of the north and south express roadways would be gained by displacing the car tracks between Ohio street and Chicago avenue, and by abandoning the bridle path between Chicago avenue and North avenue.

Wishes Tracks Cleared Away.

The plans envision retaining the row of trees which stands along the landward side of the present drive, according to Mr. Dunham, and the proposal of the Chicago Surface Lines to relocate its tracks along there is unacceptable.

Mr. Dunham said the new plans would interfere nowhere with beach facilities, except to narrow the wide cement walk along the lake. Pedestrian tunnels would afford access to the sands at Chicago avenue, Oak street, Division street, Schiller street, and North avenue. In Lincoln park other bridle paths would make up for those destroyed.

CENSUS BUREAU PUTS U. S. POPULATION AT 127 MILLION IN 1935

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Discarding the curving lines of a graph for a system of comparative analysis, the census bureau decided today that the nation's population as of 1935 was 127,521,000. This was a gain of less than three-quarters of 1 per cent over 1934, continuing the trend of the five past years, when population growth proceeded only half as rapidly as in the 1920-'30 decade.

While census experts declined to comment on the significance of the figures, outside specialists have predicted the less rapid rate of growth was leading toward a virtually stable population.

The following table shows the population trend, giving an estimate for each year as of July 1, with the April 1, 1930, figure representing a physical count:

1930 [April 1]	122,775,046	.....
1930 [July 1]	123,091,000	.....
1931	124,113,000	0.83
1932	124,974,000	0.69
1933	125,770,000	0.64
1934	126,626,000	0.68
1935	127,521,000	0.71

The bureau calculated that if the 1930-'35 rate of annual growth of 904,000 was maintained until the end of the decade the nation's population in 1940 would be around 132,000,000.

ACT NEXT WEEK ON PURCHASE OF 83 STREET CARS

Engineers Expected to O. K. Streamliners.

The board of supervising engineers will meet early next week to consider—and probably to decide on—the proposal of the Chicago Surface lines to purchase 83 new streamlined street cars, it was stated yesterday at the offices of the board.

The surface lines, which announced plans two weeks ago for buying the new cars at a cost of $1,245,000, must get the authority of the board to make the expenditure. After that body has approved the move the lines must finally have the consent of the federal court under whose jurisdiction they have operated during eight years of receivership.

Mayor Objects to Policy.

Despite the opposition of Mayor Kelly and the traction subcommittee of the city council to the use of the 19 million dollar renewal and depreciation fund for the purchase of cars before a new ordinance is adopted, the opinion is expressed by transportation authorities that the supervising board probably will approve the expenditure. The opinion is based on the past policy and attitude of the board in approving property renewals.

The board of supervising engineers was created by the 1907 traction ordinances. Its chief duties are to conserve the property account of the operating companies; to account for receipts and expenditures; to determine the just division of net receipts between the city and the companies, and otherwise to see that the companies comply with the terms of the ordinance.

The Members of the Board.

Bion J. Arnold has been chairman of the board since its inception nearly thirty years ago. He was named chairman in the ordinance following his services as a member of the old traction valuation commission [1906-1907]. The board has three other members, one named by the mayor and two by the operating companies. Philip J. Kealy now represents the city, and Harvey B. Fleming and E. J. McIlraith represent the companies of which they are officials.

The 19 million dollar renewal fund on which the surface lines propose to draw for purchasing the new cars has not been touched since 1920 when, after protracted controversy, the new fund was set up on authority of the old public utilities commission.

CONGRESS INVITES FASCISM.

Some Americans think Fascism is closer to possibilities than the average man is aware. The average man is likely to believe that after all things will be kept within common sense, and he is sometimes wrong. A good many things now being done have no warant in common sense or common justice.

Each New Deal session of congress is worse than its predecessor. Each picks up where the other left off and goes further. The country is big and has proved that it can take a lot of punishment. Is it also to be proved true that the bigger they are the harder they fall?

Fascism is a danger when the self-sustaining majority in the country loses hope. Hard times and bad government may reduce the majority, but so long as it is not affected by panic it will believe in recovery. In Europe they speak of the middle classes. When they have been destroyed dictatorship walks in.

People who fear Fascism in the United States may not see the gate by which, if it comes, it will enter. Congress is that gate. The wild money men in the two houses are determined to add a panic to the revolution just as the revolution was added to the depression. They will monkey with the national finances until they have wrecked the self-supporting class, destroyed their property and their revenue, impoverished them, taken away their social security, made the banks insolvent, and ruined the nation.

Mr. Roosevelt's complicity is such that he cannot stop the congressmen who have gone out of their heads. There's nothing to indicate that he wants to stop them. In ruining the republican form of government they will ruin themselves, but that will be no consolation to their victims. Representative democracy is the first thing that disappears when a whole nation is bankrupt and everybody is looking for a life line. If congress reduces every American home to despair it will be responsible for the crash making a dictatorship unescapable.

ETHIOPIAN GOLD AND BRITISH MORALITIES.

H. N. Brailsford is an English public policy writer who probably would describe himself as a liberal. The London Spectator has been regarded as a periodical of liberal opinion. Mr. Brailsford is fairly well known to a number of American readers, and recently he was here on a lecture tour. In a Baltimore speech he said, "There is talk of gold and oil in Abyssinia, but I believe that if these were there in such a quantity as to be commercially valuable Abyssinia would have been absorbed by the British empire fifty years ago."

When this observation reached Great Britain the editor of the Spectator remarked to his readers that if America would detain at Ellis Island such English lecturers as Mr. Brailsford before they could say such things, Anglo-American relations would be improved and better understood. To this Mr. Brailsford replied in Spectator's Vox Pop that he believed he was within the privileges of free speech as understood by Americans if not as understood by the English. The editor of the Spectator was unimpressed and repeated his statement that there is some limit "to the multitude of sins which the sacred name of free speech may cover."

Fifty years ago may be taken as meaning anything from two to three generations, and Mr. Brailsford might have pointed out that in the '80s the British were engaged in pushing their interests into Egypt, that in '85 Gordon was killed at Khartoum, that in '86 Upper Burma was annexed to British India, that in '88 a protectorate was established over North Borneo, that in '90 Britain obtained Zanzibar, that in '91 a protocol was signed with Italy in which Great Britain gave Abyssinia to the Italians, that in '95, following the development of gold mines in the South African republic, trouble began with Kruger and the Boers, and that Jameson made his raid on Johannesburg; that in '96 the expedition against Ashantee was followed by the deportation of the king, that in '96 Kitchener advanced in the Sudan, that in '98 the French Maj. Marchand was told to get out of Fashoda on the White Nile, that in '99 the British were at war with the Boers, that in 1902 the British were ever in the hemisphere coercing Venezuela, and in 1903 control of the Persian gulf was decided.

The probability that Great Britain, having advanced to the Abyssinian borderland in Kitchener's conquest of the Sudan, would have been attracted by any gold and oil known to exist in commercial quantities in Abyssinia is at least reasonable. Without abusing the sacred name of free speech any one might conjecture that a moral duty would have been found there, as it has been found in so many other places where it fell in with the national interest.

Mr. Brailsford must find some of his fellow countrymen quite amusing, but he will understand them. What the British have taken here and there and everywhere in trade routes, naval bases, protectorates, colonies, spheres of influence and dominions, in resources and trade they were impelled to take by obligations to all humanity. America, Ireland, and India may testify how difficult it is to divorce Great Britain from its sense of responsibility. There is nothing more tenacious.

South Africa alone is enough to prove that Kitchener would not have gone from Fashoda to Addis Ababa if Ethiopia had been known to be rich in gold and oil. Abyssinia in the British empire? The suggestion lacks historical credibility.

THE MYTH OF JUDICIAL USURPATION.

There is a widespread belief in this country that the Supreme court is a usurper. Every so often you will hear some one say that the constitution did not give the courts the right to declare laws invalid. John Marshall, they assert, invented the doctrin for which there was no warant except in his own mind and will.

The facts belie these statements at every point. There is positive proof that a large number of the members of the constitutional convention intended to give the Supreme court the right to invalidate laws. There is excellent reason for believing that the great majority in the convention were of the same mind. The matter was freely discussed in the ratifying conventions in the states and is set forth clearly in the Federalist. This is not the place to argue the historical point, but any one who wishes to pursue the matter will find the facts in Prof. Beard's "The Supreme Court and the Constitution"; in Beveridge's "Life of Marshall," and in Prof. A. C. McLaughlin's "Constitutional History of the United States," to mention only three volumes among many.

That is part of the answer. The rest is contained in the fact that 135 years have elapsed since the so-called usurpation took place. In that time a dozen amendments to the constitution have been enacted, but the people have never seen fit to take from the judiciary their right to invalidate laws. No effort in this direction has ever reached first base. That being so, it seems fair to conclude that the people are at least content with the court's interpretation of its powers.

Those who say that the will of the people [as expressed by a rubber stamp congress] must not be thwarted might well consider that the right of the court to invalidate laws is also the will of the people, with 135 years of approval behind it.

WHY STOP HALF WAY?

The announcement of Secretary of Commerce Roper that the United States government will advance the necessary funds to construct a luxury liner to replace the Leviathan should be only partially acceptable to the American public. That the vessel is to be a sister ship to the Washington and Manhattan is somewhat gratifying in view of the pressure to build a monstrosity of the type of the Normandie and Queen Mary, but the loss of an opportunity to build a truly American ship is disappointing.

The Washington and Manhattan of the United States Lines have been popular ships ever since they were built because they cater to American tastes, are manned by American crews, and because they offer single class accommodations. They represent, however, only a step in the transformation of the European type vessel into something in harmony with other modes of American transportation as produced by our railways, airways, bus lines, and the Pullman company.

United States steamship men should study the experience of the air lines. From the start competing companies were formed to offer service on the most popular routes. After ten years of experience they discovered that they were fighting among themselves for a patronage of less than a half million regular air passengers. Common sense directed a concerted effort to develop air mindedness in a larger public through larger ships, lower fares, and faster service.

Overseas travelers represent a similarly limited quantity which the Normandie tries to entice from the passenger rolls of the Bremen and Europa and which the Queen Mary will in its turn seek to draw from the Normandie. In the meantime the United States citizen of moderate means, although his interest in travel has been stimulated in recent years by the airplane, the automobile, and faster trains, casts aside the alluring literature of the steamship lines, awed by the expense of the passage and unwilling to engage inferior space offered at a lower price level. He is perfectly satisfied with the appointments offered by American overland transit and wonders why the same quality of comfort, or even luxury, without extravagance cannot be offered by overseas lines in the matter of both meals and sleeping quarters.

Editorial of the Day

GOADING ABERHART.
(Boston Herald.)

The Social Credit premier of Alberta, William Aberhart, has been stung to action. He announces that he is going to introduce his credit scheme in the legislature without further delay. "Give me a chance," he says. "If I find I can't do it I'll throw up my hands and quit. You can banish me to the tall timbers."

That the thing is to be tried at last will be good news to every one, to the new settlers who have been flocking to Alberta for the $25 monthly basic dividend and to the skeptics who want to see the scheme put to the test. If it is a success, well and good; if it fails, as they expect, then perhaps that will be the end of such foolery.

But Mr. Aberhart does not seem so confident as he was before election. They can banish him to the tall timbers if he fails. He admits the possibility of failure. That is a new note.

There is a little town in Alberta called Craigmyle [illegible]. The residents of this town took note of Mr. Aberhart's preelection statement that if returned to power he would need only a fountain pen. They bought him one. Not only that, they sent fountain pens to all the members of the cabinet. Now they are waiting. Has the ink [illegible] there a fear that it will turn to red?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

The Mysterious Flower.

I saw it in one of the flower shops near a cemetery entrance, and while it seemed very familiar as well as beautiful I couldn't say what it was or where I had seen it before. I asked the man in the shop the name of the flower and he told me, but I don't hear so extra well and besides he talked like a smoked herring. Not that I have ever heard a smoked herring talk; I've never even heard of a herring who wasn't smoked conversing very volubly, but the man in the flower shop talked the way I think a smoked herring would talk if he ever did talk. Anyhow, I bought a bunch of the strange yet familiar flowers and took them home and put them in a vase over the fireplace and looked at them.

And as I looked at them one of the logs burning in the fireplace rolled down and lay right under the mantel, so that for a moment the flowers were half hidden by the smoke from the burning log. And as I looked at the flowers the smoke changed or seemed to change to a thin mist and then it all came back.

I saw not only my own bunch of flowers on the mantelpiece, but thousands of them all under a gentle mist. Then I knew, the flowers were Scotch heather. And I remembered the time when we were trudging across the heather away up near the river Dee in Scotland and we met a very kindly old gentleman also walking through the heather. Tommy Atkins, a square and lively puppy then, rushed up, and, before we could do anything about it, was jumping rapturously all over him.

"Well, well, well, well, well," said the kindly old gentleman, "what have we here, what have we here?"

When we had restrained Mr. Atkins and apologized for his muddy paw marks we found ourselves talking about the heather and the kind old gentleman was delighted that we seemed to like it so much. He broke sprigs of it and gave them to us and said he hoped we would keep them to remember him by. And after he had gone on we asked a man looking after some sheep who the nice old gentleman was and he said:

"Hoot, hoot, mon. Dinna ye ken 'twas the king himsel'? He lives over yon at Balmoral."

And so now whenever I look at the purple heather on the mantel I can see the bleak moorland, the fine mist, the nodding heather everywhere, and the nice old gentleman who gave us a bit of heather to remember him by.

ADVICE TO POETS.

I grant you some seasonal moods
(You birds with a lyrical flair),
If a poet can't yearn he just broods—
But it won't go in subzero air.

When you meet a plain flower in Springtime
(Poison ivy, for all that you care)
It's O. K. to quiver and sling rhyme—
But it's no go in subzero air.

The quiet and drowse of midsummer
Makes swell poetical fare,
But I say you're dumb, if not dumber,
To crave verse in subzero air.

The colors of Autumn inflame you.
Or you mourn for the birds that aren't there.
(Lay it on, guy! I don't blame you)
But pipe down in subzero air.

And ice on a twig may be pleasing,
To you it may be something rare;
It gives me no thrill when I'm freezing—
Like the twig in the subzero air.

I know you must bang on a lyre
(Beauty just sticks in your hair)
I also would bang any liar
About beauty in subzero air.

EVAN S TONIAN.

"'THAT'S HIM!' Says Witness in Minneapolis Murder Trial."—Headline. Of course murder trials are hard on the nerves and probably cause many people to forget things, but it does seem that it wouldn't take much more composure to say "that's he" than "that's him." And so much more soothing to one who wants his King's English as undefiled as possible.

IT'S GOT TO BE a bromide—that "another snowstorm and more zero weather on the way." One can get tired of anything, even snowstorms and zero weather. Enough is enough. Here, Bob, take this "another snowstorm and more zero weather on the way" thing and lock it up in the Cannery, Jar 747, Shelf Z-23.

THE GROUNDHOG saw his shadow Sunday and consequently will remain in his winter quarters six weeks longer. From the long run of zero weather we're having the groundhog will be a boob if he comes out of that hole for three months.

EXPERIMENT.

Life rewinds the phonograph—
"You see," he says, "you didn't die!"
The records grind the same old airs,
And, one by one, go sliding by

The days—worn nickels in a slot,
Well keyed with memories each song,
Though some are not too bad perhaps,
There's one that must not play too long.

There is a saraband, a waltz,
A meditation. Will he dare
To play that one at last—to weigh Exactly what a man can bear?

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

TUBERCULOSIS HAS NOT BEEN CONQUERED.

PART II.

TUBERCULOSIS is not a dramatic disease. It is a long drawn out affair—one that taxes the patience of the actors—the physician, the victim, and all members of the family. It lacks the stage setting of the surgical attack upon acute appendicitis. Life cannot be saved, as for example in diphtheria, through the injection of a single large dose of antitoxin. Nevertheless, victory over the disease can be attained. It means that the patient's resistance must be conserved and increased with a single objective—rest for the diseased areas in the lung.

Let us assume that tuberculosis is suspected in a given case. The examination of the patient will include at least four procedures:

[1] A careful physical inventory.
[2] A search for the presence of the tubercle bacilli in the sputum.
[3] An X-ray plate of the chest.
[4] A careful history with inquiry as to exposure, other cases in the family, etc.

In doubtful cases tuberculin may be employed as a diagnostic agent, although this method has been superseded largely by what is known as the Mantoux test. Positive response to this test indicates that the person is susceptible to tuberculosis or has been exposed to it. It does not afford conclusive evidence that the individual is actively infected.

If tubercle bacilli are found in the sputum, and if the X-ray discloses the presence of disease in the lung, proper medical management must be instituted without delay. First, the patient should be separated, in so far as possible, from the rest of the family. This means sanitarium care if it can be arranged. If it is necessary to manage the case in the home, the physician can issue instructions as to precautions that must be observed. Alarm need not be felt if the disease has been detected in a reasonably early stage, but every member of the household must be made to realize that at least a year, possibly two or three, will be required for recovery.

The established plan of treatment, namely, rest in bed, fresh air, and good food, still holds the field. Forced feeding is usually unnecessary and sometimes brings on digestive upsets. More and more is complete rest in bed insisted upon as rest for the lungs promotes healing. This means absolute quiet for many months. Sitting up, reclining, reading—everything must be tabooed in the interest of rest. If the disease is in the apex [upper portion] of the lung, rest may be assisted by placing small bags of shot on the chest wall over the affected area. Movement is thus restricted and the diaphragm is compelled to pick up the function of breathing. The weights may be increased gradually without discomfort.

Many authorities believe that the great majority of cases can be benefited by some form of collapse therapy. After rest has been given its proper chance and has performed its major function, the newer methods of treating the disease, such as pneumothorax, paralyzing the diaphragm, or surgical intervention, may be invoked.

The treatment of tuberculosis by vaccination has been widely practiced particularly in France through the use of what is known as the B. C. G. vaccine [bacilli Calmette-Guerin]. The employment of this or any other vaccine should at the present time be considered experimental and there is little reason to believe that departure from the accepted methods of treatment is as yet desirable.

A view of the tuberculosis problem as a whole is encouraging and we must realize that early diagnosis will save many lives. Complete cooperation on the part of the patient, the physician, and the entire family is essential to a successful outcome.

PIERCED EARS.

Harassed Husband writes: My wife and I noticed a news item to the effect that London newspapers are in a flurry of excitement over letters from their readers on the question of whether or not piercing the ears was helpful to eyesight and headaches. My wife has been trying to gain my consent. I have been against her doing it, first, because it is a mutilation of the human body, and, second, because I cannot see any connection—that is, cause and effect. My wife gets "round" my first objection by saying that she could cover the holes with earrings, and points out that the practice is widespread in Europe. She gets "round" my second objection by saying other people have been relieved by it, so why not she? I have told her that it would do as much good to have the nostrils pierced and wear a nose ring.

REPLY.

Hold fast to the ropes if you must, but don't fall outside the ring. Let her think that she has won the first two "rounds." Consent to the ear piercing if she will wear a rabbit's foot and a horseshoe ring, carry a buckeye, encircle the neck with coral beads, and hang a talisman from each one. She will thus be charmed against bad luck, rheumatism, lumbago, growing pains, and housemaid's knee. Remember that she must capture "brer" rabbit in a graveyard on a wild, windy, moonless night—sharp on the stroke of twelve.

COMPLEXION.

D. R. writes: Why do so many women develop a yellowish tinge to the complexion as they grow older? The coloring of earlier days seems to disappear.

I try to keep in good condition and am in fair health, but my face is getting such a tinge although it is not exactly sallow.

REPLY.

The coloring and texture of the skin change with advancing years and with exposure to weather. A yellowish complexion may be due to an accumulation of bile pigments or, as we say, a slight jaundice. Anemia is often suspected because the lemon tint of the skin is characteristic.

More outdoor exercise, good nourishing food, and proper elimination will bring about a healthy complexion. Make certain, however, that disease is not present.

BLOW ON LEG.

J. L. writes: Some time ago I received a blow on the inside of the left leg. Since then there has been a swelling on the spot. Is there any way to get rid of it?

REPLY.

If heat [hot water] will not relieve the swelling, consult a physician, as the bone may have been injured.

Patriotic Societies

Below is the sixth of a series of articles describing the history, purpose, and accomplishments of patriotic societies now being investigated for lobbying by the Black senate committee, the inquisitorial time of the New Deal. As a result of the committee attacks the organizations are experiencing membership gains. Today's article deals with the Sentinels of the Republic.

The fact that they sponsor a road show which pokes fun at the New Deal may be a reason why the Sentinels of the Republic, organized in 1922 "to uphold the principles of the republic," are being investigated by the Black inquisition.

Currently touring the south, under the Sentinels' auspices, is an automobile and a large trailer from which is projected an animated cartoon entitled "The Amateur Fireman—A Parable of the New Deal." It proved a great success during a week's run in Philadelphia last October.

Next Monday the movie cartoon will be brought to Chicago for a week's showing at the Grand Opera house, 119 North Clark street. Starting on Monday there will be a continuous performance each afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock. Evening performances will start at 8:30 o'clock and each night a speaker of national prominence will address the audience. Former United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut will speak at the first evening performance on Monday. All the performances will be free to the public.

As far back as October, 1923, the Sentinels were urging in Washington that a curb be placed on tendencies then discernible which favored limiting the power of the Supreme court. They were also opposing federal aid legislation generally on the ground that it was "unconstitutional, uneconomic, and unmoral." Reduction of the number of government bureaus was a third demand. No changes have been made in these policies.

The Sentinels of the Republic were first organized at the home of Charles S. Fairchild of New York, secretary of the treasury in one of President Cleveland's administrations. The first president of the patriotic society was the late Louis A. Coolidge of Milton, Mass., assistant secretary of the treasury under Theodore Roosevelt. Others among the founders were Gen. James G. Harbord, Mrs. John Balch, and Thomas S. Cadwalader.

At present the Sentinels are headed by Attorney Alexander Lincoln of Boston, who succeeded Mr. Coolidge. Other officers are Frank L. Peckham, Washington, vice president; Mrs. Balch, secretary, and James Jackson, Boston, treasurer. Raymond Pitcairn, Philadelphia attorney and architect, is national chairman, and H. G. Torbert, Washington, is executive secretary.

In starting the motion picture caravan on its way from Philadelphia last month, Mr. Pitcairn declared: "This is no partisan question. The Sentinels of the Republic are organized and pledged to maintain the fundamental principles of the American constitution, to oppose further federal encroachment upon the reserved rights of the states and the individual citizens. Our motor caravan will take our message to hundreds of communities."

In 1934 the Sentinels were given much of the credit for gaining the repeal by congress of the law requiring publicity of individual incomes. The Sentinels fathered a movement known as the "pink slip" revolt through which thousands of protest stickers were attached to the income tax pink slips. The stickers said, "I protest against this outrageous invasion of my right of privacy," and congress gave in.

A person may join the Sentinels of the Republic for as little as $2 annually. Voluntary contributions are also accepted. Applications for membership should be sent to the headquarters at 1616 Walnut street, Philadelphia.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please inform me when the next examination for patrolman and fireman will be held? How or where can I secure applications? If a person failed in a previous examination, is he allowed to try again? E. H.

The commission expects to call an examination for patrolman during the early part of this year. As we have a large eligible list for fireman, this examination will not be held again for a few years.

We have placed the writer's name on our mailing list for notification of both examinations when called again.

Applicants failing in previous examinations may take the examinations as many times as they wish, providing, of course, they are within the age limits.

Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

VALIDITY OF DEED.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died and left me a deed to his property. 1. If a deed is written six months or a year before death and not recorded until after death, is it legal in Michigan? 2. Is the husband sole heir of all property at the death of his wife when there are several children all of age in the family? 3. Some of the children claim they are entitled to their mother's share, or one-third. Is this correct? L. G.

1. Since the validity of a deed depends on its being legally delivered during the lifetime of the grantor, questions are likely to be raised where the deed is not recorded until after the death. The validity of your title would depend largely on your proof as to delivery.
2. No.
3. Their mother's share of what? You have not given us the facts.

1. No.
2. No. We assume that the title was not held in joint tenancy and that the wife did not make a will in favor of the husband.

SENATOR ROBINSON'S CLIENTS.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—After listening to Al Smith's recent radio talk and to Senator Robinson's alleged reply attacking not only Mr. Smith but the so-called power trust and other "malefactors of great wealth and entrenched greed" it has occurred to me that the public might be interested in the fact that as recently as 1931 Senator Robinson was advertising himself as counsel for certain units of said power trust in the Martindale-Hubbell law directory.

I inclose copies of the listings of Senator Robinson's law firm as they appeared in 1931 and 1933 issues. The changed wording was due to the fact that some of the senator's political opponents discovered this listing and undertook to make political capital of same. In 1934 the senator's name was dropped from the law firm name, but it is the belief of various members of the Little Rock bar that he still has an interest in the firm's business.

SLOW SERVICE.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—I have lived in the Jefferson Park district for eight years and have been employed in the loop. The average time required to come downtown is one hour and ten minutes.

Why don't some of our public-spirited councilmen, instead of trying to save an hour by moving the clock around, get busy and formulate an ordinance providing for the extension of the Logan Square "L" out into the northwest side? We have been waiting forty years for it. E. BJORKLUND.

PLAYS COMPARED.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—"Tobacco Road" certainly could not have been much worse than "Boy Meets Girl." A party of eight has just returned from a performance and the consensus is not very flattering, to say the least. Who would allow the language used on the stage to be repeated in their own home? If newspapers are not allowed to print such words why are they allowed to be actually screamed as they are in this play, and motherhood played up as a huge joke? M. A. O'CONNOR.

INSURANCE IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 1.—There are 65,000,000 policies of life insurance in force in the United States. In millions of American homes the most treasured possession has been that life insurance policy. By careful saving and self-denial, through sickness, unemployment, business losses the father and mother have said: "Come what may, that policy must be kept up." And always there has been the assurance that if the breadwinner were suddenly taken, mother would be safe, and the boy and the girl sure of a good education.

Hence, if these mothers and fathers once are convinced—and it is easy to make the proof—that the reckless spending and wild theories of the alphabetic administration at Washington seriously threaten the future value of those policies, the doom of our would-be dictator is sealed.

That issue alone, clearly presented, will defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt; and the day after election will inaugurate the greatest era of prosperity this land has ever known. CHARLES W. PHILLIPS.

DELINQUENT TAXES.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—The officials of Cook county are collecting delinquent taxes under false pretenses. The advertisements state without qualification that penalties can be saved by paying now. I am told many people are borrowing to the limit to meet this offer. Yet when payment is made the receipts are stamped to the effect that the payment is accepted subject to pending court action. Any lawyer will tell you that an adverse ruling on statute 177 by the court will reinstate the penalties.

This misrepresentation is typical of our present administrations—national, state, and local—promise one brand of honest merchandise and deliver a substitute, highly adulterated. Of what value is legislation designed to encourage and enforce a higher standard of ethics in finance, business and industry when our administrators of government in their position of official immunity do tricks which in private life are criminal? TOM LEE-BROWN.

ACCIDENTS IN THE NEWS.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—In a spectacular passenger train accident in Pennsylvania three people were killed and thirty-one hurt—and it rated only a small headline.

Why don't the newspapers treat the occasional airplane mishap with the same type of headline and the same manner of news treatment as they do the train mishaps? If three people were killed and thirty-one hurt in an airplane accident the newspapers wouldn't have big type enough to headline it.

I am voicing this protest because the dramatization of airplane accidents, out of proportion to the display given to mishaps in other forms of transportation, has created an erroneous opinion of air transportation and definitly deterred many people from flying. J. R. THORNTON.

LISTENING IN AT LANE.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—I notice in your Saturday paper that a school in Winnipeg, Man., has had microphones installed in the classrooms, so that the school inspector can listen in to any room at the press of a button. It is not necessary to go to Canada for such a novelty. At the Lane Technical High school was recently installed an amplifier system. There is a loudspeaker in every room in the building, making it possible to supply announcements, music, or radio programs to all or any combination of rooms.

By an ingenious arrangement it is possible for the control man at the main amplifier to listen in to any room, using the loudspeaker as a microphone. LOUIS DANOV.

COLD.

Harvey, Ill., Jan. 31.—When I boarded the Cottage Grove avenue car No. 5,825 Friday morning, Jan. 30, at 8 o'clock, the thermometer in the car read 38 degrees. At 9:20 the same morning the temperature in car No. 6,241 was just freezing, at 32 degrees. JACK VERNER.

HARTZELL UPSETS SENTENCING OF 7 FOR DRAKE FRAUD

Says Blame Is All His; Mental Test Ordered.

Oscar M. Hartzell, chief defendant in the Drake estate mail fraud trial, caused a mild sensation in the court room of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday when he told the judge that the responsibility for the fraud was all his and that the seven men who were convicted with him by a jury last Friday were innocent.

Hartzell's declaration brought about a postponement of the sentencing of himself and six of the other defendants. It resulted also in an order from Judge Sullivan that Hartzell submit to a mental examination by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Cook county Criminal court behavior clinic.

Judge Asks for Accounting.

The judge indicated that he might free all the defendants if Hartzell could account for what he did with the $1,300,000 which some 70,000 persons contributed to his scheme for "dividing" among them the nonexistent estate of Sir Francis Drake, English admiral who died in 1596. During the eleven week trial of this case the government showed that there is no foundation for Hartzell's claim that such an estate exists.

Yesterday Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall asked Judge Sullivan if the other defendants should not be included with Hartzell in the mental examination.

"I think they're all alike," said Hall. The judge said, however, that only Hartzell need be examined.

New Trial for Gregory.

The court session began with Judge Sullivan's granting of a new trial to A. R. Gregory of Wenatchee, Wash., one of the eight men convicted on Friday. The judge then started to sentence the other defendants—Hartzell, his brother, Canfield Hartzell of New York; Otto G. Yant, D. C. Short, Joseph H. Hauber, and Lester Ohmart, all of the Croydon hotel, 616 Rush street, and Emil Rechel of Madison, Wis.

A five year prison sentence had been imposed on Canfield Hartzell when Defense Attorney Edward J. Hess interrupted.

"Your honor," Hess said, "Oscar Hartzell, the principal defendant, is possessed of an obsession. If he will talk he can probably save the others, who followed him blindly."

Hartzell was then summoned before the bench.

"I'm responsible for the whole thing," he began. "All the others did was get the money. They worked for me and they are all innocent."

Where He Says Money Went.

"What became of the money you collected in this country and sent to England?" asked Judge Sullivan.

"The people in England—the proper authorities—got the money," Hartzell replied. "I'm satisfied that the people who invested with me will be repaid many thousands of dollars more than they paid in. The estate will be liquidated any time now."

"Was any of the money spent for bribery?" Judge Sullivan asked.

"No, sir," Hartzell said.

"Did the late King George have anything to do with the estate?" the judge inquired.

"I never mention the king's name," Hartzell replied in a hushed tone.

Prosecutor Hall interrupted to say that Hartzell had spent much of the $1,300,000 on women and riotous living in London.

"That's a lie. It's a lie," Hartzell shouted.

Still Defends the Estate.

"How big is the Drake estate?" Judge Sullivan asked.

"It's big beyond any one's imagination," Hartzell said. "If I disclosed anything about it now I'd be a traitor. All the money would be lost. I'm sworn to silent secrecy by the highest powers. They run the country over there."

"This is a most peculiar situation," remarked Judge Sullivan. He then rescinded the sentence of Canfield Hartzell and continued the new trial motions of all the defendants except Gregory to Feb. 17.

Oscar Hartzell is already under one sentence for fraud in the Drake case. He was convicted in federal court at Sioux City, Ia., in 1933 and was brought to Chicago from Leavenworth prison for trial of the present case.

WARN JUSTICES AGAINST ABUSING TRAFIC POWERS

Cook county police magistrates and justices of the peace, meeting yesterday in the Chicago Motor club, received warnings that they may lose jurisdiction over trafic cases again if they abuse the law by setting up speed traps. The meeting was held following Gov. Horner's signing of an amendment to the state trafic code which restores to such peace officers jurisdiction over misdemeanors under the code. Courts of record had jurisdiction and jail penalties were possible under the trafic code as passed last summer.

Lester Smith, attorney for the Motor club, described the amendment as "a good thing for the motoring public," declaring that formerly the law was not properly enforced. To the peace officers he said:

"After all, a law is only a whim of the legislature, and if you lose this power again it will be harder to get it back."

Two Get 10 Years in Prison for Robbing Postal Station

Edward Kovnacki, 21 years old, and Jack Small, 19, both of whom said they live at 2216 Larrabee street, were sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to 10 years in Leavenworth prison on their pleas of guilty to robbing a postal substation in a drug store at 2824 Peterson avenue last October.

REVEAL WEDDING OF SAILOR DYING OF AUTO HURTS

Hospital Staf Tells of Deathbed Rites.

Death last night in St. Luke's hospital, from injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Nov. 22, brought to light the marriage in the hospital of Bernhard D. Johnson, 40 years old, 254 Oak street, Cincinnati, retired quartermaster in the United States coast guard.

Johnson, who suffered a broken left leg and internal injuries when he was struck by a motor truck as he crossed Polk street between State and Dearborn streets, was married Sunday to Miss Margaret Boyer, 35 years old, of Cincinnati, hospital attaches said.

Richard A. Younger, 29 years old, 1911 South Michigan avenue, driver of the truck, which is owned by the O'Neil Special Express company, was not held after the accident, but was notified last night to attend the opening of an inquest this morning.

Hit-Run Driver Hunted.

Police were hunting yesterday for the hit and run driver whose car struck and severely injured Mrs. Juanita Salvador, 33 years old, 861 East 63d street, as she was walking at 63d street and South Park avenue earlier in the day. Mrs. Salvador was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. Witnesses furnished the police with descriptions of the car and driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 98 persons were killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to figures from the coroner's office. In the same period 81 were killed and 1,483 injured within the Chicago city limits.

Motorist's Hurts Fatal.

John Reuse, 28 years old, 133 South Hale street, Palatine, who was hit by a truck while cleaning his automobile windshield beside the Northwest highway a mile northwest of Mount Prospect on Monday, died of his injuries early yesterday in Mount Prospect hospital. Edward Russell, 47 years old, 862 Margaret street, Des Plaines, driver of the truck, was not held.

John Pinta, 58 years old, 2950 West 38th place, a laborer, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile Sunday night. Edward Orkfritz, driver of the car, has been at liberty on bond since Monday, when a reckless driving charge was continued until Feb. 26 to await the outcome of Pinta's injuries.

Dies of His Injuries.

Louis Salici, 60 years old, 326 West Goethe street, who was struck by an automobile Wednesday night at West Goethe and North La Salle streets, died last night at Henrotin hospital of a fractured skull. Gus Heiss, 6383 Sheridan road, driver of the car which struck Salici, had not been held by the police. He was ordered last night to attend the opening of an inquest this morning.

Stephen Denton, 34 years old, 2020 Haddon avenue, a garage manager, drove his automobile head-on into a city snow plow early today at State and 16th streets and was arrested with a companion, Leslie Prather, 26 years old, 4453 Irving Park boulevard. The Central police found Denton to be carrying a revolver. He said he kept the weapon for protection against robbers. No one was injured in the accident and the snow plow was not damaged.

JURORS CONVICT 2 AS HEADS OF AUTOTHEFT RING

Nathan Kodnar, 43 years old, and Samuel Rubin, 29, former owners of the Blue Mound Automobile Bankers' company in Milwaukee, were found guilty of charges of automobile theft by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge John C. Lewe yesterday. Their motion for a new trial was continued until Feb. 11 and their bonds of $2,000 each were increased to $12,000 each. They face sentences of one to ten years each in the penitentiary.

The state presented evidence that Kodner and Rubin paid a ring of thieves to steal automobiles, then reassembled the parts, and sold the cars. Philip Leahan and Fred Grady testified that they and two other men had carried out Cook county car thefts that were planned by Kodner and Rubin.

Howard and Willard Stulka, brothers, are serving sentences in the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kas., for violations of the Dyer act on charges growing out of the same case.

TWO DIE IN BARN FIRE.

Sperry, Okla., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Ray Macken, 26 years old, and C. E. Hullard, 30, were burned to death near here today after an explosion in a barn which Deputy Sherif E. E. Hansel said contained a whisky still.

FLOODS SWEEP SOUTHERN AREA; 4 KNOWN DEAD

Heavy Rains Drive Rivers Out of Banks.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Floods generated by winter rains caused at least four deaths, heavy property damage, and much suffering in several southern states today. The rains ranged up to a depth of seven inches in 24 hours.

Relief work was started by the Red Cross for the many victims who fled from their homes only a short time before communities were engulfed as rain swollen streams surged out of their banks in Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, and Georgia. Adding to the misery of those left homeless, a cold wave was driving eastward in the wake of the downpour of rain.

Snow Increases Flood.

Many parts of the south were just beginning to recover from the recent cold weather, which was accompanied by heavy snow. Melting of this snow increased the flood waters.

Mountain streams which had been turned into raging torrents by constant heavy rains for 24 hours isolated the town of Murphy, N. C., community of 1,600, and claimed two lives near there.

Midway lake, a 10 acre body of water near Murphy, broke its earthen dam and drowned Mrs. Blalock Johnson, 65, and her son, Dewey, 23. Her husband, another son, Lawrence, 20, and a small niece escaped after being carried several hundred yards downstream. Their farm home was washed away.

Two Trainmen Killed.

Two trainmen were killed near Maylene, Ala., when a Southern Railway freight train, despite its cautious speed of 5 miles an hour, plunged down a 125 foot embankment. The victims were Fireman Frank Kennamer and Brakeman J. H. Brown.

Many heroic rescues were made throughout the stricken area. Tales of peril and rescues were told at Meridian, Miss., where many suburban residents were driven from their homes by last night's seven inch rain.

Some of the refugees escaped with only the clothes they were wearing. They gathered in the Meridian city hall, where barefoot children and crawling babies played on the floors of the corridors.

One of the victims, G. W. Jones, with the aid of friends carried his wife and six children, one by one, through waist deep water from their home to safety on a highway.

Rescuers Save Family.

The frantic efforts of rescuers saved Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Filer and their small child from their flood swept home before the building was washed from its foundation.

Farmers in the lowlands of half a dozen states moved their live stock to the hills as swollen streams roared threateningly through their pasture lands.

Relief crews were seeking to reach nearly 40 persons, the families of PWA workers, who were trapped at Coaldale near Birmingham by a rise of the Little Warrior river. The families occupied five double houses in the path of the river's advance.

Other residents along the river gathered heavy ropes and lashed their homes to nearby trees as the reddish water climbed steadily toward their homes.

Landslide Blocks Highways.

Inundated highways and flooded railway tracks interrupted the movement of trains and automobiles in many parts of the south. The Bee Line highway was blocked about 30 miles north of here by a landslide.

Fog and wind also struck other sections. Storm warnings were up along the gulf coast from Brownsville, Tex., to Carrabelle, Fla., with velocities of 50 miles an hour reported.

Heavy fog at Lake Providence, La., caused the Tennessee Belle, old river packet, to ground on a shallow bar of the Mississippi river. Officers and crew were reported safe.

JAPAN HIT BY WORST BLIZZARD IN 49 YEARS; TWELVE KNOWN DEAD

TOKIO, Feb. 4.—(AP)—At least 12 persons were killed tonight when the worst blizzard in 49 years swept through the heart of Japan.

Snow laden gales from the China sea swept over an area embracing the empire's six greatest cities—Tokio, Osaka, Nagoya, Kobe, Kyoto, and Yokohama. Property damage is known to be huge, although communications were so disrupted that an immediate check was impossible.

Ships of the Japanese navy were called out to search for the crews of nine fishing boats, totaling 57 persons, off Kobe.

The storm tied up transportation in the cities, disrupted trunk railways, and paralyzed industrial activity. Tokio and Kyoto were in darkness because of the failure of power plants.

More than 100 steamers took refuge in ports. Reports from mountain districts told of snowslides which crushed houses. The snow was a foot deep in Tokio.

Send Cutter Escanaba to Open Muskegon Harbor

Capt. Leroy Reinburg, coast guard commander in Chicago, yesterday assigned the cutter Escanaba to open a lane through the Muskegon, Mich., harbor, which the cold westerly winds have packed with ice. Muskegon is the eastern terminus of a car ferry and freight service. Milwaukee harbor, the other terminus, has been kept free from ice by the same westerly winds.

from highway and railroad transportation for three days. Five county highway snowplows working out of Darlington have been unable to make headway, with the wind blowing the snow back onto the road in seven to nine foot drifts as fast as the plows threw it off. With the coal supply exhausted, residents of the town were forced to cut wood for fuel. Other small towns in that area are in similar plights.

One train a day each way passes through Darlington and other nearby towns on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul branch line from Chicago to Mineral Point, Wis., but railroad officials said no train had been able to go through since Sunday. The town depends upon freight from Chicago for most of its provisions.

NEW YORK SUFFERS

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—A particularly sticky kind of sleet, following last night's snow, turned pavements and roadways of the metropolitan area into sheets of glare ice today. As a result, trafic of all kinds was disrupted, pedestrians skidded about at risk of life and limb, there were scores of accidents and, all in all, the city and its suburbs had the most dangerous day of the winter.

Thousands of workers bound for Manhattan from points in Queens, Staten Island, New Jersey, Westchester and from the Sheepshead Bay, Ridgewood and Flatbush sections of Brooklyn were delayed from twenty minutes to an hour and a half in reaching their destinations as ice covered rails slowed trains to a snail's pace.

Upstate Trafic Paralyzed.

The sleet made the city's bridges particularly dangerous. Workmen labored on the great spans, throwing sand over the roadbeds of the Brooklyn, Manhattan, and Queensboro bridges.

Dispatches from upstate said that the sleet storm had disrupted trafic as seriously as did the two blizzards that buried highways under deep drifts.

The Buffalo gale, which reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour, struck the city after sidewalks and pavements had been coated with sleet. Police rigged ropes to aid pedestrians in crossing exposed places, after several had been injured because they were unable to maintain their footing against the wind.

Planes Are Grounded.

New Jersey reported that no planes were leaving Newark, eastern terminus of the principal air lines, and described most parts of the state as in the grip of a sleet storm which hampered both motor and pedestrian trafic, although temperatures were rising in most localities.

POLICE INVESTIGATE $1,000 VANDAL RAID ON WOMAN'S BAKERY

Police from the state's attorney's office were assigned to investigate an attack by four vandals early yesterday on the bakery of Mrs. Sadie Schachter at 1442 North Maplewood avenue. Bakery goods and supplies valued at $1,000 were destroyed.

The men, three of them wearing masks and two armed with pistols, invaded the shop soon after it opened for the day. Mrs. Schachter and three men employes were held prisoners in a back room while the intruders threw the day's supply of bread, cakes, and other goods on the floor. One of the men sprinkled gasoline over the wreckage and into bins containing flour and other materials. As the men left, one of them took $20 from the cash register, apparently in order to give the attack the semblance of a robbery.

To the North avenue police Mrs. Schachter attributed the vandalism to a bread price war which has been in progress in the neighborhood.

"I've been selling rye bread at two pounds for nine cents," she said. "When I cut to that price about two weeks ago, a man telephoned to warn me to raise the price again. I told him that if the rest of the bakers would agree, I would raise my price, too. But he said, 'No, you're the lowest and you'll have to up your price first.'"

JANE SCRIVEN FINLAY DROPS DIVORCE SUIT

Judge Frank W. Shepherd sitting in Kane county circuit court at Geneva yesterday, dismissed the divorce suit which Mrs. Jane Scriven Finlay, former Chicago society woman, brought a year ago against John Jerome Finlay, an advertising man here. The dismissal was on the motion of Mrs. Finlay's attorney, John K. Newhall.

"My client," Newhall said, "refuses to return here from New York to press her suit. She will consent to a divorce only if she is given custody of her only child, Barbara, 6 years old, for nine months of the year."

Robert E. Cantwell Jr., attorney for Finlay, who was not in court, told the judge that his client insists on full time custody of the child on the ground that the mother is unfit because she dances in a night club. Attorney Newhall denied this, declaring that Mrs. Finlay is a clerk in a New York store.

FOUR YOUTHS HELD AS ROBBERS.

Four young robbers were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each by Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday. They are Richard Hightower, 2207 South Michigan avenue; John Rasak, 7800 South Racine avenue; John Gulch, 3902 Wentworth avenue, and Charles Pulso, 462 West [illegible] street.

DOUBLES SALES THROUGH CHICAGO TRIBUNE ADVERTISING

STUDEBAKER SALES CO.

GENERAL OFFICES: TWENTY-FOURTH AND FEDERAL STS.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

HENRY R. LEVY, PRESIDENT

January 24th, 1936.

Mr. Clyde Benham, National Advertising Manager,
The Chicago Tribune,
Tribune Tower,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Benham:

Last December, The Studebaker Sales Co. of Chicago, with a background of 25 years of achievement and progress in this city - decided that the time was ripe to make the greatest bid for business in their history.

Everything seemed to be favorable - business looked optimistic; we had, in the 1936 Studebaker line, the greatest product we had ever built - and we appropriated a considerable sum of money for advertising purposes.

Our problem, however, was not only to hit the Chicago market hard, but also to do a job in the entire territory surrounding Chicago - the greater Chicagoland market.

Our decision was finally to concentrate our entire newspaper advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

The actual results of this campaign for January exceeded even our fondest expectations. We had hoped for a 50% increase - but we actually doubled, and in many cases tripled our business in Chicago and other points covered by Chicago Tribune circulation.

I want to take this occasion to compliment your publication on the wonderful job done for us - and naturally, we are very grateful to the shrewd car buyers in this area for recognizing the 1936 Studebaker as the greatest automobile value of the year.

Very truly yours,

STUDEBAKER SALES CO. OF CHICAGO.

Vice President.

FAMILIES AND DAILY NEWSPAPER CIRCULATIONS IN METROPOLITAN CHICAGO

	1917 Number	1917 Coverage	1935 Number	1935 Coverage
Families	748,136	—	1,216,563	—
Tribune	244,755	33%	628,357	52%

News	369,212	49%	357,804	29%

NOTE: Circulations are averages for six months' periods ended September 30, and for city and suburban only 52 percent of all families in metropolitan Chicago read the Chicago Tribune. This is 67 percent greater coverage than any other Chicago daily newspaper delivers to the advertiser.

New car buying in the Chicago market begins with family conferences over the advertisments in the Chicago Tribune which has carried more passenger car advertising than any other Chicago newspaper since the infancy of the automobile industry.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING IS Point-of-Shopping ADVERTISING

CONCENTRATES EXCLUSIVELY IN THE TRIBUNE TO DO A JOB IN THE ENTIRE CHICAGO TERRITORY WITH RESULTS THAT EXCEED "FONDEST EXPECTATIONS"

RESULTS such as those reported by R. H. Keeling, vice-president of the Studebaker Sales Company of Chicago, challenge the attention of merchants and retailers.

Studebaker's problem was one which many other advertisers face.

They wanted results, not just in Chicago, but throughout the adjacent territory—"the greater Chicagoland market."

Only one Chicago newspaper—the Tribune—could deliver such results because it alone has the volume of responsive readers in Chicago and in the surrounding area.

INSTANT RESPONSE FROM DEALERS AND NEW CAR BUYERS

From their knowledge of the Chicago situation Studebaker decided to concentrate its entire newspaper advertising in the Chicago Tribune.

Studebaker's present campaign started January 9. By January 24 results had far exceeded Studebaker's expectations.

"We had hoped for a 50% increase," Mr. Keeling reports, "but we actually doubled and in many cases tripled our business in Chicago and other points covered by Chicago Tribune circulation."

The Chicago Tribune is first in the preference of advertisers because it is first among readers. It leads all Chicago newspapers in volume of advertising because, by printing the news and features the public wants, it has built up the largest audience of readers.

YOUR FIRST CHOICE TO GET MORE SALES

Use any yardstick you please—linage, circulation or response—and the Tribune will be your first choice in your drive to get more business in this market this year.

The Chicago Tribune has 67 percent more family coverage in Chicago and suburbs than any other Chicago daily newspaper. It has more circulation in the greater Chicago market than any other newspaper. The rate per line per 100,000 is among the lowest in the newspaper business.

Why not get the complete story? Your advertising counsel—or a Tribune representative—will bring you the facts. Wire, write or phone.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

TRENDS DEMURE AND BOLD MARK SPRING FASHIONS

Spanish and Chinese Notes Dominant.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The demure and the daring vied for first place last night in the original models for spring and summer displayed by numerous pretty mannequins in Chicago's spring fashion prevue in the Stevens hotel grand ballroom. Hundreds of buyers from throughout the country applauded, cheered, and whistled through the dinner and fashion show, presented by the Style Creators of the Chicago Ladies' Apparel manufacturers, which is building up Chicago as a leading style center.

Violets Are Popular.

Bunches of violets were worn by three models who tripped prettily down the elevated runway in costumes of dark blue and gray, rolling their eyes at the critical buyers lining their paths. One wore a tiny brimless hat with a bunch of violets over her eyes, as well as a bunch on the jacket of her frock.

A contrast is afforded by the bold colors and lines of some of the costumes inspired by Spain. This Spanish influence is, with the Chinese trend, a leading spring motif.

"Very toreador," one buyer-critic pronounced one of the 250 originals shown. A girl with dark burnished hair wore it, her slim hips accentuated by dark blue skirt, above which was a white linen lace jacket, with a row of tiny red buttons leading to the high throat line and stiff red tie. A bright red sash was tied about her waist, and her hat was the upturned variety, with a chin strap in true Spanish fashion.

The Chinese Motif.

Three models showed piquant Chinese effects. One wore a mandarin coat embroidered in pagodas, her hair black and smooth and glossy, her eyes painted to appear up-pointed. Two were in white, one with a blouse of Pekin blue, rich in design, the other's costume featuring Chinese red. They took mincing steps forward, then created a surprise and burst of applause when the two in white suits removed first the coats and then, with one gesture, the buttoned-on skirts. Beneath were sun suits of the Chinese inspired silk prints.

A spring and summer fashion review emphasizing "high style on low budgets" and showing women's, children's and infants' wear in a "cotton carnival" was held last night in the Merchandise mart for the benefit of buyers attending the Chicago market. The show was presented on a giant replica of an old time showboat.

Buyers' Week Under Way.

At the Sherman hotel, too, buyers' week was well under way last night with the premiere of a fashion review which will continue all week there. The costumes included sailing slacks with a split leg, tuxedo dinner suits, and other clothes emphasizing a masculine trend.

Hundreds of buyers from the middle west attended a luncheon in the Terrace Gardens of the Morrison hotel sponsored by Style Exhibitors, Inc. Members of the organization are showing wearing apparel in the hotel in a semi-annual exhibit which will continue through Feb. 14.

Association of Commerce officials estimated yesterday that 25,000 retailers and buyers are in town for the spring markets and numerous style and trade shows. The association sponsored a 29th semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council at the Palmer house yesterday, which was addressed by Dr. Kenneth Dameron, marketing expert of Ohio State university.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Side by Side

NUDIST SCHOONER PUTS BACK INTO PORT: JUST PRACTICE TRIP

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 4.—(AP)—The nudist schooner Fleetwood, bound eventually for the Virgin Islands to set up a colony, put back into port here tonight with the announcement that their early navigatorless wanderings were just a trial trip.

"We didn't intend to start the trip," Maurice Allard, organizer of the expedition, explained. "We went out to test the moors in preparation for the long voyage."

The former California sewing machine salesman did not explain why the ship had been loaded with an automobile, fuel oil and other supplies for the practice trip.

While still in the bay, the engine of the auxiliary schooner broke down. The little ship drifted while Allard returned here for repairs. As it sailed out of sight of the pilot's station down the bay, storm warnings were ordered up along the coast.

Allard said the gulf was rough and he turned back. The party sailed Sunday without a navigator because none could be found here to doff his clothes for the job.

COMBINED OCEAN AND AIR SERVICE TO SPEED TRAVEL

Vacation Spots Expect More Tourists.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

This is to be a year of speed in the travel industry. Combinations of steamer and air services will bring Bermuda within four hours of the American mainland, Central and South America within a day or two, Hawaii within 18 hours, and the far east within five days. The newly announced schedules, along with the speeding up of trains in this country and of ships to other lands, are expected to reduce greatly the time spent in going from Chicago to the vacation spots.

By virtue of plans completed this week, travelers will leave New York after breakfast and fly the 666 miles to Bermuda for luncheon. Beginning in June, the Pan-American Airways will operate passenger and mail service between the two points, as the first step of the proposed trans-Atlantic air service. If the first trial flights are successful, there will be two trips a week. Darrell's Island has been chosen as the site for the Bermuda base.

Grace Line Starts Cruises.

In conjunction with the Pan-American, the Grace steamship line already has started a series of cruises to the Caribbean and South America by sea and air. A tour of 25 days includes Jamaica, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru, by steamer, and a return voyage by airplane from Lima to the canal zone. In Panama the plane is met by a Grace liner, and Havana is visited on the way home.

A 39 day tour takes the traveler as far south as Santiago de Chile, from where he either flies to Buenos Aires or goes by lake steamer, bus, and train. On the return trip from Santiago he takes a plane along the west coast of South America. These tours are under the management of Thomas Cook & Son.

Another In Pacific.

On Feb. 28 the N. Y. K. line, cooperating with the American Express company, will inaugurate a combined steamer and air service from Seattle to and through parts of the orient. Arrival in Japan by steamer is to be followed by a flight over Mount Fuji and the five lakes, known as sacred mirrors, that reflect that 12,467 foot peak. A flight from Shanghai to Chumgking will open to travelers the hitherto inaccessible regions of the junk-dotted Yangtse river. Jaunts will be taken to Mukden and Dairen, and the return to Seattle will be by way of Honolulu, after three weeks of sightseeing over Japan, China, and Korea.

Clipper Service in April.

Passenger service on Pan American's trans-Pacific airline is expected to start late in April.

The great flying boats will travel via Honolulu, Midway Island, Wake Island, Guam, Manila, and Macao. At Midway, Wake, and Guam the Pan American company is building modern little resort hotels of prefabricated material. The 2,400 mile hop from California to Hawaii will be made in about 18 hours, and the 8,900 mile trip to China, with overnight stops at the island bases, in about five days.

More than 800 applications have been received for passage on the first flight, which is expected to cost approximately 10 cents a mile, or around $900 for the whole journey.

Among the Chicagoans on ocean voyages this week are Russell Tyson, a member of the board of trustees of the Art institute; C. F. Kelly, assistant director of the institute and curator of oriental art, and Mrs. Kelly. They will sail on the Majestic today for London, where they will visit the international exhibition of Chinese art.

Fellow passengers on the Majestic are to be Mrs. L. H. Blakemore, who plans to remain in London for two months, and Mrs. W. J. Cawley and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Iverson, who will tour England and the Scandinavian countries. Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook Steele of Appleton, Wis., are going over on the same liner for a trip through England, France, and Germany.

Sail on President Harding.

When the President Harding sails today it will carry Alex G. Shennan and Roy G. Travis, on their way to London; Miss Harriet Ferguson, bound for Germany, and Mrs. O. Van-Osdol.

Prof. and Mrs. E. L. Bogart of Champaign, Ill., and Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Ironside, Mrs. Lillian Ironside, Papazian Bey, Mrs. Evelyn Patterson, Miss E. M. Petterson, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lutz, Jacob Laye, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kunz, and the Misses Anna and Margaret Kunz, all of Chicago, left yesterday on the Exochorda for Mediterranean ports. Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Weber and Paul and John Howard left on the Ile de France for Paris, whence they will go to St. Moritz for the winter sports. Dr. Joseph Schafer of Madison, Wis., took passage on the American Merchant for London.

Mr. and Mrs. Staver Moulding of Wilmette and Miss Helen Goudy Slocum of Evanston will board the Georgic Friday for vacations in Europe.

681 Liquor Spots Closed in City License Campaign

A total of 681 places where liquor was sold have been closed since the police campaign began last Saturday to compel owners to obtain city licenses, Police Commissioner James P. Allman announced yesterday. Louis Rixman, city collector, said that 111 license applications were received by his office yesterday. These applicants will be allowed to reopen. Since Jan. 1 the collector's office has issued 8,259 liquor licenses, Rixman said. Last year 8,653 such licenses were issued in Chicago.

FINES ATTORNEY FOR ANNOYING DEPUTY SHERIFS

Attorney J. Kent Greene, who has offices at 77 West Washington street, was fined $100 for contempt of court yesterday by Superior Judge Oscar Nelson and was ordered to bring in the money today or go to jail. Deputy sherifs told the court that Greene pushed and harassed them while they were taking his client, Alexander Moseley, 1515 Kingsbury street, to the lockup on the fourth floor of the County building. Moseley is contesting a separate maintenance action brought by his wife, Kathleen. Yesterday he was ordered to pay a $250 fee to a master in chancery who heard evidence in the case. Moseley refused and was then taken into custody.

Owner of Children's Home Put on Probation for Year

Mrs. Lucille Parker, 38 years old, was placed on probation for a year by Judge Leon Edelman in the Domestic Relations court yesterday after she was found guilty of operating a home for children at 4535 Beacon street without a license. Mrs. Parker promised not to reopen the home without a license.

"STORK DERBY" LEADER'S 12TH CHILD STILLBORN

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Matthew Kenny, who claims leadership in the "Stork Darby" for $500,000 instituted by the will of the late Charles Vance Millar, sorrowed tonight at the stillbirth of what she claims to have been her 12th child since 1926.

Her nearest competitor is believed to be Mrs. Joseph Bagnato, who has borne nine children since the fantastic terms of the famous will became known.

Mrs. Kenny has had three sets of twins among her 12 children. Two sets of twins have died. Her claim is disputed by Mrs. Bagnato who maintains the births of all the Kenny children are not registered.

Millar, who died late in 1926, was a millionaire lawyer, sportsman, and man-about-town. He stipulated that from his estate $500,000 and accumulated interest or profits should go to the Toronto mother who produced the largest family in the 10 years following his death. The derby will end Oct. 31.

STORK ARRIVES BY TROLLEY, CAB, AND BOY'S SLED

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 4.—(AP)—A distraught husband, two trolley motormen, a boy's sled, the trolley and a taxicab combined here today to get an expectant mother to a hospital.

The husband's automobile would not start.

The husband hailed the passing trolley and enlisted the aid of its crew. Together the three men placed the mother on a boy's sled and carried her to the car.

The car, an empty, headed for the nearest car barn, was parked out of the icy winds. The trolley's crew received orders to route the car as a "special" to the nearest hospital.

But the husband found a cab and the journey was completed in that vehicle. The party reached the hospital in time.

ASKS CITIES' AID FOR CHURCHLESS RURAL DISTRICTS

Bishop Finds 11 Million Children Untaught.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

City church people were asked to consider ways of halting disintegration of rural life in America at a session of the 99th annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago in St. Chrysostom's church last night. The speaker, the Rt. Rev. Frederick Bartlett of New York, the church's director of domestic missions, said that 30 millions of people live in rural areas without church privileges.

"More than 11 million children in those areas," Bishop Bartlett said, "are receiving no religious training whatever. The church has made tremendous contributions to the life of America, and yet much of the missionary work in our rural and small town communities is threatened today through lack of funds.

Church's Greatest Crisis.

"The present situation is the greatest crisis in the mission of the church, and a catastrophe is ahead for Christian America unless city people support more generously the work carried on in country districts."

In his annual charge to the diocese at the opening of the convention yesterday, Bishop George Craig Stewart scoffed at the recent widely publicized appeal of 29 Episcopalians, clergymen, and laymen, who asked that the Episcopal church submit to the Catholic see of Rome.

Out and Out Propaganda.

"Out and out pro-Roman propaganda," Bishop Stewart asserted as he referred to the appeal. "There are many differences between our communion and that of Rome, but the root of the difference is in the claim of the bishop of Rome to be by divine appointment the sovereign pontiff of the whole church of Christ."

Court Fines Two Who Beat Former Landlord

Clarence D. Shockley, 29 years old, and Earl Griffin, 28 years old, both of 538 Harrison street, Oak Park, were each fined $15 and costs yesterday for assault and battery by Justice of the Peace Martin H. McGrath of Oak Park. Fred Stansell, 67 years old, 800 South East avenue, Oak Park, testified that the two men beat him severely on Jan. 28 when he sought to evict them from his building at 838 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, for nonpayment of rent. Shockley is an investigator for the state employment bureau.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Charles C. Rumrill, 62 years old, 3244 West 61st place, died of a heart attack yesterday in the plant of the Continental Can company, 5401 West 65th street, where he was employed.

LORDS CONDEMN RIGHT OF PEER TO TRIAL BY PEERS

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The ancient right of a peer of the British realm to be tried by his fellow peers in the house of lords may be abolished. The lords, by a vote of 45 to 24, carried a motion today by Viscount Sankey, former lord chancellor, that "the present system of trial of peers by peers has outlived its usefulness."

Lord Sankey indicated a bill would be introduced to abolish the procedure. His supporters contended the method involved waste of money and violated the principle that all are equal before the law.

The present system enables a peer facing any criminal charge to stand trial in the house of lords rather than in a common court. The most recent such case was that of the 28 year old baron, Lord de Clifford, who was acquitted speedily by the lords Dec. 12 of a charge of manslaughter arising from an automobile accident.

8 FLEE FRENCH PRISON IN CANOE TO BRITISH HAVEN

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Almost exhausted from hunger and exposure after three days in a canoe, eight ragged fugitives from the penal colony at Cayenne, French Guiana, drifted up on the beach at Fyrish village today. They were fed and given shelter by police of nearby Berbice. Protected by a privy council decree by which persons escaping from French Guiana are not returned except after complicated formalities, the convicts will be given limited time to leave British Guiana.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

The Virginia Cure

Feb. 4, 1936.

EVERYTHING from pic'led pigs' feet to rare old Virginia hams is being made from the 20 hogs butchered last week at the Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton.

Among the tests made at the farm last year was that of curing hams and bacon Virginia style. The trial was a success and will be repeated again this year. The method of curing Virginia hams was given in this column last winter at the time the test was started. Many readers used it in curing their hams and bacon.

Hundreds of persons have written letters during the last year asking for the mixture used by masters of the art; still others asked that it be reprinted. Here it is—the same formula as used by farmers in the hills of old Virginia:

A mixture of 3 pecks of salt, 1 gallon of sirup, 2 pounds of brown sugar, 1½ pounds of saltpeter to each 1,000 pounds of ham is rubbed on the "meat" side of the hams. The amount of mixture that sticks to the ham produces results. The treated hams are then packed, skin side down in a heavy barrel free from objectionable odors. Sirup barrels may be used.

The plan followed at the farm last winter was to transfer the hams to other barrels after they had been in the original barrels one week. The hams at the top of the original barrel were placed on the bottom of the new barrels.

The sirup mixture that settles to the bottom of the original barrels can be poured on top after the hams are packed a second time. After repeating the process for five consecutive weeks the hams will then be ready to smoke.

At the farm the curing mixture is brushed off—not washed—before the hams go into the smoke house. Immediately after the hams are hung they are smoked with a smoldering fire made of hickory chips with a small amount of slightly seasoned apple tree wood. They are smoked for three or four weeks.

Black pepper is rubbed on the hams before they are wrapped in brown paper and put in flour sacks or similar cloth bags. The bags are tied tight at the top and dipped in thick whitewash. About a week later the hams are dipped a second time to make sure they are thoroughly sealed.

The bacon is cured in the same kind of mixture and handled in the same way, except that the slabs are changed in the barrels over a period of only three or four weeks instead of five. Bacon slabs are thinner than hams and cure more quickly.

The Tribune farm's pork sausage is seasoned by mixing in 1 tablespoonful of black pepper, 1 tablespoonful of salt, and a dash of cayenne pepper to each 10 pounds of sausage meat. The mixture is added after the meat is ready for the grinder, which mixes the seasoning thoroughly with the meat. The sausage is put in casings and some of it is canned. Glass jars are filled with sausage and cooked for 70 minutes under 15 pounds of pressure in a pressure cooker.

Approximately 344 pounds of sausage meat were seasoned with the above mixture at the farm Saturday. About 627 pounds of leaf lard and fat trimmings was taken from the 20 hogs and rendered for lard.

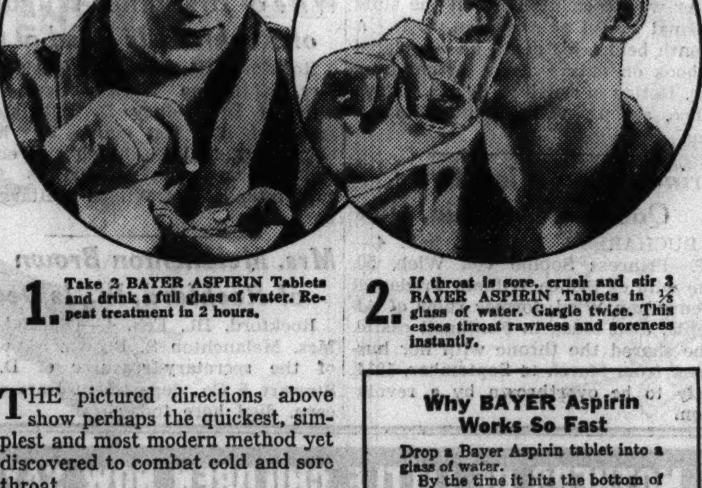
2 Things to Do TO EASE COLD INSTANTLY
Discomfort and Aches Go Almost Instantly This Way



1. Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets in ⅓ glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness instantly.

THE pictured directions above show perhaps the quickest, simplest and most modern method yet discovered to combat cold and sore throat.

Your own doctor will approve this way. Millions of people have discarded "cold killers" and patent nostrums for this modern way. It relieves the average cold almost as fast as you caught it.

Note that all you do is this.

Two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water.

Three Bayer Aspirin tablets, crushed and dissolved in ⅓ glass of water as a gargle. Gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back to permit this medicated gargle to reach the irritated membranes of the throat. The Bayer Aspirin you take internally acts to fight a cold almost instantly. AND—eases the aches and pains that accompany most colds.

The gargle acts instantly like a local anesthetic to soothe pains in the throat and to ease throat irritation.

Try this way. You will be amazed at how quickly you can ease a cold. Be sure, though, to get Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets. They dissolve almost instantly in the stomach. Hence start working almost instantly. And also, dissolve thoroughly enough in water for use as a gargle.

Why BAYER Aspirin Works So Fast
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a glass of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
In 2 Seconds By Stop Watch
A Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.
What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach — Genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

SEARCHERS FIND CAUSES TO DOUBT WELLS KIDNAPING

Consider Accident and Flight Theories.

Puzzling factors in the disappearance of Harry H. Wells, 38 years old, Monroe, Wis., dairy trucker, who vanished in Chicago last Tuesday, prevented federal agents and police last night from definitly accepting a theory that he was the victim of kidnaping extortionists.

Wells' wife, however, is convinced that her husband was kidnaped and probably slain by blackmailers. She was prostrate in her home in Monroe last night. With her were their three young children.

Investigators here conceded that kidnaping still appeared the most tenable theory, but two other possibilities were also under consideration. In their opinion the trucker may have deliberately laid a trail of false clews to baffle a search for him, or may have met with some serious accident while in the city.

Relative Told of Threats.

The stumbling block in the investigation is a letter Wells sent to his brother-in-law, Henry Burgy, of Monroe, on Tuesday afternoon as he passed through Cudahy, Wis., on the way to Chicago.

This letter, which has been sent for examination to the department of justice headquarters in Washington, told of extortion threats, according to the police. In it the contractor said he was at "the end of his rope" and that he was sending the letter in the event his enemies carried out threats made to him that morning.

Wells asked Burgy to "please be careful when you tell Sarah and the children," for it "breaks my heart that I will never see them again." Enclosed in this letter was another which bore instructions that it should not be opened until Wednesday night.

In the second letter was another mention of enemies.

"God knows what will happen if they won't lay off me this time," it said, "but I am going to fight this thing through to a finish."

Threat to Family.

This letter also disclosed that on July 9 Wells had borrowed $500 from an aunt, Miss Mary Wells, of Monroe, in order to pay the extortionists, who had threatened to abduct his children. His aunt, said Wells, knew who the extortionists were. Miss Wells told federal agents her nephew had never told her their identity.

Wells recently borrowed $1,500 from other sources, the police learned. On the morning he left Monroe he also withdrew $600 from a bank, telling his partner, Alvin Frazier, that he was coming to Chicago on business. He was last seen by a friend driving through Milwaukee.

Early Wednesday morning, some time between 1 and 6 a. m., his automobile, stained with blood, was found abandoned at Des Plaines and Madison streets.

Car Damaged in Street.

A few hours earlier a car believed to be Wells' was forced against a fire plug at Jonquil terrace and Sheridan road by another car. Wells' automobile keys were later found there.

This may have been an ordinary automobile accident in which Wells was injured, said Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street station. Part of the bumper, evidently torn off by the plug, was found in the rear of his automobile.

"But if it were an accident," asked Capt. Collins, "why was his car abandoned later in my district on the west side?"

Wells' instruction that the second letter to Burgy should not be opened until Wednesday night might indicate, Capt. Collins theorized, that Wells intended to disappar and wanted to delay a search.

CHARGE MOTHER OF ANN HEWITT WITH MAYHEM

2 Doctors Also Named in Operation Warants.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Ann Cooper Hewitt's mother and two physicians were charged with mayhem today in a police complaint based on the 21 year old heiress' claim that she was tricked into a sterilization operation.

The formal charge, sworn to by Police Inspector George Engler, climaxed efforts of authorities to bring criminal action despite Miss Hewitt's refusal to sign a complaint.

Municipal Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus, who previously had conducted a hearing to determine whether criminal charges should be brought, issued warants of arrest on the strength of Engler's complaints, plus signed and sworn statements made by Miss Hewitt and others.

Penalty 1 to 10 Years.

The punishment for mayhem is one to ten years in prison.

The complaint named the mother, Mrs. Maryon Cooper Hewitt, and Drs. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd—all accused by Miss Hewitt in a $500,000 damage suit of plotting her sterilization.

Judge Lazarus said the question of "invasion of personal rights" was alone involved and that he was not considering the possible motive.

Miss Hewitt charged in her civil suit that the operation, which she said she was led to believe was for appendicitis, was performed in furtherance of a plot by her mother to benefit from the estate inherited by the girl from her father, Peter Cooper Hewitt, famed inventor.

Judge Sees Danger in Practice.

"The question," Judge Lazarus stated, "is whether mothers, fathers or guardians can set themselves up to say whether minors should be sterilized. There are dangers in such a thing."

Judge Lazarus indicated he would set bail for Mrs. Hewitt, who has legally dropped the name of her now divorced fifth husband, McCarter, at $10,000 in property or $5,000 cash.

Mrs. Hewitt's attorney, Aaron Sapiro of New York, was not in court. His brother, Milton Sapiro, San Francisco attorney, was present as an "observer." He said Mrs. Hewitt was "in the east."

Deputy District Attorney August Fourtner said no attempt would be made to serve the warant on Mrs. Hewitt, but that he believed she would come to California voluntarily.

VIOLENT DEATHS OF 2 STUDENTS PUZZLE PROBERS

Find Youths Formerly Classmates.

Thetford, Vt., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—The decapitated, legless body of Jerome Nathan Straus of New York, a Dartmouth college freshman, was found across railroad tracks twelve miles from the college today.

He met death less than twenty-four hours after the body of a former classmate was found under similar mysterious circumstances near Amherst college.

Straus was the son of Hugh Grant Straus of New York City, an executive of a Brooklyn department store.

Call Death "Accidental."

College authorities listed the death as "accidental" but police hinted at suicide. They said Straus was unhappy at Dartmouth and wanted to quit.

He left his rooms at the college late Monday, leaving an unsigned note that read: "The demands of modern life are too much for me and I am going for a walk."

Why he left the note was unexplained, since he lived alone in the room and had few close friends in Hanover.

The lack of friends, it was understood, led him to notify college authorities he was dropping out at the start of the new semester that began today.

Believed Prone When Hit.

The position of the body indicated he was prone on the tracks when struck, police said.

Dartmouth officials doubted that Straus had heard the news of the death of his former Deerfield academy classmate, Francis Oviatt Grosse of Great Neck, N. Y. They also declined to see any connection between the deaths.

Grosse was a freshman at Amherst. His body was found under a railroad bridge on the icy Connecticut river at Northampton, yesterday.

Today police were still undecided whether he was a murder victim, a suicide, or the victim of a hit and run motorist.

Cotton Frocks Set New High for Smartness

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Previews of cotton clothes from the early spring fashion shows prove that no woman needs to look anything but crisp and neat no matter how limited the clothes allowance. Stunning tub cottons to wear from dawn till dusk are the smartest things you can own.

Slim, well tailored dresses with short sleeves for daytime wear are anything but the pluggy looking house dresses that used to appear under the name. Chevron stripes, blistered cottons, effective shantung cottons, and lacy cool cottons are just a few of the best finds.

Bright clear colors [and don't be afraid to mix red and yellow this next summer], lovely supercool blue—green and aquamarine, spanking white combined with scarlet or navy blue are the big spotlight stealers of the shows.

Tailored two piece suits, and two piece dresses are knockout, with the Chinese influence going strong in the simple one piece dresses with high upstanding collars and a row of tiny buttons down the front of the blouse.

Children's clothes are unusual, with the skirts exceedingly short for little sister under five. And for the older children there are Princess Elizabeth frocks with a slim princess streamline. Then there are the Jane Withers frocks, made in peasant style, with a tiny short sleeved sheer white blouse top peeking out from the linen high-colored dress itself.

Suspender dresses are back again with the skirt and suspenders made of English looking tweed pattern to match the flared swagger coat. The puffed sleeved blouse is of sheer white.

Linen, cottons with linen texture, clear colors, and clever tailored details have modest price tags for such good looking new spring merchandise. All the models will be appearing in the stores within the next two weeks.

Fashion photograph . . . narrow striped gray and white taffeta is used for this smart dinner costume. . . . The dress is floor length and has a high front neckline with a white pique tailored bow. The short jacket flares at the back, and has short sleeves. It is available in a Chicago shop.

Fannie Brice Again Unable to Act; Hear Rumors of Jealousy

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Theater tradition faded in a blackout for the second successive night tonight as the "Ziegfeld Follies" show failed to go on. Comedienne Fanny Brice, who has the "top" billing, was suffering from a hard cold.

The comedienne's physician, Dr. Charles Depping, assured Shubert Brothers, "Follies" producers, that Miss Brice's illness will not prevent her from appearing in the show tomorrow night.

With native skepticism, Broadway's all-night sitters launched oft-heard rumors of a backstage feud. Reports of jealousy behind the curtains cropped up, to be hastily denied at the producers' offices.

Casino Supper Will Precede Jooss Ballet

Mental Hygiene Society Sponsors Program.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MANY of the north shore residents who will be in town Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Alice May Dickinson and Gilbert H. Robinson will be staying in for the Jooss ballet that night at the Civic Opera house, so they welcomed the plan that Mrs. William S. Monroe made, to have a Dutch treat buffet supper at the Casino before the performance.

Mrs. Monroe is chairman of the committee that is sponsoring the ballet as a benefit for the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene. The supper is not limited to Casino members for any one having tickets to the ballet may make reservations for the supper by telephoning Mrs. Monroe or Miss Eloise ReQua at Franklin 1579.

Tickets to the ballet must be obtained from them, too, or from some other member of the committee, or the charity will not benefit by the sale. The charity does not receive any proceeds from tickets sold at the box office so it makes a great deal of difference to the committee where you purchase your tickets.

The Women's Trade Union league, which sponsored the Trudi Schoop ballet on a recent Sunday afternoon, did not receive nearly as large a sum as one would have supposed it did, judging by the size of the audience, because so many persons whom the committee had contacted waited and bought their tickets at the box office. The charity commitees consider this unfair and Mrs. Monroe, a member of that committee, is hoping that the Society for Mental Hygiene will fare better.

Reason for Delay Is Made Known.

Mrs. Monroe undoubtedly also hopes that the Jooss ballet will not be forty minutes late in starting, as the Schoop one was, not only because of the irritable mood into which the audience got because of the long wait, but because she finally had to personally indorse the checks that were given in payment to the Schoop business manager, before the performance started.

Mrs. Monroe's indorsement was accepted instead of certified checks, which were not obtainable on Sunday, and that was the real reason for the delay, not the excuse given out by the management later that one of the pianists had gone to the wrong theater. The checks were O. K., so Mrs. Monroe had no trouble on that score, but it was a regrettable occurrence just the same.

Mrs. Monroe is entertaining Saturday night at the Casino and later at the ballet for her cousin, "Pat" Hamill, and his bride, the former Suzette Morton.

Mrs. Monroe Pioneer in Hospital Reforms.

Mrs. Monroe counts the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene among her pet charities, if not the pet one, for she was one of the founders of it a quarter of a century ago and during all those years she has worked for it actively and devotedly.

Early in its history she even allowed herself to be locked up every day for two weeks in the detention hospital with the mentally sick women to obtain information necessary to help change conditions. It was largely through the work of the society that the Psychopathic hospital was started, and that such radical changes have come about in the treatment and care of insane by Illinois.

Mrs. Hermon D. Smith, Miss Carrie Pam, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Stuart H. Otis, and Durand Smith are the oth-

ON two of the coldest mornings of last week, when sensible folk forgot vanity, wore earmuffs, and bulged with sweaters, a pedestrian walking west on lower Wacker drive at 8:10 o'clock met a striking blonde dressed in black. Her tiny black hat was tipped to the right side, and her golden hair, waved upward, left an ear the color of a ripe tomato, adorned with a gold medallion earring with four danglers, exposed to the wintry blast. The next morning he observed a slight change in her attire. She had made a concession to the cold . . . a black spider web of a veil that flared from her hat in piquant folds.

THE mercury was close to zero when June Hayes boarded a street car at 11 o'clock a few mornings ago. Cold as she was, she felt a chill at her spine when she saw a Negro woman with a pint of ice cream on her lap which she was eating with obvious enjoyment, using as a spoon a part of the container top which she had torn off.

THE New York music critic who commented that the Metropolitan's Gladys Swarthout in "Rose of the Rancho" was a capable actress "to boot" was thinking perhaps of Mme. Gertrude Wintergren, the Swedish contralto. You remember perhaps, according to the published accounts of her arrival in America, the ship reporters wished her luck and Mme. Wintergren presented her back, asking to be kicked. An old Swedish custom bringing luck to any one starting a new venture, she explained.

Gordon String Quartet Plays in Series Here

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Jacques Gordon, who, as concertmeister of the Chicago Symphony orchestra and solo violinist of note, was for many years one of the city's most important musical figures, returned to his old habitat last night to lead the Gordon String quartet through a program of old and new music. The scene was the foyer of Orchestra hall, the occasion was the third concert in the Chicago Chamber Music association's series.

The third quartet of Quincy Porter, a present day American pedagog and composer, stood between Haydn and Beethoven on the scheduled program. Some Mozart and Schubert were added at the end in response to insistent applause.

The Gordon String quartet is an admirably routined group capable of a variety of tasteful and musicianly effects. Its phrasing is clean and expressive, the balance between the instruments the result of much careful and painstaking experiment. Tonally, the ensemble is of the traditional variety, rather austere, and intolerant of flashy tricks.

The Chicago Chamber Music association's series closes on Feb. 18 with the Mischakoff String quartet.

Hazel Fern Heitman, soprano, sang a program in Kimball hall last night whose items were drawn from the work of four centuries and many nations. A novelty was the inclusion of some examples of the much talked about but seldom heard lyric song literature of Elizabethan times.

Miss Heitman possesses several excellent qualifications. The most important is a naturally graceful voice quality. Others are graciousness of personality and a quiet intelligence. On the debit side are some still remaining flaws in diction and a certain hardness which creeps into her voice when it is forced.

A talented lyric singer need never worry about trying to produce big dramatic effects; they are neither necessary nor desirable, and are very apt to mar the natural sweetness of the voice. Schubert's "Margaret at the Spinning Wheel" was lovely until the punch lines came. They can very easily be glossed over with a mezzo-forte and everybody concerned [including Schubert, I belivеve] be the happier for it.

Miss Heitman puts genuine gayety into her singing of the Elizabethan ditties. She has that nice ability to enter into the spirit of each type of song in a natural, convincing way.

The Federal Music Project's Symphony orchestra, under the sponsorship of WPA and the direction of Max Bendix, will play its first concert tonight in the Austin Town hall, 5600 Lake street. Theodora Carroll, soprano, is booked as soloist. The program is ambitious and will include the Tschaikowsky Sixth symphony.

Good Morning!

Well, here's "Seven Keys to Baldpate" again—that merry comedy that's seen such good service on stage and screen.

George M. Cohan dramatized the original novel by Earl Derr Biggers and appeared in the "legitimate" production. Later he played the lead in a silent screen version. Then, along came Douglas MacLean—in another nontalking adaptation. In 1930 Richard Dix appeared in a talkie screenization. Now it has become Gene Raymond's turn to portray the young author who, on a bet, goes to a "haunted" mountain hostelry in the dead of winter to write a novel in twenty-four hours.

The author's name is Mr. Magee, and he is told by the inn's caretakers, as they hand him the key, that it's the ONLY key to Baldpate. The young man goes to his room, uncorks his typewriter, and gets all set to start authoring, when—click—another key turns in the lock. And from then on the place becomes overrun with folks who simply unlock the front door and come in.

Sleek ladies slink about. Gangsters roar and prowl. A half idiot proves to be a heap smarter than you think he is—and everywhere you turn the yellow eyes of a black cat gleam out at you. The wind howls. Secret panels slide open and shut. . . .

Does the author write his book? See pix for that information. As you may well believe, he has material enough for half a dozen novels by the time the twenty-four hours have vanished into crypts of time. And, of course, he falls in love . . . !

The film is lightweight but amusing.

Gene Raymond, looking exceedingly handsome for himself, plays young Mr. Magee with pep and humor. Margaret Callahan and Erin O'Brien-Moore are effective as the women in the case. Eric Blore—usually the perfect butler—this time is seen in an entirely different sort of rôle and wearing a mustache. But clever as ever—dear, yes!

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" should prove what the doctor ordered for brain-fagged fans who would like to be amused without having to think or getting overly excited.

See you tomorrow.

Gracie Allen at Garner Fete for Roosevelts

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—An unusual dinner, bringing within four walls such personalities as the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, and Gracie Allen, was staged tonight.

The occasion was the annual dinner of the Vice President and Mrs. Garner for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Gracie Allen was among the entertainers indirectly invited by the Garners in their yearly effort to give a dinner that is different.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes headed the list of guests. Another guest was Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wearing a dress as shimmery white-and-silver as when she appeared at the Liberty league dinner.

The capital was reminded of years past when the late Will Rogers was Garner's entertainer extraordinary.

As in the last two years, the Garners drafted Gene Buck to help them turn out an unusual dinner.

"Since it's the only dinner the President goes to, we always try to hand him a laugh," said Buck.

Besides the George Burns and Allen team, Buck lined up as entertainers: Corinna Mura, a brunette singer from Garner's home state of Texas whose Spanish and English songs have only guitar accompaniment; Jack Powell, that comedy-drummer who tat-a-tats his rhythm on whatever furniture happens to be handy; Alfred Chigi, new Metropolitan baritone; and Pauline Alpert, modern pianist.

Blue-eyed Mrs. Garner chose for the dinner a gown she had purchased in the Philippines, blue net appliqued in fine Filipino hand work, white flowers on the full skirt, white edgings on the bodice ruffles, a big white bow in the middle of the back. With it she wore silver slippers.

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Julius Saranack was murdered in his home, Hillfoot, near London. Eight uncut diamonds were stolen. Torrance Esdale was there the night he was murdered. She entered the house secretly to retrieve a letter she'd written Gerald Saranack, Julius' nephew, her childhood sweetheart. Gerald is expected next day with an English governess he'd married in Spain. Torrance had heard voices and hiding, watched as a girl secreted jewels behind a brick in the fireplace. Next day Torrance meets the girl—she's Annabelle, Gerald's wife, though the couple arrived that morning from Paris. Gerald still loves Torrance, but has been taken in by Annabelle's apparent naiveness and need of protection. Torrance confides in her American employer, Hartlandt Massiter. Massiter learns that Julius Saranack is heir to the wealth of his friend, John Ellister, who had also been murdered on the same day, leaving Gerald next in line. Torrance accepts an invitation to visit Hillfoot and tries in vain to warn Gerald and shows him where the jewels are hidden—he turns them over to Annabelle. In Vanderlem, Annabelle's former employer, Torrance recognizes the rat-faced man who'd been Annabelle's accomplice. Gerald testifies at the inquest on his uncle. A car parked near Hillfoot the night of the murder was later seen at a nearby aerodrome. Suddenly Gerald realizes Annabelle could have flown from Paris to London and back in the six hours they'd been separated that night. To save him Torrance plans to elope with Gerald.

INSTALMENT XXVII.
A MOMENTOUS DECISION.

In Gerald's arms a few centuries of civilization slipped away. The racial rhythm throbbed in her so that it seemed a little thing that they should kiss with the threat of death around them. Such things had been from the beginning.

The long moment passed and they were back together in the twentieth century.

"We must settle all the details before she gets back," said Torrance. As she said it she thought the words horrible but there must be no straining on points of delicacy.

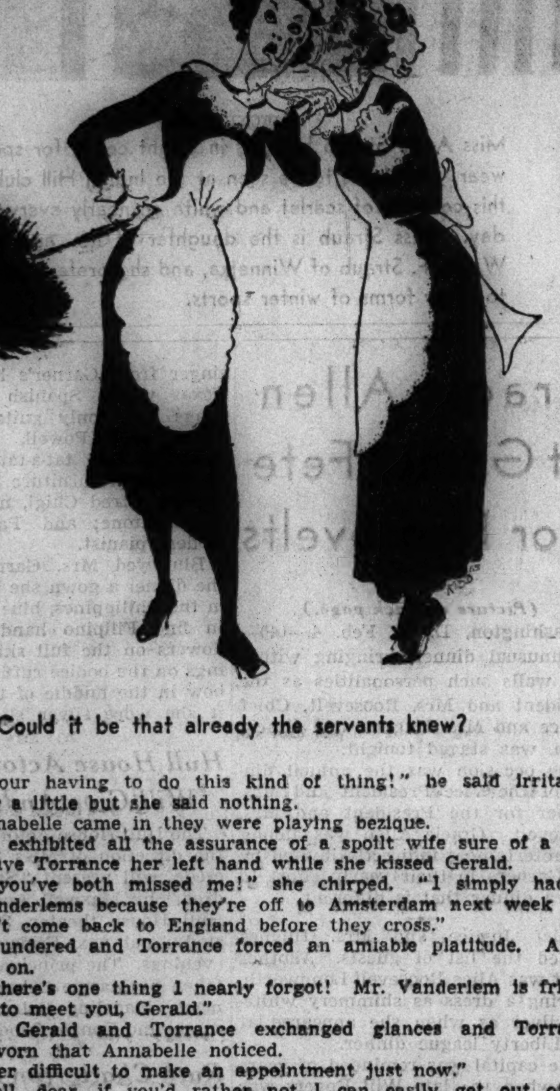
"Nothing to settle. Let's clear out now."

"No. She might come in while we were packing, and the whole thing would be ridiculous. Tomorrow. I'll pack tonight. Then I'll get her out of the house tomorrow somehow and you take my things to the station. I'll meet you under the clock at Waterloo. I don't know what time. I'm afraid you'll have to wait there until I come. And you must leave a letter behind for her."

"A letter! What on earth am I to say?"

Torrance grimaced.

"Something canting and horrible—that you can never ask her to forgive you for the wrong you've done her—that you've found too late you love me. Heavens! I've had to copy out that kind of thing in law cases more than once. End up by saying you will send her a hotel bill that will enable her to procure the freedom to which she is entitled."



Could it be that already the servants knew?

"Fancy your having to do this kind of thing!" he said irritably. That hurt her a little but she said nothing.

When Annabelle came in they were playing bezique.

"I hope you've both missed me!" she chirped. "I simply had to go to the Vanderlems because they're off to Amsterdam next week and probably won't come back to England before they cross."

Gerald floundered and Torrance forced an amiable platitude. Annabelle prattled on.

"O, and there's one thing I nearly forgot! Mr. Vanderlem is frightfully anxious to meet you, Gerald."

Inevitably Gerald and Torrance exchanged glances and Torrance could have sworn that Annabelle noticed.

"It's rather difficult to make an appointment just now."

"Very well, dear, if you'd rather not I can easily get out of it. I'm seeing Minnie [Mrs. Vanderlem] tomorrow. She's taking me to a dressmaker she's found and I can make some excuse then. Torrance, he doesn't think me heartless, does he, to go to a dressmaker's at such a time?"

"I don't suppose so," said Torrance. "Uncle Julius was nothing to you."

Gerald was being positively bearish. It was, thought Torrance, bad tactics, for Annabelle would probably try to coax him into a good temper. But apparently she did not notice.

"I can hardly stand up—I'm going straight to bed," announced Annabelle and Torrance went up with her.

On the upper landing Annabelle clung to Torrance.

"Gerry is cross with me tonight. He is, isn't he! Don't say he isn't if you really think he is."

"O, I don't think it's anything!" said Torrance. "He has his moods like everybody else. He has been grim all the evening."

On the next morning Annabelle came down to breakfast in her hat.

"I told Minnie it must be simply frightfully early because I mean to be back here for lunch," she explained. "Or Gerald will feel I'm neglecting him, won't you, Gerry?"

"Yes—no. I mean, as you please——" broke off Gerald absently, and then, by way of atonement: "Shall I call you a taxi? What time do you want it?"

"I've already called it. It will be here in a minute."

Annabelle was the kind of woman who had to be seen into taxis. And as Gerald would not officiate, Torrance did so. As soon as the taxi had started she turned into the kitchen.

"Mrs. Saranack will be in to lunch, but Mr. Saranack and I will be out," she explained. "I think you'd better do some cutlets."

To Torrance there seemed something of finality in this simple announcement to the cook.

"Very good, miss!" said the cook and it was as if she accepted a momentous decision without wishing to make any comment upon it. Could it be that already the servants knew?

Then Torrance went upstairs and finished her packing. When she came down Gerald was prowling about the hall.

"I've done the letter," he told her. "You don't want to see it, do you?" As she shook her head he sealed it up. "That dressmaker, or whatever it is, is thundering convenient."

Torrance shivered. Almost too convenient. There came to her the sudden conviction that Annabelle knew exactly what they were doing.

"I'd better put it in the middle of the hall table. No, the servants will see it there."

"It doesn't matter," said Torrance firmly and added: "They'll see us move our luggage and they'll know what's happening."

An hour later he was carrying down their luggage, loading it on to the station taxi.

"We'll cut out the local station. I've told him to drive straight to Waterloo," said Gerald, looking a trifle sheepish.

At a few minutes to one Heywood was opening the door to Annabelle.

"Ger-ald! . . . Tor-rance!" she called in a pretty treble.

"Miss Esdale and Mr. Saranack will not be in to lunch, madam," said Heywood. "I think Mr. Saranack left a note for you."

"Thank you! O, yes, there it is!" said Annabelle, graciously saving the maid the trouble of handing it to her.

Heywood passed on to the kitchen. But a second before the baize door slammed behind her she heard a scream. She rushed back into the hall to find Mrs. Saranack in a state of collapse.

"I think I'm going to faint. Bring me some brandy."

When Heywood returned with the brandy Mrs. Saranack had not fainted but was crying piteously.

"Is there anything I can do, madam?"

"Nothing, I'm afraid." Annabelle sipped the brandy.

Heywood was moved to pity as her young mistress struggled for composure.

"I've no right to distress you with my troubles, Heywood. But you're certain to hear of this and it seems more friendly to tell you now . . . Mr. Saranack has left me. He has eloped with Miss Esdale."

Casino Supper Will Precede Jooss Ballet

ers of the committee that has planned the benefit.

Ronald P. Boardman, a member of Mrs. Monroe's committee, attended the première of the Jooss ballet at the Metropolitan in New York and he came back the other day enthusiastic and thrilled over it. This ballet is making its first American tour, although it is well known abroad, having achieved a reputation there equaled only by the Russian ballet. England has been its home since it left Germany two years ago, although Jooss himself is Dutch and his wife is Esthonian. Seventeen nationalities are represented in the troupe.

Fort Sheridan Officers to Give Melodrama.

It is a far cry from polo and horse shows to grease paint and footlights, but the officers at Fort Sheridan are going to try their hand at the latter and have organized the Fort Sheridan Dramatic club which will give a play on the evening of Feb. 29. The club is rehersing an old fashioned melodrama, "Gold in the Hills, or the Dead Sisters' Secret," to be presented at a dinner-dance at the post gymnasium on that evening.

The gym is to be decorated like a beer garden with bowery waiters, dance hall girls and all the trimmings, and the show will be seen from the dinner tables after dinner has been served. There will be dancing with dinner, and dancing after the performance, so the evening promises to be long one, full of gayety and entertainment.

Col. Edwin C. Greiner, whose public appearances so far have been limited to the polo field, will take the part of the hero, playing opposite Mrs. William Dunkle as Little Nell. Capt. Dunkle will take the part of Richard Murgatroyd, the villain, of course.

Mrs. Charles B. Meyers, wife of Col. Meyers, is chairman of the dinner and show to which the public is invited. Assisting Mrs. Meyers are Mrs. Greiner, Mrs. Norris P. Walsh, Mrs. Dover Bell, Mrs. Lloyd Cook, Mrs. Templeton Holland, Miss True Merrill, Mrs. Dorrance S. Roysdon, and Mrs. Walter Downing. Officers, their wives and families make up the 31 members of the cast.

Badminton Games at Onwentsia Club.

Only 100 persons can be accommodated at a badminton exhibition at the Onwentsia club next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, so it will be a case of first come first served. Among the players will be several of Winnetka's best, among them Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien and Mrs. Paul Starr.

Small groups have been playing this game for the last few years, and it slowly is gaining in favor with every one, especially in the winter time, for it can be played indoors as easily as squash.

First on the exhibition program will be Mrs. Starr and Mrs. William Martin vs. Mrs. O'Brien and Miss Betty Sunderland. Then mixed doubles with Miss Ruth Long and Morris Thomas playing Mrs. O'Brien and Agate Martin. The last match will be men's doubles played by Dr. Starr and Boyd Anderson against Mr. Martin and Mr. Thomas.

Tea Tomorrow for Miss Finn.

Mrs. Lansing B. Warner is giving a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Warners' Hubbard Woods residence so that her friends may meet her son's, Newton H. Tobey's, charming fiancée, Miss Helen Finn of Pittsfield, Mass. Miss Finn already is quite well acquainted with residents of the north shore for she has visited several times with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick W. Smith, in Winnetka, where she is a guest now.

Mrs. Smith will be among those assisting Mrs. Warner at the tea. Others whom Mrs. Smith has asked to assist her are Mrs. John E. Blunt, Mrs. John E. Blunt Jr., Mrs. Thomas Eddy, Mrs. Horace, Capron, Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy, Mrs. John F. Herdic, Mrs. John Eliot Warner, Mrs. William Robert Tobey, Mrs. John E. Blunt III., and Mrs. Carleton Blunt.

The Chicago Vassar club is meeting at the Fortnightly today for luncheon, followed by a talk by Mrs. Quincy Wright on "Our Neutrality Laws." Mrs. Andrew MacLeish will preside at the luncheon.

The Rector's Guild of Trinity church in Highland Park has taken over the dining room, ballroom, and lounge of the Deerpath Inn in Lake Forest for a supper-dance and fashion show on Saturday night to benefit the guild's charity fund. Mrs. Charles Perrigo, assisted by Mrs. William L. Winters, is chairman of the party, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Western Suburbs Plan Welfare Ball.

At a joint meeting and tea Monday at the home of Mrs. K. G. Deimling the junior group and the junior auxiliary of the Oak Park and River Forest center of the Infant Welfare society will make plans for their annual ball April 25 at the Drake hotel.

Gerald Hewitt Smith is spending a week in Evanston as the guest of his fiancée and her parents, Miss Virginia Ashcraft and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III. Young Mr. Smith is having a vacation after his midwinter examinations at Princeton, where he is a senior.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashcraft and their daughter are leaving Feb. 18 for Phoenix, Ariz., to spend a few weeks at the Arizona Biltmore, and when they return Miss Ashcraft will go to New York to visit Mr. Smith and his aunt, Mrs. Jessica Hawthorne Smith, with whom he makes his home.

Mr. Smith and Miss Ashcraft are planning to be married in September. They will live in New York.

Miss Mira Hall arrives tomorrow to be the guest of Mrs. Frederick T. West. About 20 young women who have attended Miss Hall's school in Pittsfield, Mass., will give a luncheon for her on Friday at the Blackstone hotel.

More Chicagoans Go to Warmer Climes.

Every day more people go away to warmer climes. Mrs. Sewell Avery and her daughter, Miss Nancy Avery, have gone to Asheville, N. C., for a few weeks. The Sterling Mortons have gone to Castle Hot Springs, Ariz., for several weeks. When they return they will spend a few days here and then go to Palm Beach.

The Andrew McNallys and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Downs are in Los Angeles at the Ambassador. Following the big Santa Anita handicap race, which is attracting many eastern racing enthusiasts, a ball will be given at the Ambassador. The race will be run on Feb. 22.

Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps and her sister, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, have gone to California where they are meeting young Hubbard Phelps, who is a student in the Boeing Aviation school, and then journeying on to Honolulu to see William M. Blair Jr., who is studying at Honolulu college. Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Blair will return to Chicago the middle of March.

"Basic" Dress a Spring Hit

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

One of the requirements of a "basic" dress, so popular now among women who enjoy variety in their wardrobes and yet must consider the budget, is that it be simple. This pattern, No. 2578, is a splendid example of this type of frock. Its plain skirt, simple neckline, and graceful sleeves are chic in themselves, but also are ideal foundation for any accessories one might choose.

Beige shades are enjoying popularity right now, as is delicate gray. Both of these shades, as well as black or navy blue, would be attractive for this model, in either wool crêpe or silk. Accessories depend upon one's whim or complexion, but some suggestions are black, rust, coral red, bright green, bright blue, and white.

If you like the frock as it is, without accessories, and it is exceedingly smart this way, printed silks would be a perfect medium.

Style No. 2578 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

Daily Nap Is One Simple Method of Retaining Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We were talking to a matron the other day whose household we know to be a lively one wherein reside four young huskies, masculine, besides the mother and father. This woman's youth is inspiring. Personally, I feel that there are no Ponce de Leon waters on this earth so youth provoking as the live, full, happy household as represented in this particular instance.

But what I learned of interest about the matron is her established daily habit of a half hour's nap after luncheon. "I don't get a chance at the bathroom with all that crowd around mornings," she reported, "so I instituted the after-lunch period as my own for a bath followed by a rest period. And I don't care who is on the radio, who is coming for dinner, or what happens. I get that nap!"

What brought this on was a conversation on nerves. "I won't be one of those chain-smoking, nerve-ridden females the world is cluttered with now," the matron offered. "That nap is my protection!"

And what the world of women needs more than diets, hair dyes, facials, nail polishes [and there's no disrespect meant to these aids in their place] is the cultivation of CALM. And nothing can produce it like periods of relaxation. It's trite to talk about, I know. But that doesn't make it any the less obligatory when charm and beauty are the ambition ahead. Especially today, when we all run around like the proverbial beheaded chicken and keep on running and running, and for what? Fifteen minutes, half hours, hours are destroyed with no more to show for them than a few more nerve twitches and a deeper inroad of lines around eyes and mouth corners.

If youngsters with all their fresh young vitality prosper better on a nap during the day doesn't it stand to reason that adults would conserve energy for the dinner and evening duties with a litle of the well known quieter? All women can't indulge because of the nature of their work. But there are just scads of nerve-ridden householders who could get the habit profitable to their beauty. And it is suggested that this daily habit be a beauty treatment. Plaster the face with a rich tissue cream and let it remain on after you've tied up your hair and covered the pillow with a protective towel.

The Parachute Skirt Is Shown by Schiaparelli

Wider at Thighline than at the Hem.

PARIS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A new "parachute" silhouette landed on the style scene today when Schiaparelli showed her 1936 spring fashions.

Evening and afternoon skirts were seamed like a parachute, with greater width at the thighline than at the hem. Waistlines were high, shoulders natural and bodices close fitting.

Many fashion fancies struck an ultrafeminine note. Colored tulle petticoats of contrasting hue showed three inches below the hems of evening and afternoon gowns.

A valentine edging of white or gold cutout lackered linen trimmed afternoon and evening frocks. Small flower nosegays, rimmed with valentine edging, accented evening frocks and day suits. Long colored tulle gloves and flower clusters at the nape of the neck were worn with evening clothes.

"Loveletter" stamp and seal and patch prints were the outstanding novel fabrics. The evening mode featured Jack and the Beanstalk prints, patterned in sprawling vines. The day mode stressed soft wools and flecked silks in colors of black, spice, brown, violet, oyster, white, and terra cotta.

Street clothes were designed in slender profile. Many dark suits and frocks had three-quarter fitting jackets with high waistlines. Coats likewise were highwaisted. Buttons were lobsters, beetles, and birds. Gloves were bright red or green suede and wool. Shoes were suede boots reaching the ankle bone.

Hats were black and brown derbies, encircled by veils. The slide system fastened all clothes. Parasols were carried with beach costumes.

Saints and Sinners to Hold Frolic at Blackstone Tonight

Members of the Chicago Tent of the Circus Saints and Sinners association will gather tonight in the ballroom of the Blackstone hotel for their annual midwinter frolic. Windmill Quilt Block Has Appeal for the Amateur Broken Windmills.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service Offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Broken Windmills" is an intriguing quilt pattern which should appeal to all amateur quilt makers. It requires only two patches for the entire block, and blue and white is the predominant color combination, with touches of red set in each corner. The entire quilt is composed of pieced blocks, and only 30 squares are required for an entire quilt. The edge of the coverlet is finished with a 4½ inch border composed of 1½ strips of the three colors used. When finished, the quilt measures 91½ by 108 inches.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street, or Tribune Tower.

Oberlin Alumnæ.

The Chicago Alumnæ of Oberlin college are sponsoring a musical next Saturday, in the home of Mrs. Robert Keep Clark at 6020 Woodlawn avenue as a benefit for the scholarship fund. About 500 Oberlin college women are expected. Miss Alice Ward and Miss Barbara Jean Hull are two of the artists on the program. Mrs. Henry T. Paulson of Oak Park is president of the Chicago Oberlin club.

Through the Looking Glass

The agitation about Saint Valentine's day has already begun, we notice, and for the benefit of those of you who have some early shopping to do we call attention to a slick beauty valentine now in the shops. Three cunning flacons of perfectly beautiful perfume, all tucked into a red satin lined box with a perky heart dangling therefrom. Very chic, and really easy on the pocketbook.

The three perfumes are known just about all over the world and the woman who could resist them isn't worth tossing offerings to; she has a heart of stone and won't amount to much from a romantic standpoint anyway. With these three she has a scent for just about every mood and every type of costume, and she'll like all equally well.

In one of the little crown stoppered bottles there is a light, airy perfume very much on the English garden order. This is one of the most popular perfumes of the moment, and best of all the best sellers of its Russian creator. Feminine and sweet, it avoids being too sugary and hits exactly the note which would earn it the adjective "charming."

The second of the trio is our own favorite — this is mysterious and haunting, but still light enough to be worn by the average woman. Every one we know adores it and we ourselves like it especially for fur and fine clothing and the elegance of mood both produce.

The third is sophisticated and just a trifle heavy. It's one of those royally rich fragrances that every woman in the world likes to use on occasion.

All three of the perfumes in the valentine box, all set to be delivered at your love's door on February 14, are good ones. They last and the scent doesn't change.

Foreign Ways Enhance Plain Old Lamb Stew

Economical Dish Adopts Old World Flavors.

"Modern Meat Lore," a 52 page booklet containing the most recent information on selection of meat cuts, the most modern methods of cooking meats, and many recipes for economical meat dishes to ease the budget problem, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 20 cents. By mail, 23 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's a plain Irish stew in Dublin. The French may call it a ragout d'agneau. In Mexico it becomes cordero à la Mexicana. It's bredee in South Africa, and carbonada in Uruguay. To us, it's just our savory, homely favorite, Lamb Stew, underneath all the foreign names and trick variations.

You needn't be reminded to serve lamb stew often, because you know, as well as we do, how economical and flavorsome and simply made it is. But, perhaps, you need to borrow a little inspiration for varying its make-up. These foreign-born suggestions may offer sufficient jog to the imagination.

Syrian Lamb Stew.

1 pound lamb shoulder, cubed
2 tablespoons fat
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups string beans
2 medium onions
2 cups canned tomatoes
Salt, water

Dredge the meat with flour and salt and brown in the hot fat. Turn into a stew pan, scraping out the contents of the skillet carefully, and add the chopped onions and tomatoes. Add water to cover, cover closely, and simmer gently until the meat is tender. Add the cut string beans after the first half hour of cooking.

Cordero à la Mexicana.

1 pound lean lamb, diced
2 tablespoons fat
3 onions, sliced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder
1½ cups canned tomatoes
Cooked rice

Brown the lamb, onions, and green pepper in the hot fat. Add the seasonings and tomatoes. Cover and simmer until the meat is tender, adding water as necessary [the finished stew should be quite thick]. Serve hot over hot cooked rice.

Carbonada.

2 onions
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons minced parsley
3 tablespoons minced celery
2 cups tomato puree
2 pounds lean lamb, cubed
1 cup raw rice

Brown the onions in the olive oil. Add the parsley, celery, and tomato puree. Add the cubed raw lamb, cover closely, and simmer gently, adding water or stock as necessary. When the meat is nearly tender, add the rice and as much more water or stock as is needed and cook until the rice is tender. Do not stir after the rice is added, but shake the pan to keep the mixture from sticking. The stew should be fairly thick and dry when finished.

Ragout d'Agneau.

3 pounds breast of lamb
1 cup boiling water
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 onion
1 small carrot
1 stalk celery
Parsley, thyme, bayleaf
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon cream
⅔ cup spinach puree
Juice of 1 lemon
Salt, pepper

Trim the meat, and cut into 2 inch cubes. Cook the onion, sliced carrot, and diced celery in the butter for 15 minutes, but do not brown. Blend in the flour. Add the boiling water, salt, pepper and the bouquet garni [parsley, thyme, bayleaf tied in small cheesecloth bag] and stir until smooth. Put in the meat, cover closely, and simmer gently for 1½ hours. Season the spinach puree with lemon juice. When the meat is tender, remove to a hot platter. Strain the sauce into another pan, add the spinach puree and, when nearly boiling, stir in the slightly beaten egg yolk and cream. Cook 1 minute, or until slightly thickened, and pour over the meat to serve.

According to CULBERTSON

An innovation in the scoring has from time to time been suggested to me by many correspondents. I think there is a great deal of merit in the idea. It is simply this: That some premium be awarded to successful bidders of five-odd contracts in the major suits.

There is sound logic behind this. On innumerable hands proper bidding—which is to say the full investigation of game and slam possibilities—will carry the bidders past the game level in a legitimate slam approach. In other words, only a coward would stop at game and only a wild man would bid the slam. Why, then, should not the expert bidder be rewarded for his accuracy? He has deliberately risked the loss of a game and cannot reap the premium of a slam—surely his nice balance of courage and caution deserves recognition. The major suit five-bid might be designated a "demi-slam" and rewarded with a few extra points.

A Good Opening Lead.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 diam'd	Double
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	2 no tr'p
Pass	3 no tr'mp [final bid]

East's opening bid was in the nature of a semi-psychic. West carefully considered the bidding and then led the only suit that could defeat the contract—the club. He correctly reasoned that his partner must have a weak hand [it usually is wise to put more faith in the bidding of vulnerable opponents than in that of a non-vulnerable partner—especially when he has not confirmed his strength by rebidding]. Also, it was obvious that both North and South were prepared for a diamond or a spade lead. The club choice was merely a logical double-cross.

Despite his three club stoppers declarer had too much to do in the way of suit establishment to make his nine tricks. The opening lead reduced him to two clubs; he naturally attacked the heart suit, but in driving out East's double stopper his other two club guards were lost. West had merely to hold a club with which to put East on lead.

A diamond opening would have established instantly South's king for the ninth trick; a spade opening would have gone into South's tenace, and a heart opening would have given declarer the time necessary to set up the diamond king.

CHIEF OF NAZIS IN SWITZERLAND IS ASSASSINATED

DAVOS, Switzerland, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Wilhelm Gustloff, 41 year old militant leader of Nazis in Switzerland, was assassinated today by a medical student who said he wanted to strike a blow at the régime of Adolf Hitler.

Gustloff was shot to death in his apartment. Five bullets entered his body.

His slayer ran from the building, threatening a crowd, which had hastily gathered, with his pistol, and escaped. Later he telephoned police and surrendered.

In jail, the youth said he was David Frankfurther, a Jewish medical student who had come here from Berne to kill Gustloff and thus avenge the persecution of Jews in Germany. Police said the 26 year old slayer seemed well balanced and calm.

Gustloff, a German physicist attached to the Davos observatory, had angered Swiss Socialists by organizing Germans in this country in support of Hitler. Anti-Nazis repeatedly demanded his expulsion, but the federal council decided his activity was within the law.

Victim a Veteran Nazi.

Gustloff was honored by Nazi officials as the oldest in point of service among the party's foreign organizers. Born in Mecklenburg, he went to Davos because of lung trouble. He joined with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in 1929 and organized the first Swiss unit in 1930.

Serious trouble between Germany and Switzerland was feared. The neighbor nations previously have been involved in several incidents surrounding Naziism.

From time to time newspapers of each nation have been banned by the other.

The outstanding recent incident between Switzerland and Germany arose over the alleged kidnaping of Berthold Jacob, a German-Jewish journalist, on Swiss soil by a Nazi agent.

After weeks of negotiations the German government delivered Jacob over to Swiss authorities and the Nazi agent was reprimanded.

Hitler Consoles Widow.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler telegraphed sympathy to the widow of Wilhelm Gustloff today, while the German press reported "Murder by Jew" in big headlines. Quick justice was demanded from Swiss authorities by Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter, which said:

"The Gustloff murder by a Jew throws a glaring light on the rotten activity of Jews in the whole world. Germany lost hundreds of men through Jews, and Frankfurter's act justifies the Nazi separation of Jews from Germans."

News of the slaying reached Berlin as Baron Konstantin von Neurath, minister of foreign affairs, was giving a reception for 1,500 diplomats and Nazi leaders. All uniformed Nazis left the reception when the slaying was announced.

Claims Financial Crisis of Australian State Near End

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Australia, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Premier B. S. B. Stevens announced today that the state of New South Wales had almost concluded its long march out of the financial troubles it experienced four years ago. He said his government's 1936-'37 budget would be balanced and that £2,000,000 would be paid on old debts. When the government took office in 1931 the state debt exceeded £14,000,000. [The Australian pound is worth about $4.]

FINE ADDED TO SPEEDER'S PENALTY.

Donald Curtis, 25 years old, 1519 Warren boulevard, a student at Rush medical college, who was sentenced Monday to serve a day in the county jail on a speeding charge, was fined an additional $25 on the charge yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht in the trafic court.

ATHLETES MUST FIGHT FOR HITLER, NAZI TEXT SAYS

Declares No Activity Outside Naziism.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—"Nonpolitical sportsmen are unthinkable," and athletes must be trained as political fighters for Naziism, that is the order issued in a semi-official handbook published with the approval of the state commissar for sports, Dr. Von der Tschammer-Osten.

"National socialism," the handbook explains, "simply cannot put up with the idea of any branch of organized activity in Germany being outside of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's movement." Germany's athletes are called on to study this textbook, to assimilate and practice its precepts and then to pass an examination as evidence of their "political reliability."

Must Defend Race.

In the future the German athlete will not be regarded as "complete" from the Nazi standpoint unless he or she has mastered Nazi principles and racial theories and is fully acquainted with all the details of Hitler's career. Above all athletes will be expected to defend convincingly Chancellor Hitler's racial legislation.

"Race is blood and spirit. The blood which predominates in the people gives it leadership and direction. In the German people Nordic blood predominates. The individual has value, significance, justification and a future only as a member of his race." The authors of the book assert that "the rise and fall of nations is due to the increase or decrease of light Nordic blood in the blood of the darker race."

Athletes are sternly cautioned against the racial dangers resulting from "inter-racial breeding" and a doleful picture is drawn for them of the fate of the nation which does not put a ban upon "racially mixed marriages."

Lists Two Enemies.

An athlete who wants to show that he has studied the textbook must be able to answer its 141 questions which are listed somewhat like a religious catechism.

German athletes are warned against "superstate or supernational [international] powers which are inimical to the nation."

These powers want the "destruction of nations which are outstanding in order to enable them to rule the world alone," the book declares. "They do it by preaching the theory of 'equality of all men in the eyes of God.' This teaching is contrary to all laws of nature, science of living and historical experience." The powers thus denounced are the Catholic church and the Jews.

The Catholics are called the "Black Internationale" which wants to help the pope rule the world. The Jews are grouped with "Negroes, Chinese and Indians" as being incapable of being German and they are called a "devilish power" in the lives of nations.

Outlines Boundaries.

The political catechism of the budding German sportsmen includes an outline of the "expansion of the German nation." "Its representatives are in a compact group in the whole of central Europe in a district that is inclosed in the lines Dunkerque-Malmedy to Zermatt, Switzerland, in the west; the Channel, North sea, and Baltic in the north; Memel, Lyck, Thorn, Ratibor, Bratislava, and Fiume in the east, not including the Czech group.

"The south barrier is formed by the entire Alps. This includes the former German empire [of the middle ages], the German parts of Austria, Bohemia, Switzerland, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Holland."

The author of the textbook is pleased because "many Germans in North America are hearing the call of their German blood, as, for instance, in 1934, when they organized the campaign of defense against the boycott organized by Jews against the German reich." The author estimates that 83,000,000 Germans live in Europe and 12,000,000 in America, and another million in Africa, Australia, and Asia.

MANY ARE INJURED AS ANTI - JEWISH RIOTS FLARE ANEW IN POLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 4.—Another free for all fight occurred in the law school of Warsaw university today when Polish students refused to permit a class to open until Jewish students had been segregated at one side of the room.

Cywlja Osterblum, a 19 year old girl, screamed, "Polish pigs!" at students who were manhandling their Jewish comrades. She was carried to the office of the rector where it was announced she would be tried before the university court on a charge of "insulting Polish honor."

A number of Jewish students were beaten during the riot.

Other Jewish excesses were reported from the villages of Truskolasy and Klobucko near the holy city of Czenstochau [Czestochowa], which contains the famous miracle working shrine of the Holy Virgin.

Following disorders in which peasants attacked and expelled Jewish traders from the markets, police tonight arrested twenty-two men and charged them with inciting riots. Many Jews required medical attention.

The feeling between the Poles and Jews throughout Poland continues strained. Polish authorities were doing their utmost to preserve order. It is reported, however, that the backbone of the communist movement in Poland is Jewish and arrests and heavy sentences have not appeased the Poles.

Anti-Semitism in the villages has been intensified by the economic crisis. Low prices paid by Jewish middlemen for agricultural produce are causing repeated outbreaks.

80 Nazis Return with 3 Hitler Flags to Palestine

JERUSALEM, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A delegation of eighty Nazis who live in Palestine returned today from a visit to Germany bringing with them three large swastika flags. They said they had received the emblems from Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself. The swastikas will be unfurled by Nazi units at Jerusalem, Haifa, and Darona.

FRANCE CHARGES ITALY FOMENTS REVOLT IN SYRIA

Envoy Demands Duce Stop Meddling.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 4.—A strong protest against Italy's intrigues to undermine the French mandate in Syria, which are believed here to be responsible for the recent Syrian revolt, was voiced today by Count Charles de Chambrun, French ambassador in Rome. The protest was made on instructions of Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister.

The action was taken during an interview with Fulvio Suvich, Italian undersecretary of foreign affairs, in which Chambrun also pointedly called the Italian government's attention to political agitation by students in the Paris Latin quarter due to Il Duce's propaganda.

Protest Radio Propaganda.

The French government protested particularly against the activities of the Italian radio station at Bari, Italy, which daily has been broadcasting inflammatory revolutionary propaganda, inciting the Syrians to cast off the yoke of French imperialism.

This propaganda is regarded in political circles here as chiefly responsible for the bloody uprisings in Damascus and Aleppo.

Although severe measures were taken and hundreds of Syrian Nationalists, including their leader, Fakri Barudi, were imprisoned, the unrest is continuing. While the Paris press is significantly silent on Syrian events, THE TRIBUNE has learned from reliable sources that the situation is grave. A particularly serious symptom was seen in the fact that for the first time the Moslems and Christians have joined forces against the French.

Syrian Demands Listed.

The Syrian Nationalists, inspired by the example of the Egyptians against Britain and encouraged by Mussolini, demand the convocation of parliament and the reëstablishment of the constitution of 1928, which would make Syria an independent republic; abolition of concessions to foreign companies; freedom of the press; the right to hold political meetings, and the liberation of political prisoners.

French irritation over Italian radio propaganda in Syria was augmented by Italian attempts to create internal difficulties for the government of Premier Albert Sarraut in France and to stir up disorder by radio appeals to French students.

In a radio broadcast in French from Milan at the beginning of the week, an Italian official station perpetrated an almost unprecedented piece of meddling in the domestic policies of a neighboring country by broadcasting an address to French students in the following words:

"An oil embargo means a blockade, and a blockade means war. On the day of mobilization who will be the first to be rushed off to the front? You will, students of the University of Paris, while men of the left, slaked with blood, will be hiding once more behind the machine guns of Feb. 6."

Shut Arab Stores in Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A restricted strike in sympathy with Arab nationalists of Syria took on a larger form in Jerusalem today when extremist youths, representing the Arab interparty strike committee, went from store to store owned by Arabs compelling them to close.

POLAND FIGHTS TO MAKE NAZIS PAY UP IN GOLD

Railway Debt Negotiations Continue in Berlin.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 4.—Negotiations which began in Berlin yesterday between a special Polish delegation and German government authorities concerning Poland's decision to reduce the railroad trafic through the Polish corridor unless Germany pays $12,000,000 due Poland for transit fees, are proceeding satisfactorily, according to information received today from Berlin.

The Polish corridor separates Germany from East Prussia. Poland has threatened to stop the operation of fourteen German express trains at midnight Thursday unless Germany meets its obligation with a cash payment. Ten local trains would be permitted to run.

Poland "Not Bluffing."

An official Polish foreign office spokesman said today that Poland is not bluffing and is determined to cut German trafic to minimum requirements unless Berlin is willing to pay charges which both countries confirmed by a treaty signed in Paris on April 21, 1921.

Germany's offer of delayed payment and partial compensation in manufactured products has been rejected by Poland, which steadfastly demands gold or its equivalent. No mention of Poland's ultimatum nor of the negotiations has been published in the German press, according to Polish correspondents in Berlin. They reported that the negotiations are proceeding secretly.

Col. Ulrich, Polish minister of communications, announced that his ministry has completed its preparations to revise the trafic between Germany and East Prussia. He said that should it be found necessary to apply "transit sanctions," the Polish cabinet will hold a special meeting on Friday to discuss further measures which might be deemed necessary.

Rumania Also Faces Action.

In a long speech before parliament today, Eugene Kwiatkowski, vice premier and minister of finance, explained the government's action as being the first step in a program to realize on Poland's frozen assets abroad. Besides Germany, Rumania is also largely indebted to Poland.

Kwiatkowski assured the holders of Poland's stabilization loan and other issues, which were largely floated in the United States, that Poland would regularly meet its foreign obligations.

He said that while the general refusal of America's European debtors to meet their construction loans and war time obligations had made things easier for Poland, still the service charges on Poland's remaining foreign debts amounted to $22,000,000 annually and required further economy measures.

CHILE BATTLES RAILWAY STRIKE INSPIRED BY REDS

Eyes U. S. Tieup with Soviet Regime.

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 4.—The Chilean government today acted to break up a strike of government railway workers which was declared officially to be communistic in origin. All strike leaders were ordered seized as heads of a revolutionary movement, and 3,000 miles of railroad were placed under army rule.

Carabineers fired on strikers tearing up rails near San Rosendo, but no casualties were reported.

The strikers, who stopped freight trains and delayed passenger trains by their walkout, are demanding higher wages, reinstatement of four discharged employés and the removal of Juan Lagarrigue, director general of state railways.

The Red-inspired strike provoked further comments on one aspect of the "good neighbor" policy preached by the Roosevelt administration. Chileans expressed themselves as puzzled why the United States, if it professes to be a good neighbor to the South American republics, continues diplomatic relations with soviet Russia, whose government and agents are bent on overthrowing the existing order in the new world.

Dubious Honor for U. S.

Since Uruguay deported the Russian minister from Montevideo, Washington has the dubious honor of being the only government in the Americas to enjoy official relations with the Reds.

The question of soviet-American relations was continually put to this correspondent, who has just returned from a trip along the west coast of South America, by a variety of government authorities whose time and power have been heavily taxed in recent years by the seditious results of imported communism.

One fact stands out. The governments south of Panama are genuinely concerned over the progress achieved by communist agents in their respective territories.

Agree on Policy.

But, while continuation of U. S.-soviet diplomatic relations is disconcerting and, in some cases, annoying to them, South American nations have agreed on a policy which will insure more freedom from anxiety in the future.

This common policy, now being developed, is tacit in character for the present, but judging by the informal conversations between governments and the united stand taken by their representatives when Commissar Maxim Litvinov raised the Russo-Uruguayan issue at Geneva there may yet be formal action against the Reds.

There was an indignant continental outburst against Litvinov's sneering references to South American revolutions when he brought the matter before the league council.

Today's issue is Russia versus America, according to Claudio Arteaga, who wrote in La Nacion, Santiago daily, that the continent must stand or fall as a whole in the fight against Red imperialism.

"The Americas," he declared, "have a definite civilization of their own, and Americans have confidence in the mission of this civilization. It has nothing in common with Russian communism."

PARLEY FAILS TO BREAK LONDON'S MEAT STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 4.—A conference, lasting an hour and a half, between strikers and employers today failed to break the two day complete tieup of the Smithfield market, London's largest meat distribution center. The strikers demand higher wages and shorter hours.

While 12,000 workers remained idle, market directors tried to clear the congestion of trucks in streets surrounding the markets by sending them to make individual deliveries to the 4,000 or 5,000 meat shops in the metropolitan area. The pinch was not yet felt in homes and restaurants, but the wholesale supply was rapidly vanishing.

Ships were unable to unload their cargoes of foreign meat at Thames docks and other normal supplies were not started for London. The storage supply was about one-fifth of normal in central markets.

"I wish I had taken my Dentist's advice"

Switch TO IPANA AND MASSAGE today!

THERE'S no harm, really, in our modern soft foods. They are delicious. But it is what they don't do that sends so many of us to the dentist with tender, sick gums. It is what they don't do that puts that first tinge of "pink" upon our tooth brushes . . . Simply because soft foods don't give our teeth and gums enough hard, vigorous chewing to do to keep them healthy.

"Pink tooth brush" is a plain warning of impending gum troubles. It plainly tells you that you may expect trouble—sometimes a lot of trouble. So never make the mistake of ignoring that signal. Your dentist doesn't. "Better care, more exercise, new stimulation, in short—Ipana and massage," says dental science.

And it certainly is sensible. Because Ipana is especially designed to benefit your gums as well as clean your teeth. Rub a little extra Ipana into your gums every time you use your tooth brush, and you will soon see how it works. Gums get livelier as circulation increases. There is a healthier feeling to them. They are firmer to the touch. They gain in strength every day.

Treat "pink tooth brush" sensibly. Don't disregard your dentist's advice. Don't be a "dental cripple." Switch to Ipana and massage, and close this door to gingivitis, pyorrhea or Vincent's disease.

WATCH OUT FOR YOUR SCALPS IN GOLDEN GLOVES!

Oklahoma Indians on Warpath.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There has been another Indian uprising in Golden Gloves. Riding into Oklahoma City this week were 18 full blooded Indian braves who will seek titles in the tournament conducted there by the Daily Oklahoman.

Twelve of the Redmen are from the Chilocco Indian school and the others from the Bacone Indian school. Most of them have demonstrated already that they can fight well enough to scalp the average white man in a hand to hand combat.

The reason for all the Indian war whoops is to be found in the fact that a vast section of the colorful southwest became a part of the Golden Gloves territory for the first time this year.

Byars Heads Band of 75.

No less than 75 Indian fighters are included in the complete list of entries. Never before have there been more than half a dozen.

One of the Indian braves who will seek honors at Oklahoma City is Sweeney Byars, who reached the finals of the National A. A. U. tournament last year, but lost the decision in the championship match. Others of these braves have won Oklahoma state and National Guard titles and have whipped about everything that could be mustered against them in various Missouri Valley meets.

The Indian boys are confident they will account for at least four of the eight Oklahoma City titles. If they do they will bring quite a large slice of southwest color to the Tournament of Champions Feb. 24.

240 Others Enter.

Aside from the Indians 240 other boxers will take part in the Oklahoma City tournament, and for the first time in the history of amateur boxing in Oklahoma, colleges, universities, and preparatory schools are represented by large entry lists.

Oklahoma A. & M. college has entered a squad of 20 boxers. Oklahoma university, although not sponsoring a team under its own name, has eight of its best boxers listed unattached. Most of the state teachers' colleges and many of the junior colleges are represented by their best letter tossers.

The result of the sensational rise to fame and riches of Golden Glover Joe Louis has aroused the heavyweights in the southwest to a degree of high excitement. Sixteen of the big fellows, weighing all the way from 190 to 235 pounds, have entered the Daily Oklahoman's tournament. No other amateur meet ever staged in the state has attracted more than five heavyweights. Big Ben Foyner, football star at Oklahoma U., is one of the leading contenders. He is a seasoned boxer, having engaged in 192 fights and having won 160 of them.

Watch Out for 'Em.

The Oklahoma City team should go places in the Tournament of Champions. Every amateur in that section who has reached the finals or won a championship in various state tournaments held there during the last four years is fighting for a place on the Golden Gloves team.

PATTY BERG WINS MEDAL IN MIAMI GOLF WITH AN 80

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Red-haired Patty Berg shot an 80, two under women's par, on the long Miami Biltmore golf course today to win medal honors in the fourth annual women's tournament.

The 17 year old Minneapolis girl, who last week won the championship of her sex in the tournament at Punta Gorda, Fla., came home with 39-41 to distance by three strokes her nearest rivals for qualifying day honors.

WAKE MAIL BOX.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 4.—Dear Wake: My recommendation is that all football players be given tuition, school expenses, such as fraternity dues, class books, and laboratory fees, but not a thin dime in money. These boys have a talent the schools cash on—they should be given something substantial in return for the service they render, but they should not be paid a salary.

Place the selection, acquisition, and keeping of prospects and players in the hands of a faculty committee. Make the requirement of players receiving benefits something like a grade of 85, and make the faculty committee the court of last appeal with the athletic department concerned only with the coaching and general athletic direction of talent turned over to it.

I firmly believe that if all players were receiving such benefits a far healthier feeling would result in college sportdom. Faculty selection would improve the class of players selected with more brains and smarter football. As it is now many colleges are little more than farms for pro football elevens.

Sports Well Wisher.

Recent items regarding success of one or more Big Ten schools, both in athletic and business fields, should be commented upon. While some larger schools have had outstanding success in athletics I believe that each college has its fair share of successful graduates in the foreground of business.

It is against human nature to admit a mistake, hence almost every one is loyal to his choice of alma mater and the rest do a good job in rationalizing. Again, it is foolish to let rah-rah loyalty run away with good common sense and say it is the college which makes the man. A month's experience after graduation will disprove that.

Also it should be remembered that a game won or lost in any sport, is played with only one purpose in view, the renewing of friendly relations and the keeping alive of keen competitive spirit between the contestants.

PROTEST ENGLISH OLYMPIC STARS AS FROM CANADA

Hold Investigation Today in Hocky Tangle.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 4.—America's chances in the Olympic ice hocky competition probably will be decided tomorrow at a meeting of representatives of the International Ice Hocky federation, called to examine the plethora of Canadians scheduled to appear on Olympic rinks as representatives of many nations including the British mother country.

The American hocky forces arrived today with a record of more losses and ties than victories and with the report that they had made a tour of western Europe playing against Canadians under all manner of disguises. They reported that the strongest teams they had met were in England and that the English Olympic team will be an all-star combination made up of ten Canadians and two Englishmen.

Doubt If They're Amateurs.

Considerable doubt also has been expressed here regarding the genuinely amateur character of the proposed English competitors. The Americans made no secrets of the fact that they have little hope of winning from the present "English" team and expressed doubt whether the real Canadians themselves could get the better of this sextet.

The hocky federation has a bad problem on its hands, however. England's all-star Anglo-Canadian players were born in England, it is claimed. They did not lose their British citizenship by emigrating to Canada, although they learned to play hocky there. If the English Ice Hocky league insists on its formal rights, there appears to be little that the federation can do to prevent the probable but slightly ludicrous spectacle of two Canadian teams appearing in the final for Olympic honors.

The Americans' spokesmen will point out tomorrow that the United States Olympic committee excluded members of the Eastern Amateur league on grounds of professionalism, players who were not receiving more for competing than certain English entries are reported to be receiving while preserving their full amateur standing.

U. S. Meets Germany.

The final announcement was made tonight that the games definitly will open with the hocky match between Germany and the United States at 2:30 p. m. on Thursday. The game probably will be attended by many high reich political functionaries, possibly Chancellor Hitler, and by Olympic representatives of all the nations participating. There can be no doubt that Germany, which has a team to be respected, will make a desperate effort to win. The contest promises to be one of the games' most dramatic events.

In itself it won't be decisive. A clarifying version of the elimination regulations issued today showed that the first two teams in each elimination group of four will enter the next round, in which eight teams in all will compete.

Propaganda Put Out.

Despite warnings from foreign Olympic committees and their own apparent good intentions, the Nazis here appear incapable of abandoning political propaganda in connection with the winter Olympics. It even appears to be a moot question whether the Nazi functionaries connected with the games know that they are propagandizing. Such activity evidently has become a habit from which they cannot free themselves.

To the astonishment of several hundred journalists assembled here for the opening of the winter games on Thursday, State Secretary Funk of the propaganda ministry, at a reception tonight delivered a long and essentially political address in which he praised warmly the régime he represents and took the foreign press to task for not presenting conditions in Germany truthfully—that is, as the Nazis conceive the truth.

ALGER'S TRAINER IS QUIZZED ABOUT SANTA ANITA RACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Aroused by the unexpected victory of F. M. Alger's Dark Winter in the Arroyo Seco handicap at Santa Anita today, the track stewards summoned Trainer Tex Wilson and demanded an explanation of the horse's poor showing in past performances in the light of his sudden reversal of form when the odds had risen to $14.80 to $1.

Dark Winter, following the racing habits of his stablemate Azucar, came with a brisk stretch drive to win by three lengths. Racing experts pointed out that it was Alger's Azucar who won last year's Santa Anita handicap to reward his backers with $28 for a $2 ticket. It was Azucar that repeated in the San Felipe mile this year at odds of more than 20 to 1.

And today it was Dark Winter, turned back in five previous races, that scored the surprise victory, paying $31.60, $10 and $5.40.

YANKEES SPEND $850,000 FOR NEW BLEACHERS

Increase Capacity of Stadium to 85,000.

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, today announced plans for spending $850,000 on the enlargement of Yankee stadium to a seating capacity of 85,000 for baseball and 100,000 for football.

The wooden bleachers are to be torn down and will be replaced with double decked cement bleacher stands in center and left fields. The present grand stand will be extended into right field. Work is to start at once.

The present seating capacity of the field is 75,000. This has been taxed to the limit for world series and for the Notre Dame-Army football games.

Money to Spend.

The new construction will bring the total cost of stadium, built in 1923, to $3,500,000.

"The stadium's going to be improved for several reasons," said Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees. "What we're really doing is getting ready for the 1936 world series. We've been a second place club for three years so that ought to qualify us for first place this year.

"Also the wooden bleachers long have been an eyesore as well as a drain on the treasury to keep them in repair. I've been told the depression is over. I have some money to spend—the other ball clubs wouldn't take it for the players we wanted—so I decided now is the time to make the change."

The present bleachers accommodate approximately 18,000. When the alterations have been made, the capacity will be 23,000. Fifty-five hundred grandstand seats will be added.

To Celebrate Birthday.

Club owners of the National league, meeting here today, adopted the 1936 schedule, announced a staf of twelve umpires, elected Sam Breadon vice president and made plans for observing the league's 60 years of existence.

The season is to open April 14 and close Sept 27. Each club will play 154 games.

Breadon's election filled the vacancy left by the death of Charles A. Stoneham, late president of the New York Giants.

In observation of the league's 60th birthday, which occurred last Sunday, it was decided that at some time during the season each club should hold a birthday party and invite all old-time baseball players in the vicinity to be the club's guests.

Invite Four Old Timers.

Four players who were members of the first National league teams organized will be invited to attend the All-Star game at Boston July 8 as guests of the league. These old timers are George Wright of Boston, Tom Yorke of New York, Tom Bond of Allston, Mass., and Tom [Deacon] White of Aurora, Ill.

The league extended formal greetings to the Boston and Chicago clubs, the only teams which have been members of the league continuously since its organization.

E. Lee Ballafante from the Texas league and George L. Parker from the International league were announced as new members of the National league's staf of umpires. They will fill vacancies left by the death of Charles A. Rigler and the retirement of Albert [Dolly] Stark. The latter was unable to reach a salary agreement with the league and is now officially listed as being on a year's leave of absence.

Terry Picks Cubs.

Just before he left for Memphis, Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, gave out an interview today in which he refused to lay claim to the 1936 pennant.

"While it looks like a tossup among the Chicago, New York and St. Louis clubs, you've got to give the edge to the Cubs," Terry said. "They have a young ball club which may even improve on its showing of last year."

NEW N. L. SCHEDULE ALLOTS CUBS 11 HOME WEEK-ENDS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[SCHEDULE ON NEXT PAGE.]

The National league schedule, printed elsewhere in this issue of THE TRIBUNE, gives the public the first glimpse of the newfangled schedules thought up by two major leagues. The main novelty of the new calendars is found in the fact that this year there will be four east-west and four west-east series instead of three each as heretofore.

While one of the prime ideas behind the innovation is to change the scene more frequently for the fans, a digest of the Cubs' schedule reveals that visitors at Wrigley field will see naught but eastern clubs in June and July. They also will get to look at the Dodgers in April, the earliest ever, and they will see the Dodgers as late as Sept. 3.

The main problem the schedule makers had in mapping the new slate was to effect an equitable distribution of Saturday and Sunday dates. They did right well with the Cubs, for there will be games at Wrigley field on eleven Saturdays and an equal number of Sabbaths.

Cub fans did not come out so well in the allotment of holiday dates, Memorial day engagements with the Pirates being the only assignments for holiday observance at Wrigley field. The Cubs will play at Pittsburgh on July 4 and Labor day will find them in Cincinnati.

The National league champs will open the season at St. Louis in a three game series beginning on April 14 and will close the season in the same city in what now is set down as a two game series, Sept. 26 and 27.

If the Cubs again find it necessary to conduct a 21 game winning streak in September they will have to win more than half of the string on the road. They wind up a series with the Giants on Sept. 1, play the Dodgers here the next two days, then hit the road until Sept. 18 when they return for a four game series with the Cardinals and a three game series with the Pirates, their home farewell, on Sept. 22, 23, and 24.

The home schedule of the Cubs:

April 17, 18, 19—Reds.
April 22, 23, 24—Pirates.
April 28, 29, 30—Dodgers.
May 1, 2—Giants.

June 5, 6, 7—Dodgers.
June 8, 9, 10—Phillies.
June 11, 12, 13, 14—Bees.
July 9, 10, 11—Dodgers.
July 12, 13, 14—Giants.

DETROIT EARNS 4-4 DRAW ON SORRELL'S GOAL

Meets Chicagoans at Stadium Tomorrow.

The Detroit Red Wings went into a tie with the Chicago Blackhawks for the leadership of the National Hocky league last night by playing a 4-4 tie with the Rangers at New York. The Wings and Hawks, each of whom now has 35 points, meet at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night. In other games last night, Toronto beat Boston, 3 to 0, and the Montreal Maroons and New York Americans played a 1-1 tie. The Maroons and Toronto are now tied for first place in the Canadian section of the league. Boston's 3 to 0 defeat left Mike Karakas, Hawk goalie, only two goals back of Tiny Thompson of Boston in the race for the Vezina trophy.

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers fought to a 4-4 tie in a rousing overtime National Hocky league match before 12,000 fans here tonight.

Each team scored in a fast and rough opening period. Cecil Dillon registered for the New Yorkers on Ching Johnson's pass in the first minute of play. Marty Barry tied it 12 minutes later on Herb Lewis' assist.

Dillon Gets Two More.

The Rangers slammed in two quick goals early in the third period when Dillon scored twice on passes from Howie Morenz and Bill Cook. The Red Wings were two men shy at the time, while the Rangers were one man short. Detroit came to life in the latter part of the period and goals by Bucko McDonald and Laurie Aurie tied the score at 3-3.

There was no scoring in the third period.

Butch Keeling put the Rangers ahead once more shortly after the overtime started, but Johnny Sorrell scored on a sharp angle shot with three minutes to go, to earn his team a split in the points.

LONDOS TO TELL PLANS TODAY FOR MAT COMEBACK

Seeks Chicago Title Bout This Summer.

Wrestling, more or less dormant in Chicago since Jan. 1, yesterday was put back into the spotlight by several announcements, the most important of which came from representatives of Jim Londos, former heavyweight champion. It has to do with the proposed comeback campaign of Londos, who has not wrestled since losing the title to Dan O'Mahoney at Boston June 27, 1935.

Other announcements of wrestling activities came from the Chicago Stadium, which will offer a bout between Champion O'Mahoney and Jim Browning next Wednesday, and Fred Kohler, who will offer his first show at Arcadia Gardens tonight. The card will be headed by George Dusette, light heavyweight title claimant, and Nango Singh.

Those items cut into the advance publicity on the fifth round of the heavyweight elimination boxing tournament at the Stadium Friday night. They have not caused Stadium officials undue concern, however, for admission tickets are moving rapidly, it is reported.

The Londos announcement was made by Morrie Feldman, Manager Ed White's secretary, but it will not become official until this afternoon when the former title holder will repeat it at a loop hotel for assembled newspaper men and photographers. He will announce his willingness to meet O'Mahoney in a return bout here this spring or summer. No doubt he also will outline his campaign leading to such a match.

Jules Strong Bow, reported to be a 282 pound Cherokee Indian wrestler from Broken Arrow, Okla., although the atlas does not list this town, will make his Chicago debut on the impending O'Mahoney-Browning card against Hans Steinke. George Zaharias and Ray Richards will be semifinal opponents.

A dozen heavyweights were hard at work at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for Friday's matches at the Stadium. The group included Tom Baxter, Buffalo; Dick Madden, Boston; Johnny Erjavec, Duluth; Frank Edgren, Cheyenne; Harry Thomas, Eagle Bend, and Tiny Bittner, Chicago. Baxter will face Max Zona, Chicago Heights; Madden encounters Buddy Knox, Dayton; Erjavec clashes with Babe Beck, Columbus; Edgren will meet Ray Tucker; Thomas fights Heinz Kohlhass, Hoboken, and Bittner battles Joe Ketchell, Cleveland. Four other engagements will involve Charley Belanger, Winnipeg, and Dutch Weimer, Tucson; George Reed, Portsmouth, and Joe Mueller, Cincinnati; Buddy McArthur, Wheeling, W. Va., and Curtis Scott, Fort Worth, and Bob Tow, Alexandria, and Harry Nelson, Detroit. Each match is set for five rounds.

A contest between Tommy Freeman, ex-welterweight king, and Hayden Stuhley or Jack Gibbons at Hot Springs, Ark., early next month, is being sought by Matchmaker Paul Steele of Warren Townsend post, No. 13, American Legion. . . . Harry Tendall, Chicago middleweight, has placed himself under the direction of Lou Gross. . . . Jack Kranz, Gary heavyweight, has been forced to postpone a scheduled match at Youngstown, O., Feb. 13, because of illness. . . . Jack Kearns is attempting to obtain Izzy Gastanaga as Lorenzo Pack's first opponent under his newly acquired management, at the Stadium within the next few weeks. . . . Tom Beaupre, Dallas heavyweight candidate, is expected to make his next start at the west side building Feb. 14. . . . George Dungey, sectional Golden Gloves champion from Peoria and Bloomington for the last three years, yesterday announced his intention to make his professional debut at Marigold Gardens Monday. Milt Aron and Pat Murphy will be main event principals.

Amateur shows tonight will be presented at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, and Roosevelt High school, Wilson and Kimball avenues. Eddie O'Connor will meet Jerry Mulcahy in a feature bout at the armory. A wrestling match and six boxing bouts will be offered at Roosevelt High, under the auspices of the Northwest Kiwanis club.—F. OLYMPIC GAMES BRING GERMANS EGGS AND BUTTER

BERLIN.—(AP)—Germans want the Olympic winter games to last an entire year. Not because they are crazy about sports, but because the shortage of butter, lard, and eggs appears to have ended as long as foreign visitors are in the country.

With the arrival of the first foreign Olympic teams, eggs again made their appearance in Germany. They come from Holland, Turkey, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Poland, and Hungary, and the little stamps on their shells, indicate their origin, best display the German government's attempts to make things convenient for foreigners.

Gold reserves of the reichsbank dwindled by nine million marks out of 82 million within a week. It is said the money largely was spent on imported food. Simultaneously Germans were told that the tickets they received from butter dealers which entitled them to buy a half a pound of butter every week were outdated. There is plenty of butter now.

M'LARNIN AND CANZONERI SIGN FOR MAY BATTLE

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, and Jimmy McLarnin, former welterweight titleholder, will meet in a 15 round non-title bout in Madison Suare Garden early in May. The Garden announced the completion of negotiations today.

Although McLarnin and Canzoneri have been contemporaries for years, it will be their first meeting. They are two of the most popular fighters in the business. McLarnin's last bout involved the loss of his title to Barney Ross of Chicago last May. Canzoneri last defended his crown against Al Roth in October but has had many non-title engagements since.

Old Coach and Player Meet in Shamrock Game

A pupil and his teacher will meet when the C. Y. O. Shamrock hocky team opposes the Detroit Fords of the Michigan-Ontario league Sunday afternoon at the Chicago Stadium.

Coach Earle Kelleher of the Shamrocks played four years for Art McDermott, the 45 year old Canadian coach, who has led the Fords to the top of the Michigan-Ontario league with 14 victories against one defeat. The Detroit Chevies, which defeated the Shamrocks here last Sunday, beat the Fords.

Kelleher was a member of the Ford club last year and before that played three seasons with the Dearborn, Mich., team coached by McDermott.

Coach Kelleher put the Shamrocks through a drill yesterday in the Stadium. By Sunday afternoon the Shamrocks expect to be familiar with every play the visitors might attempt.

A return game in Detroit awaits the Shamrocks if they can upset the Ford six. In 15 games, opponents have not averaged a goal a game against the Fords.

LIEUT. WALDRON TO BE BURIED IN MT. OLIVET TODAY

The funeral of Lieut. Ray A. Waldron, athletic officer of the 124th Field Artillery, will be held this morning in the chapel at 3734 Archer avenue. Services will be held at 10 o'clock, with a military burial at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Military arrangements will be in charge of Capt. Leo B. Callahan, commander of Service Battery, in which Lieut. Waldron served.

For the last three days a squad has stood guard over the casket of Lieut. Waldron, with Sergt. Maurice Handlon in charge. Two 124th Field Artillery football players, and a like number of the regiment's car parkers, ushers, and Lieut. Waldron's company made up the detail.

BAN OUTBOARD MOTORS FROM MIDGET RACES

Thirty-two midget automobiles are entered in the Midstates Racing association's second race meet at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street, tonight.

Bob Lundgreen, former head of the organization sponsoring the riding club races, has banned all cars powered by outboard motors in which special fuel mixtures are required. This, Lundgreen believes, will practically eliminate smoke and fumes.

Tonight's feature will be a handicap race with the drivers making the fastest time in qualifying trials being set back at the start.

FIRST, Mount Vernon American straight rye whiskey—bland as in balmy pre-prohibition days—bottled in bond under supervision of the U.S. Government, which has the most rigid bottled in bond act of any country in the world, the requirements of which assure you full 100 proof, aging in barrels for at least four years, and freedom from addition of younger spirits. Next, the old square bottle to identify it for you. Importantly third, a new low price. Every mellow drop at least 4½ years old. At bars and liquor stores.

HERE'S YOUR LAST CHANCE TO ENTER GOLDEN GLOVES

If You Have Not Reported Tonight's the Night.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the last chance to enter Chicago's Golden Glove tournaments. And this opportunity is limited to those amateur boxers who have received letters of instruction and parental consent cards. More than 900 boys have been assigned to tonight's final physical examination at Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Madison street. All others who failed to report on the night assigned may report tonight.

More than 1,600 boxers have passed medical examinations. Last night, at Trafton's, 367 boys passed successfully and were assigned to the three sections. Nineteen were rejected by the physicians.

In the group of boys who received assignments to sectional tournaments last night were 19 boxers from the Catholic Youth Organization. This brings the total C. Y. O. registration to approximately 275 and does not include the eight C. Y. O. champions who will enter the Tournament of Champions without competing in the sectionals.

Novice Champ Enters.

Charles Cassola, 1934 novice champion, entered last night. Cassola will compete in the 126 pound class open division. Jesse Robinson, open division flyweight, again is making a bid for a diamond studded golden glove. Robinson was a member of the Central A. A. U. team which competed in St. Louis in 1934.

Davey Day, professional lightweight and one of the leading challengers for Tony Canzoneri's title, is backing Harold Shapiro, a middleweight, to win a novice championship. Day began his ring career in Golden Gloves. He is supervising Shapiro's training and will second him during his bouts.

Ken Lyons, Northwestern university football player, reported last night for Golden Gloves. Lyons is a half back and comes from Elyria, O. He will compete in the 135 pound novice division at Loyola university on Feb. 18. One of the most likely heavyweight prospects is Bruno Dooley of the Polish Youth organization. Bruno stepped on the scales last night at 195 pounds. He will compete in the open division of the north section.

Mollison Is Good.

Al Harlib, one of the boosters of amateur boxing, announces that in Haldine Mollison he has the lightweight who will win in this year's tournament. Mollison formerly lived in Trenton, Neb. Another excellent prospect is Fred Kreutzer, who qualified last year in the novice division. He will enter the 147 pound class, open division. Other entries are Harold Klein, middleweight; Daniel Lavis and Leonard Morgan, heavyweights.

Last night's physical examinations were conducted by Dr. Clarence T. Plaut, Dr. William Rothman, and Dr. James Walsh. The group of clerks which registered the boxers included George Schwartz, Harry Berz, Edward Blohm, Harry Cullinan, Phil Fox, Joe Miller, Otis Taylor, Bert Cowdrey, Art Dalton, Harry Hahn, Art Schroeder, Fred Caserio, Tom Conlin, Dave Rutizer, and Joe Beran.

There was one day of torrential rain since our arrival. The next day we sought the local haberdashery to purchase a raincoat. The supply had been exhausted. "Will you have more soon?" we inquired. "Oh, no," replied the proprietor, "I haven't ordered any more. We won't have another hard rain this season. I'd just be stuck with them."

TRAYNOR'S ARM MENDS; HE'S OFF TO SEE VAUGHN

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Manager Harold [Pie] Traynor of the Pittsburgh Pirates, his throwing arm pronounced mended after considerable uncertainty, said today he expects to be at third base when the National league campaign opens.

After two weeks of treatment at Boyes Springs, near here, Traynor expressed belief his throwing arm was in excellent condition. An injury kept him out most of last season. Denny Carroll, Detroit Tiger trainer, who worked on the Pirates' manager, said: "As far as we can determine now, Traynor's arm is as sound as it was many years ago."

Before leaving for Los Angeles to try to induce Shortstop Floyd [Arky] Vaughn to sign his 1936 contract Traynor refuted reports that First Baseman Gussie Suhr might be sent to Brooklyn. He said Suhr was considered one of the valuable men on the club through almost regular leadership in runs batted in.

OLYMPIC COACH FEARS RUNNERS WILL OVERWORK

Opposes Hard Schedule of Indoor Meets.

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The latest foot racing furor, kicked up by the challenges of Joe Mangan and Gene Venzke to Glenn Cunningham's supremacy, is a good thing from the viewpoint of the boxoffice, but it's a menace to the Olympic prospects of a trio that the United States will need for the big show at Berlin this summer.

"It's difficult to curb enthusiasm under the circumstances," Lawson Robertson of Pennsylvania, the American Olympic head coach, told the Associated Press today, "but it would be a good idea if these milers applied the brakes before they leave too many of their good races on the board tracks. I have advised some of them against overdoing this winter, but they are keen to run and the big clubs expect them to enter feature events."

Schedule Is Strenuous.

Robertson's own pupil, Venzke, is due to renew his rivalry with Mangan in the Hunter mile, a feature of the Boston A. A. games this Saturday. A week later, the two eastern aces are booked for the Baxter mile, main event on the New York A. C. card, with Cunningham slated to compete. Then follow the National A. A. U., the Eastern intercollegiate, and the Knights of Columbus meets.

It was after just such a campaign, four years ago, that Venzke failed to make the Olympic team. In previous years such board track stars as Joie Ray and Lloyd Hahn failed in the Olympic. Last summer Cunningham was soundly beaten by Jack Lovelock and Bill Bonthron after being unbeaten indoors.

"These lessons ought to mean something," said Robertson. "Particularly if they regard Olympic victory as the main goal. Cunningham and Mangan at least should rest up after the indoor season. I'm glad to see Bonthron and Ben Eastman, two of our best prospects, taking things easy this winter. You will notice the Europeans do not waste their energy on indoor competition."

Venzke Improves Pacing.

Robertson disclosed that Venzke's great race Saturday, when he finished a half stride behind Mangan and beat Cunningham for the first time in three years, probably means Gene will stick to the mile and 1,500 meters.

"Venzke had about made up his mind to shift to the two miles and 5,000 meters," said Robertson. "He wanted to have one more fling at the mile first but ran so well Saturday that he may stick to this distance. His obvious improvement is due to better knowledge of pacing and more confidence."

The most amazing feature of the Wanamaker mile, to Robertson, was the fact all three runners—Mangan, Venzke and Cunningham—raced the last three-quarters together in near record time. The American indoor mark for three-quarters of a mile is 3:03.4 and the trio averaged around 3:04, after a slow first quarter.

Confidence in Cunningham.

"Cunningham, regardless of that setback, is still our greatest miler and potentially the best bet for the Olympic 1500," said Robertson. "His record for consistency, over the last three years, surpasses that of any other miler, here or abroad. Glenn was not in shape when he lost to Lovelock last year. He looked underweight to me Saturday. He has tremendous power, when right, and is the only one of our crack milers capable of doing 880 yards in 1:51.

"That's not taking anything away from the others. Mangan, running his best race Saturday, showed that he is getting better with age. I look for Venzke to have his greatest year, too, but he must not let competitive enthusiasm spoil his Olympic chances again."

SPRING IS HERE! GREENKEEPERS RALLY 'ROUND

Cleveland, O., Feb. 4.—(AP)—To the blustery shores of Lake Erie came the first heralds of spring today, in a fine flurry of talk about putting greens, fairways, traps and the hazards of weather, insects, plant disease and divot-diggers.

The National Association of Greenkeepers of America opened its annual sessions with a variety of opinions on the effect of a severe January on northern golf courses.

Most of the greenkeepers agreed a succession of freezes and thaws aided many courses in breaking up the soil so that water and air will have a better chance at grass roots this spring. The heavy blanket of snow, however, has shut off the air this winter, they said.

Fred A. Burkhardt of Cleveland, president of the association, said he believes "there will be more snow mould this year because of the heavy snow blanket," although it is too early to make sure.

Burkhardt predicted the greenkeepers would have heavier work this year because golf clubs will have increased memberships.

HAARLOW'S LEAD THREATENED BY KESSLER, YOUNG

Bob Kessler and Jewell Young, sharpshooting forwards on Purdue's undefeated quintet, which shares the Big Ten conference lead with Indiana, are steadily climbing their way to the top of the individual scoring standings, a spot which has been occupied by lanky Bill Haarlow of the University of Chicago's Maroons for several weeks.

Haarlow Still Boss.

Haarlow still holds the No. 1 position safely, having collected 82 points, 28 field goals and 26 free throws, while Warren Whitlinger of Ohio State retained second place with 63. However, Whitlinger's position has been threatened each week by Kessler and the Boilermaker star now is only three points behind the Buckeye forward.

Kessler Goes to Third.

Kessler has made a brilliant march to the top deck. In his last two games, Kessler scored 29 points to rise from sixteenth place to third. His teammate, Young, also has made a remarkable performance, scoring 25 points in the last two contests to take fifth place, one point behind John Townsend of Michigan, who occupies fourth place with 57 points.

Tuley Junior Quintet Takes Division Lead

Crane Tech's junior basketball team, leader in the west section of the Chicago Public High School league for three weeks, yesterday dropped into a tie for second place by losing to Marshall, 25 to 24. A rally in the last quarter enabled Marshall to triumph. The score was tied, 10 to 10, at the end of the first half, but Crane Tech led, 21 to 14, at the third period.

Tuley, runner-up for the No. 1 in the section, took first place by defeating McKinley, 19 to 12, for its fifth victory in six games. Crane Tech is deadlocked with Marshall with four triumphs and one defeat.

Feldman, forward, and Levin led Tuley's attack against McKinley, the former scoring three field goals and one free throw, while Levin contributed two baskets.

However, other sectional leaders, Roosevelt and Lane Tech in the north; Hirsch and Englewood in the south and Manley in the central, retained their positions.

Proviso remained in the running for the heavyweight championship of the Suburban league by defeating Evanston, 30 to 18.

HACK WILSON TO OPEN POOL ROOM IN MARTINSBURG

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Hack Wilson, former major league ball player and National league home run champion, is entering business here, although it does not necessarily mean he is through with baseball, he said.

Confirming reports he would be a partner with Willard Wowursburg of Hagerstown, Md., in a billiard parlor and cigar store enterprise in the downtown section here starting March 1, Wilson said his future connection with baseball would depend upon what was offered. If he plays ball this season the business will be operated by his partner.

Wilson has been idle since released by Albany during the 1935 season.

Notre Dame to Meet Illinois Five Tonight

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Notre Dame will resume its basketball campaign here tomorrow night against the University of Illinois quintet. The Irish finished mid year examinations yesterday and had only today to devote to intensive practice for the Illini.

John Moir, sophomore forward, Notre Dame's leading scorer, was in the infirmary last night for the treatment of a hand infection, but this is not expected to keep him out of the game. He received a 97 in sophomore accounting for the past semester, the highest mark ever given in this course at Notre Dame, and he has demonstrated his ability to get figures on the scoreboard by making 159 points in 14 appearances.

In their next three games, with Illinois, Kentucky, and New York, the Irish meet teams which have lost a total of only five games this year. Illinois has dropped three, Kentucky two, one of them to N. Y. U., and the latter team is undefeated.

CARTHAGE FIVE KNOCKS MACOMB OUT OF LEAD, 37-26

Carthage, Ill., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Carthage college knocked Macomb Teachers out of the lead in the Little 19 basketball race tonight with a 37 to 26 victory. Macomb previously was undefeated.

Carthage led, 24 to 13, at the half and held the visitors to one field goal in the first 30 minutes of play. Pete Hansen, Carthage forward, led the scoring with 16 points.

Jack Beynon Is Named Assistant Coach at Illinois

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Jack T. Beynon of Rockford, Ill., quarter back on the Illinois football teams of 1932, 1933, and 1934, has been appointed an assistant varsity coach, Athletic Director George Huff announced today. Beynon assumed his new duties tonight when Coach Bob Zuppke assembled football candidates for a brief workout. Beynon will be employed as a part time coach, as he registered in the college of law today and intends to work for his degree. He was graduated last June and was an assistant coach at Drake university last season.

PEDLEY ACCEPTS INTERNATIONAL POLO TEAM BERTH

Coast Star Is to Replace Hitchcock on U. S. Four.

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Eric Pedley of Los Angeles will be a member of the United States team which plays against England in London for the Westchester cup, international polo symbol for which the two countries have been competing since 1886.

This became certain tonight when the United States Polo association announced the receipt of a wire from Pedley in which the Californian accepted the invitation extended to him to join the squad which is to face the British at the Hurlingham club and defend there the challenge made by that country for the cup which we have successfully held since 1921.

Takes Hitchcock's Place.

Pedley, invited last week when it became known that Thomas Hitchcock Jr. would be unable to make the trip, has been devoting the time since the invitation to ascertaining whether his business and personal affairs could be so arranged as to permit him to make the trip. The wire from him reading, "Am delighted to be able to accept the chance to go with the team," indicates that he has been successful in making these arrangements.

Pedley, already committed to a full season in California which carries through March, will be in excellent shape when he heads east to join his team mates, who are to sail during April. His ponies will be sent on following the California season and sent across to join the others.

List Team's Lineup.

Pedley's acceptance now makes the American squad consist of the following: Pedley and Michael Phipps, both forward players; Stewart Iglehart, probably the best of the present day No. 3 players, excepting Hitchcock; Winston Guest, who has played both forward and as a No. 3 man, but who, it is generally understood, will be tried in the latter position this year, and Elbridge Gerry, whose tournament experience at both No. 1 and No. 3 makes him available as a spare player for either end of the team in the event of an emergency.

Robert E. Strawbridge Jr., the new chairman of the Polo association, is to go over with the team in charge of the expedition. The lineup is to be decided on the eve of the opening match on June 10, but at present ti appears highly probable that Phipps and Pedley will be up front, Iglehart at No. 3 and Guest at back.

warm days in the DESERT California southern Arizona

In winter, according to the Weather Bureau, the Far Southwest is the sunniest area in all the United States. In the heart of this brilliant land, Old Sol sheds mellow winter gold for 80% to 90% of the daylight hours. It is here you will find the famous winter resorts and ranches in and round-about Phoenix, Castle Hot Springs and Wickenburg, Arizona, and the desert oasis of Palm Springs, California.

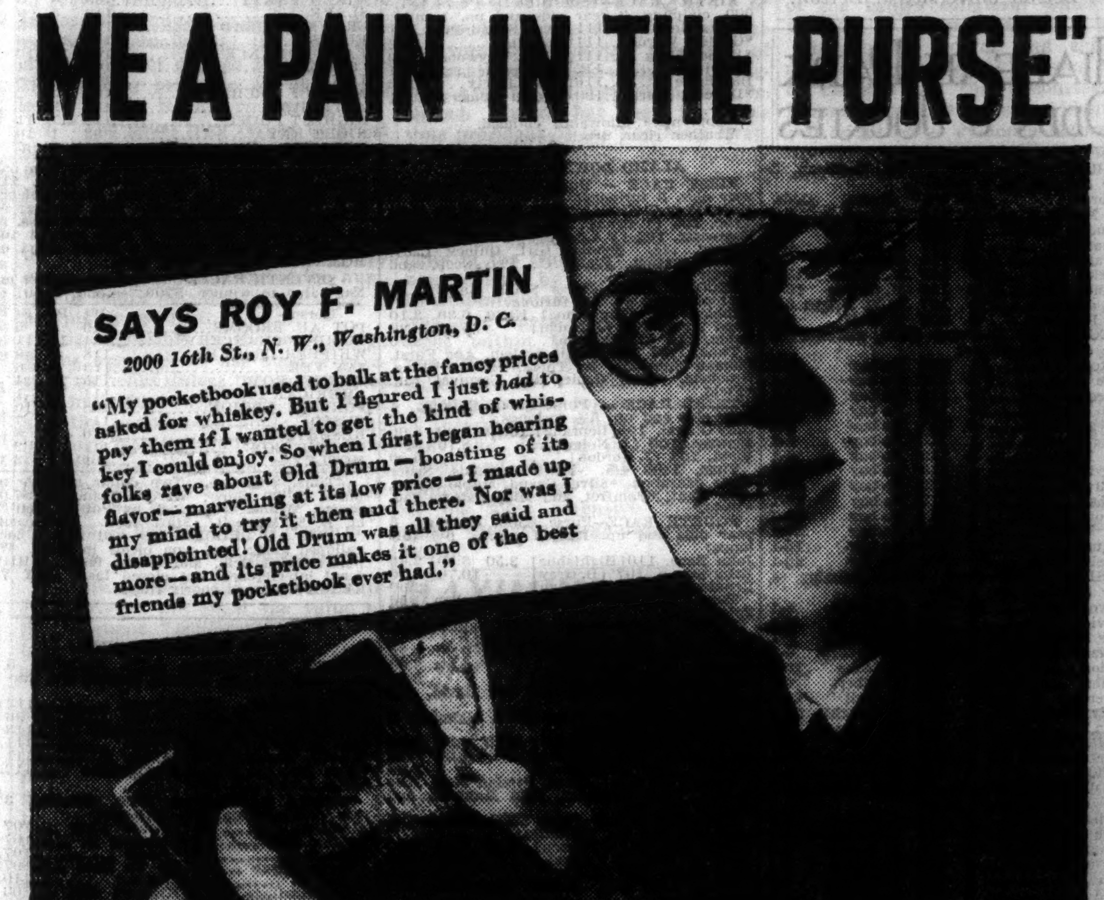
IT COSTS MORE TO PRODUCE BLENDED WHISKEY

"WHISKEY PRICES GAVE ME A PAIN IN THE PURSE"



SAYS ROY F. MARTIN
2000 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

"My pocketbook used to balk at the fancy prices asked for whiskey. But I figured I just had to pay them if I wanted to get the kind of whiskey I could enjoy. So when I first began hearing folks rave about Old Drum—boasting of its flavor—marveling at its low price—I made up my mind to try it then and there. Nor was I disappointed! Old Drum was all they said and more—and its price makes it one of the best friends my pocketbook ever had."

MONEY-SAVING WHISKEY WINNING NEW THOUSANDS EVERYWHERE!

GUESSES $1.60 A PT. Old Drum is "one of the best blends", states R. E. Clark, Omaha, Nebraska.

VOTES $1.75 A PT. "Smooth as silk," —that's what H. Dorsey, Springfield, Ill., thinks of Old Drum!

Today's whiskey sensation for thrifty folks! Old Drum—the amazing whiskey voted 40% more than its actual selling price. Distilled from the same premium grain used for most expensive whiskies. Bringing a "drinkable" whiskey at a "cents-ible" price. Winning America on quality and value alone! Discover Old Drum for yourself! Compare it any way you choose—with any "straight" or "blend" in its price class. You'll marvel at its "expensive whiskey" taste and flavor... save real money on its amazing low price. You can't beat Old Drum!

Maryland Distillery's Creed
"It should be the responsibility of every legitimate distiller to produce whiskies so perfect, at a price so low, that the public can have no reason for patronizing illegal distillers who defraud our National, State and Local Governments of their just revenue."

GALLANT GAY IS FEATURE VICTOR AT HIALEAH PARK

Florida Derby Candidate Pays $10.60.

Pays $10.60 for $2.

Sammy Renick, who had won the two previous races, finished second astride A. W. Abbott's Nightcap, another length clear of the Southland Stable's Ceiling. Gallant Gay, an impressive performer on Detroit and New England tracks last season, ran the distance in 1:24 3-5 and paid $10.60 for $2. He was ridden by Jimmy Stout, who hung up his tenth win of the meeting.

J. E. Widener's Reaping was favorite in the field of eleven 3 year olds. The gelding raced forwardly from the break, but fourth was his portion of the purse.

Florida Derby eligibles in the field; in addition to the first three to finish, are Sunanair, Airforce, and Sachem.

Runs Over Leaders.

Stipulate and Ceiling vied for the early pace. Stout called on Gallant Gay around the last bend, and the son of Galetian ran over the leaders to open up a daylight advantage. He maintained it under strong handling when Nightcap made his last furlong bid.

The stewards suspended Eddie Arcaro, one of the best of the veteran jockys, ten days for striking Apprentice R. Kastner over the back with his whip during the running of the first race today.

Seven persons, the majority of whom refused to disclose their identity, shared in the largest daily double payoff of the Florida season today when they coupled Benares and Absconder and collected $1,459.20 each for a $2 investment.

It was reported that Bill Crisp, a jockys' agent, bought one ticket and sold an interest in it. A. C. Brandt of Miami and Val Crane, Chicago horseman, also were said to have held tickets on the lucky combination.

Armour Tech Quintet Drills for Michigan Normal Game

With most of their final examination worries over, Armour Tech's basketball players have resumed practice at the 108th Engineers armory. On Saturday Armour will go to Ypsilanti to play Michigan State Normal, and on Monday night the team will meet Detroit university at Detroit.

GOLD OUTFLOW GAINS ON NEW INFLATION FEARS

$9,620,000 Is Shipped During Day.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With inflation advocates in congress renewing their demands for printing press money and the federal deficit increasing, the new flight of capital from the United States yesterday was reflected in the withdrawal of an additional $9,620,000 of American gold for export to Europe.

Of this amount, according to official treasury reports, $8,500,000 was consigned to France and the balance to Holland. This brought to $15,225,000 the total amount of gold licensed for export since the outward movement began Monday.

The release of gold to facilitate the transfer of capital from the United States to Europe served to steady foreign exchange and the dollar, which had declined sharply in terms of foreign currencies on Monday.

Exports Profitable.

The dollar, however, remained at a sufficiently low rate in terms of francs and guilders that it was still profitable to ship money to France and Holland when the markets in this country closed. A further drop of the dollar in terms of Swiss francs added Switzerland to the list of nations that might expect receipts of American gold.

The outflow of gold which began Monday and increased yesterday marks a reversal of the trend of the last seventeen months. Not since August and September, 1934, when $35,000,000 in gold was shipped to Belgium, Holland and France, has there been a gold export movement from this country.

Four banks, according to treasury officials, were involved in the gold transfers, but their names were not disclosed in Washington.

National City Bank Ships Gold.

New York dispatches, however, stated that the National City bank was shipping five million dollars' worth on the S. S. President Harding, which sails today, and an undetermined amount on the S. S. Majestic. All requests for export licenses made yesterday were granted by the treasury.

Private cables to American financial houses indicated that the gold shipped to France would move on to England. It was reported that a formal announcement would be made today concerning a British sterling credit for the French treasury, possibly for two billion francs. Reports have been current for several days that the French were about to float a loan in London.

Whatever financial arrangements might be under way between France and Great Britain, however, did not obscure the fact that capital was thoroughly frightened by inflationary developments in Washington and that holders of transferable funds at least temporarily preferred to risk the uncertain situation in Europe rather than keep their money in the United States.

No Shifts Reported Here.

A checkup of Chicago banks failed to disclose any important shift of capital from the middle west to foreign countries. The bulk of the movement apparently originated in the east. Part of the funds being shipped to Europe were believed to be foreign balances which had been transfered here during recent months. Federal reserve authorities recently estimated that there was deposited in this country about a billion and a quarter dollars of short term balances owned by foreign interests. Bankers reported, however, that the flight of capital which has been under way here for the last two weeks was being participated in also by Americans.

Only in terms of the British pound did the dollar make any material gain in foreign exchange transactions yesterday. The pound closed at $5.02⅞, compared with Monday's closing price of $5.03¼.

RESUME SILVER TRADING.

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—After a lapse of nearly two months the London silver market will tomorrow resume dealings in forward contracts in silver. The development indicates that the silver market is once more finding itself after having been thrown into confusion early in December through the sudden withdrawal of support by our treasury.

The spot price of silver has been gradually reaching a parity between the London and New York markets. While the quotation here has been unchanged since Jan. 20, at 44¾ cents, London has dipped below and risen above that level. Today, however, London's price of 19¾ pence, off 1-16 penny from the previous day, was equal to about 44.76 cents in New York silver.

The bloom is, however, distinctly off the speculative rose as far as silver is concerned. By way of emphasizing that point, there were no transactions in silver in the futures market in Montreal either today or the day before.

Profits Rise for Firms in Varied Fields

Many companies in varied fields yesterday announced favorable earnings for 1935. The Stewart-Warner corporation nearly tripled 1934 earnings and had the best year since 1929, according to preliminary figures. The Commercial Credit company reported all-time records in business and profits, and Electric Auto-Lite had the highest profit since 1931.

Stewart-Warner officials estimated the 1935 profit at more than $1,700,000, which would compare with $571,968 in 1934 and $6,838,938 in 1929, the largest profit of recent years. Sales for the year were approximately 20 per cent larger than in 1934. Cash on Dec. 31, 1935, was placed at more than $2,000,000, compared with $1,024,084 at the end of 1934. The annual report is expected to be released early in March.

Commercial Credit Earns More.

Commercial Credit had a net income from operations of $7,800,133, a new high record, compared with $5,391,132 in 1934. After payment of all dividends on the capital stock having priority and deducting income on minority common shares, there remained a net profit of $6,537,172. This was equal to $6.03 a share, compared with $3,929,984, or $4.11 a share, in 1934. The volume of receivables acquired in 1935 was the largest in the company's history, at $525,999,303, compared with $377,950,031 in 1934, and $442,807,262 in 1929, the company's best previous year.

Net profit of Electric Auto-Lite and its twenty subsidiary companies amounted to $2,588,598 in 1935, equal to $2.20 a share on the common stock. This compares with net profit of $913,681, or 76 cents a share, in 1934.

Purity Bakeries corporation had a consolidated net loss of $251,583 in the year ended Dec. 28, 1935, compared with a profit of $209,217 or 27 cents a share in 1934.

Continental Baking Earnings.

The Continental Baking corporation reported net profit for 1935 of $1,930,787, equal to $4.81 a share on the 8 per cent stock. This compares with $2,004,672, or $4.98 a preferred share, for 1934. Cumulative dividends on the preferred stock in arrears on Dec. 28, 1935, totaled $14 a share.

The Scott Paper company reported net profit for 1935 of $938,754, equal to $3.17 a share on 253,031 common shares. This compares with $905,757, or $4.53 a share on 168,868 shares, in 1934.

The General Railway Signal reported net income of $698,034, equal to $2.18 a share, for 1935, compared with a net loss of $342,150 in 1934.

The Marine Midland corporation showed net operating profit of $3,912,699, equal to 70 cents a share, compared with $4,035,220, or 72 cents a share, in 1934.

Officers and directors of the Auburn Automobile company were reëlected at the annual meeting yesterday.

DEATH OF AAA FAILS TO REDUCE STAF OF CROP TINKERS HERE

Inquiries yesterday at the Chicago offices of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, 506 South Wabash avenue, disclosed that there has been no reduction in personnel here since the decision of the Supreme court a month ago outlawing the crop reduction and process tax features of the AAA.

The field investigating unit, headed by William B. Coohor, is concerned solely with the voluntary marketing agreements that were set up by the AAA, it was explained, and its activities have not been curtailed since the decision.

Eight persons are employed in this unit in Chicago.

The divisional controler's office here has likewise been unaffected, S. A. Walker, auditor in charge, said. He added that no cut has been made in his staf. He declined to disclose the number of employés in his office.

SOCONY-VACUUM BOOSTS DIVIDEND RATE ON COMMON

Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., yesterday boosted its semi-annual dividend on common stock from 15 cents to 20 cents a share. In 1935 two dividends of 15 cents a share were paid, while in 1934 the company paid four quarterly dividends of 15 cents each.

J. A. Brown, chairman, said at yesterday's meeting of directors that he hoped to be able to give out an estimate of 1935 earnings of the company in a short time.

Another company in the Standard Oil group voted larger dividend payments on common stock. Standard Oil Company of California declared an extra dividend of 5 cents and a regular quarterly of 25 cents.

An initial quarterly payment of 15 cents a share was voted by the National Pressure Cooker company. H. Simon & Sons, Ltd., voted a dividend of $7 a share on accumulations on the 7 per cent preferred stock. After this payment arrears will total $1.75 a share. Carolina Telephone and Telegraph company declared a quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on common stock, compared with a $2 payment made Dec. 31.

Directors of the Grand Rapid Varnish corporation voted to increase the dividend on common stock from 50 cents to 60 cents annually, with a possible increase in the next quarter.

7 OIL CONCERNS WILL SPEND 215 MILLIONS IN 1936

A proposed expenditure of $215,000,000 on plant improvement and modernization by seven large oil companies in 1936 is revealed in a survey made by the National Petroleum News and published in a special issue yesterday.

These expenditures will represent an increase of $41,000,000 over 1934, and the proposed improvements mean a building program equal to 5 per cent of the net capital investment for the seven companies.

Three companies will spend more than $27,000,000 on expansion of production facilities, four will spend $26,000,000 for refinery construction, and four will spend $16,000,000 for improvement of bulk plants, service stations and other marketing facilities. Distribution of the balance to be expended has not yet been reported.

Sears' Sales for 1935 Best in Five Years

Gross sales for Sears, Roebuck & Co. in the fiscal year ended Jan. 29 were the largest for any year since 1929, and the total for the last period of the year was the highest since the corresponding period of 1930, the company revealed yesterday.

The total for the fiscal year was $417,080,465, compared with $338,603,706 in the preceding year, an increase of $78,476,759, or 23.2 per cent. In 1929 the company's gross business amounted to $443,452,640.

Last Period Up 16.1 Per Cent.

In the thirteenth period of the fiscal year, comprising the four weeks from Jan. 2 to Jan. 29, the sales figure was $25,644,816, an increase of $3,551,252, or 16.1 per cent, over a year ago, when sales amounted to $22,093,564. In the 1930 period volume was $26,820,165.

While the increase over last year was not as large as that for the preceding period, when sales totaled $48,055,653 and were 23 per cent above a year ago, this letup was due to unfavorable weather conditions during the latter part of January, which especially affected trade in the retail outlets serving farmers. Units in the south, southeast, and the Pacific coast reflected more favorable weather by reporting the better percentage gains over a year ago.

Comparative Sales Figures.

The company's annual report will be issued in about a month, but it was recently indicated that profit for the year amounted to approximately $20,000,000, which would be equivalent to about $4.15 a share, compared with $15,020,000, or $3.13 a share in the preceding fiscal year.

U. S. JUDGE GIVES RULES FOR FEES IN REORGANIZING

Cuts $54,000 Claims to $20,000.

Federal Judge Evan A. Evans yesterday entered an order drastically reducing the fees asked by attorneys and others in a reorganization case under section 77B of the bankruptcy act and outlined a set of principles which may become a model for determining such allowances in the federal court.

JUDGE E. A. EVANS.

Fees of $54,000 asked in connection with the reorganization of the 211 East Delaware Building corporation were cut to $20,000. Judge Evans, a member of the United States Court of Appeals, was sitting as a district judge when he entered his order. The amounts granted to 12 law firms concerned in the litigation ranged from 1 to 22 per cent of the total amount allowed by the court.

In a written memorandum, Judge Evans enumerated five principles on which he based his findings and pointed out that the customary basis of determining fees by the number of hours put in by various lawyers on the case had been rejected.

Lists Five Principles.

The five points stressed by Judge Evans were:

1. It is first necessary for the court to determine the total amount which may be allowed before taking up individual items. "If this is not done," he said, "there is a probability, or at least a possibility, of the sum total of individual claims exceeding the gross estate."

2. "There must be a point where services actually rendered and measured by hours cannot be charged to the estate, but must be paid by the clients." Judge Evans pointed out that frequently lawyers are representing not the estate but various interested parties who themselves should pay the fees.

Questions Fees Based on Hours.

3. "There must be a determination of the relative contribution of counsel other than on the basis of hours of service rendered." It is frequently impossible, Judge Evans said, to find out who actually did the work and more hours of service should not be the guiding principle on which the court makes its determination.

4. "The court may refuse to grant any compensation whatever if claims presented are out of all reason and relation to the work rendered by the applicant.

5. "Compensation based on hours of service has proved unsatisfactory even when the statement of the number of hours devoted to the work is acceptably set forth."

It is impossible for the court, Judge Evans asserted, to use such a yardstick as hours unless the court knows the individual who does the work and the position he holds with the law firm making application for fees. In such cases, he added, the petition for fees should identify the individual, list his salary, and the number of years he has worked for the firm.

Raps Value of "Conferences."

At one point in his memorandum Judge Evans discussed the value of the frequent "conferences" of contesting factions in connection with reorganizations.

"To call such meetings 'conferences over a plan of reorganization' is a misnomer," he said. "The services rendered are strictly and solely for clients. The estate is not benefited one cent by such disputes. In the case before me, there was in existence the building, which was rented when foreclosure proceedings were started and a receiver appointed in the state courts five years ago. The income has been used in controversies and disputes, but not one cent has been contributed to the estate, not one cent has reached the pocket of a bondholder."

Stocks Mixed at Close; Trade Volume Heavy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 4.—Strength in oil, railroad and miscellaneous industrial shares offset a mild reaction in the motor and utility groups today and kept the market as a whole facing irregularly forward. Business was brisk throughout the session and several times the tape fell as much as a minute or so behind floor operations. Volume totaled 3,009,890 shares, against 2,318,527 yesterday.

A number of cheerful business items appeared, bolstering the inflationary sentiment which has been the market's mainstay since it became a certainty that the soldier bonus bill was going to pass. The Socony-Vacuum dividend increase was reflected in spirited demand for most of the shares of the petroleum sector.

Standard of California Rises.

The extra announced by Standard of California served to boost the price of this corporation's common stock to the highest price in three years. Socony touched a new high for two years on a fractional gain and most of the other issues of the group were lifted to new high territory.

Weakness in automobile shares was ascribed to the failure of General Motors to vote an extra dividend. General Motors common stock sold down more than a point and Chrysler and some of the smaller priced issues followed it down for fractional losses. Mack Truck was an exception to the trend, turning in a moderate gain.

Rails sold up to their best levels since 1934, special gains appearing in Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, Baltimore and Ohio, Nickel Plate, and Union Pacific.

Telephone Hits 5 Year High.

American Telephone was a bright spot in the communications division, rising nearly three points to the best level since 1931. Other outstanding strong spots included U. S. Gypsum which crossed 100 for the first time since it was listed in 1931, Air Reduction, American Can, American Tobacco, J. I. Case, J. C. Penney, Radio Preferred B, Westinghouse, and Western Union.

Low priced industrials were in higher favor than they have been for some time. International Agriculture and Virginia-Carolina were among the more active issues of the department.

Machinery stocks were well absorbed and the rubbers rose sharply. Some of the sugars were active at better levels.

Cash buying, a predominant factor in recent markets, expanded sharply, according to leading brokers.

CULLEN BECOMES INT. PAPER HEAD; GRAUSTEIN QUITS

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—R. J. Cullen was today elected president of International Paper company to succeed Archibald R. Graustein, who resigned. Cullen has been for some time president of the Southern Kraft corporation and other paper subsidiaries of the International Paper and Power corporation.

At the request of the board, Graustein has agreed to assist the company in the transition period, an announcement by the directors said. In well-informed Wall street circles it was said there had been disagreement within the organization for some time over questions of financial policy.

Graustein also resigned as director of International Paper and as president and director of International Paper and Power. As head of this company he was in charge of one of the most extensive power and paper producing organizations in the world.

MAXIMUM PRICE POLICY DROPPED BY WOOLWORTH

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Under a revolutionary change of policy the F. W. Woolworth company has abandoned its time-honored principle of fixing a maximum price on merchandise offered in its chain of stores, it was learned today. From now on the question of what shall be the top price on items will be determined from time to time by the management with power to change the limits whenever it may appear good business to do so.

Until the new policy was adopted the official price limit was 20 cents. The management is now developing lines within a price range of 25 to 40 cents in certain key stores with a view to introducing them generally in all stores.

STOCKHOLDERS WIN POINT IN RFC BANK SUIT

Court Ruling Offsets New Evidence.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation must show that stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company had knowledge they might be sued under stockholders' liability charges at the time RFC loans were negotiated, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson asserted yesterday. His opinion was given as trial was resumed in the case wherein the RFC is seeking to collect $10,000,000 from 3,000 Illinois stockholders in connection with an expected deficiency in repayment of the 90 millions advanced in three loans during the summer and fall of 1932.

This statement from the bench was taken to fully offset any victory which RFC counsel may have scored when the court allowed admission of evidence tending to show that the question of stock liability was included in the 1932 transactions.

Vigorous Objections Made.

The evidence was admitted subject to vigorous objections by Franklin J. Stransky and Edward R. Johnstone, leaders among defense counsel. They characterized the evidence as "outrageous."

The disputed evidence was produced in a dramatic move of RFC attorneys who had work sheets of Ralph H. Buss, former examiner for the RFC, brought from vaults in Washington yesterday by special messenger.

On cross examination of Buss just before the trial was recessed last Friday, defense counsel had charged that these work sheets and other similar data had been destroyed. In view of this, asserted O. J. Rogge and Harold Rosenwald of RFC counsel, the sheets were necessary evidence.

Tells of Talks with Dawes.

Buss testified Friday, over defense objections, that he had had conversations with Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Philip R. Clarke concerning stockholder liability.

One of the Buss work sheets introduced yesterday, dated 4 a. m. June 27, had a notation: "Stockholders' liability $14,060,000." This includes stock held by non-residents of Illinois. Another sheet said "Good for at least 50 per cent," in reference to collection of the stock liability.

Under the fire of Stransky and Johnstone Buss admitted he did not take stock liability collections into consideration in making an appraisal of the bank's collateral which was pledged as security for the loans.

Accounting records and canceled checks of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago and the Reconstruction Finance corporation were identified and admitted as evidence before the trial was adjourned until this morning.

BANK TELLERS SAY NEW MONEY FALLS TO PIECES

Latest monetary venture of the New Deal—the issuance of new silver certificates bearing on the back the reverse insignia of the government's seal—is meeting nearly as much disfavor as devaluation of the dollar to 59.06 cents.

Cashiers complain the new bills will not stay in one piece. Tellers in three large loop banks declare the bills tear easily and fray about the edges, despite the fact that they have been in circulation less than two months.

One explanation offered was that the silk threads used in the new paper money are shorter than those formerly used.

BEGIN HEARINGS ON MO. PACIFIC REORGANIZATION

I. C. C. Takes Up Details of Van Sweringen Plan.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—O. P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland capitalist, watched with interest today as the Interstate Commerce commission began its examination of his intricate plans for reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railroad. His attorney said Van Sweringen would take the stand in support of the proposal "at the proper time."

The Missouri Pacific, with its 7,000 miles of lines, comprises a third of the mileage of the vast rail network which the Ohioan and his brother, the late M. J. Van Sweringen, developed. The road has been in trusteeship for almost three years, and any action of the commission on its reorganization may have far-reaching effects on transportation in the extensive territory it serves.

William Wyer, secretary and treasurer of the road, was the first witness. He explained the plan in detail along with revisions since it was first drawn.

Plan to Merge 31 Companies.

The plan proposes consolidation of 31 separate companies into one, issuance of three classes of bonds to replace 83 outstanding, and substitution of two kinds of stock for the present 35 classes. Fixed charges would be cut from about $26,000,000 to about $7,700,000.

Wyer said the management sought to map "a corporate structure financially strong enough to give the proper service—to have the strength necessary to go through subsequent periods of depression as severe as the one of 1929." Consolidation of the 31 companies, he testified, would bring "very definite economies," and should benefit security holders by making securities more marketable. Retirement funds with which to liquidate proposed obligations, the witness said, would act as a barrier against "drifting heavily into debt, necessitating defaults, and subsequent reorganizations."

Charge I. C. C. Ruling Violation.

Continued domination of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railway by the Van Sweringen interests, despite an order from the Interstate Commerce commission in 1929 that they divest themselves of influence over the road's affairs, was charged today by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia railway.

The charge was made in a petition of the P. & W. V. for leave to intervene in opposition to a request of George A. Tomlinson, Van Sweringen official, for authority to become a director of the Fort Worth Belt railroad, a Van Sweringen subsidiary. The commission recognized the seriousness of the charge and granted the petition.

The move seemed to revive the long standing but recently quiescent feud between the Van Sweringen interests and F. E. and C. F. Taplin for trafic supremacy in the territory served by each. The commission has served notice that the hearing will be the vehicle for a thorough investigation of Van Sweringen railroad control.

GREECE OFFERS TO PAY PART OF 1929 WAR DEBTS

Lewis Urges Britain and France "to Settle Up."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—A Greek offer of partial war debt payments today marked the first break in the impassé resulting from wholesale default by a dozen other European nations two years ago.

With Finland the only debtor nation at present continuing to fulfill its obligations to the United States treasury, Greece has expressed willingness to pay 35 per cent of the coupon value of payments due May 10 and Nov. 10. Demetrios Sicilianos, the Greek minister, was revealed to have communicated to the state department an offer to pay $76,272 of the $217,920 due on each date.

Total obligations due from war debtor nations amount to $12,437,837,030.

Calls on Britain, France.

On Capitol Hill Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] called on Great Britain and France, the two largest debtors, "to make some effort now" to settle their debts. Using financial problems in this country as a springboard for renewal of his protests against default, the Illinois senator recommended:

"Since France and England have lately entered into a joint compact of service and mutual contribution in all matters of finance, peace or war, I propose that to this there now be added by these nations the obligation to issue their joint bonds of small denomination payable to the United States to the full sum of not less than six billion dollars, being but part payment of the joint debt."

Lewis suggested that the debtors "provide that all money due these countries from Americans in any form or from any source, be paid to the United States treasury to be credited on the bonds to the amount that shall cover the interest."

Partial Interest Payment.

The Greek offer was made as partial payment of interest on the "4 per cent loan of 1929." This $12,167,000 issue was part of the Greek stabilization and refugee loan of 1928.

All funds derived from the American loan were used in financing resettlement of nearly 3,000,000 persons of Greek blood or languages from Turkish territory to Greek territory after world war reshuffling of European boundaries.

START CENSUS OF BUSINESS AND INDUSTRY HERE

U.S. to Survey Operating Results for 1935.

The department of commerce announced yesterday that work has begun in the Chicago area in the taking of a 1935 census of business and manufacturing. The work in this area is under the direction of John E. Dorian, district supervisor.

District headquarters have been established at 30 North La Salle street. Dorian said 300 enumerators will be named to make the canvass.

All retail and wholesale business, hotels, amusement places, business service companies, insurance agencies, real estate offices, and trucking and bus companies will be canvassed on their operations during the calendar year 1935.

Canvass Building Managers.

Office building managers and contractors will come under the census. For the first time the census will include banking and finance as well as security brokers and dealers.

The results are to be tabulated in Philadelphia, headquarters of the census bureau, Dorian said.

The census takers are to be instructed in all phases of their work before they will be allowed to canvass he added. Allen M. Wolf, assistant district supervisor, will help conduct the training courses for enumerators.

Data Kept Secret.

All employes are bound by oath not to reveal any of the information contained in the business reports, Dorian explained. Violation of this oath is a criminal offense.

"The census is designed," he said, "to supply a definite answer to the question of how many concerns there are in business, the total volume of annual business, and the total pay rolls and employment."

The new census is extended beyond the limits of the survey of distribution conducted in 1929 and business canvass of 1933. The new survey will cover a number of fields not included in the earlier survey.

OFFER 15 MILLION CANADIAN PACIFIC ISSUE TODAY

The 3½ per cent bonds, which are noncallable, can be converted at the option of the holder on the basis of four shares of common stock for each $100 bond. The conversion privilege will be effective from Feb. 15, 1937, to Feb. 15, 1944, inclusive.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw sugar was unchanged locally at 3.35c per lb for spots and the only sale confirmed was 12,000 bags of Louisiana raws to a New Orleans refiner at 3.33c, which did not affect the market here.

5% REFUND MADE BY SOUTH SIDE SAVINGS BANK

Payments Expected Soon by Four Others.

The South Side Savings Bank and Trust company yesterday announced payment of 5 per cent more to depositors as State Auditor Edward J. Barrett released Dec. 31 statements of condition for this and 19 other closed banks. The payment amounts to $150,000 and was made possible by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Four others in this group of 20 are expected to yield returns this quarter. A first repayment of 10 per cent or more by the Ridge State bank depends on clearing up legal difficulties on an RFC loan. The South Shore State bank will pay 5 per cent soon, and the Service State bank is ready to pay 2 or 3 per cent from stockholders' liability collections.

Reliance Bank Plans Payment.

The Reliance Bank and Trust company, which paid 5 per cent last quarter, expects to return 10 per cent more at the end of March from collections of stock liability. Five others in this group made payments last quarter—Roseland State Savings, Second Humboldt State, South-West Trust and Savings, Sherman State, and Pinkert State. At the latter two the payments were first returns.

Progress was made last quarter also by the Second North-Western State and Peoples State Bank of Maywood. Five of these 20 banks still have returned nothing to depositors.

HUGE SALE OF LARD REPORTED MADE BY SWIFT TO GERMANY

Swift & Co., was reported yesterday to have been the recent seller of 4,000,000 pounds of lard to Germany although officials of the company declined to discuss the transaction.

Special interest was aroused by the transaction because it marks the first time in about a year that Germany has purchased Chicago lard. In past years it was one of the best lard customers of the packers. Exchange restrictions were partly responsible for halting this business.

It was said the lard was paid for with the new askimark—one of the eighteen varieties of marks. In transactions in which askimarks are employed the seller in this country takes payment in askimarks and in turn sells the askimarks received to some one importing goods from Germany. The latter uses the askimarks to pay for his imports. The result is in effect a barter.

ALL LIVE STOCK RISES AS SNOWS SLOW SHIPMENTS

Live stock prices advanced here yesterday as snow and cold again threatened to tie up the movement to markets. Trucking was halted completely in many areas.

Live costs advanced at all points in the country, but wholesale meat prices continued weak.

Of the 22,000 hogs expected here yesterday, only 14,000 arrived. Prices advanced 10 to 25 cents, practically all classes sharing in the rise. The average at $10.40 was 20 cents higher net.

Sheep receipts dropped to 8,000 head, the smallest Tuesday run of the year. Prices advanced 15 cents with the top reaching $10.90.

Most steers and yearlings were strong to 25 cents higher. Calves advanced 50 cents.

GRAINS STEADY; VOLUME BELOW PREVIOUS YEARS

Winter Wheat Crop Helped by Heavy Snowfall.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade were steady during yesterday's trading. When the market closed the principal future contracts were quoted at approximately the same prices as at the end of the preceding day. May wheat, the principal future in that grain, closed at 99½ cents a bushel, unchanged from Monday.

The volume of business in wheat and other grains was estimated to be about equal to the preceding day's turnover of 13,479,000 bushels. This is small in comparison with the business done at this season in other years.

Heavy Snow Favors Wheat.

Conditions over the winter wheat territory suggest a good harvest, but the crop is not far enough along to cause any excitement in the market. More emphasis is being placed on other market influences, such as political and monetary developments, but these, too, are giving little stimulus to trading.

The heavy snowfall this week over much of the southwestern wheat country and in the Ohio river valley is a definitly favorable development. Soil moisture is still inadequate in some parts of the southwest, which has had three years of dry weather. Throughout the Ohio valley the crop is believed to have ample moisture.

Some Damage Reported.

In some localities the recent rapid changes in weather have resulted in damage to wheat.

The weather reports had no noticeable effect on prices. The closing quotations on the May futures, with comparative prices, were:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .99½	$ .99½	$1.00⅞
Corn	.60⅝	.60⅝	.60⅛

RISING LARD STOCKS OFFSET OTHER FACTORS; PRICES DIP

Lard futures held within narrow limits yesterday. Reports of further export inquiries from Germany and sales of 1,000,000 pounds to England, as well as strength in hogs, were offset by increasing stocks of cash lard in the west. Closing trades were unchanged to 2½ cents higher.

Stocks of lard at seven leading western points increased 15,418,000 pounds in January, and total 39,069,000 pounds. For the corresponding period last year stocks decreased 11,083,000 pounds to a total of 75,063,000 pounds. Stocks of all cured meats increased 39,567,000 pounds, and aggregate 150,616,000 pounds, against 219,375,000 pounds last year.

Cash lard closed at $11.25; loose, $10.65; leaf, $10.62½, and clear bellies at $14.75 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

*New 1936 high.

New York, Feb. 4.—[Special.]—Second grade railroad issues featured dealings in the bond market today and many of the favorites rose 1 to 2 points in active trading. High grade bonds continued firm, transfers totaled $19,862,000, par value, as against $14,362,000 on Monday.

An outstanding feature was the insistent demand for St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern 4s of the issue which matured in 1933. Hearings at Washington on reorganization plans of the Missouri Pacific developed proposals for better treatment of holders of Iron Mountain 4s. This loan jumped 3⅞ points.

Other Rail Issues Strong.

Many other second grade rails advanced over a point. Among the features were Cotton Belt first 4s and general 5s, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5½s, International Great Northern first 5s and adjustment 6s, Lehigh Valley 5s, Erie general 4s, Cuba Northern 5½s, Milwaukee 5s of 1975, Terre Haute refunding 5s, Texarkana & Fort Smith 5½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, New York, Ontario & Western general 4s, and Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis 4s.

United States government securities rallied as inflationary psychology appeared to have faded a trifle. While there was no exceptional turnover in the federal section, gains of 1-32d to around 5-32d of a point predominated.

Industrial Bonds Are Firm.

General firmness was the rule among the industrials. Studebaker 6s advanced 1¾, and Warner Bros. 6s were fractionally improved. Gains were also shown by Remington Rand 5½s, 109, and U. S. Rubber 5s. Among utilities to move ahead were American Water Works 6s, Columbia Gas 5s, and Montana Power 5s.

Bendix Aviation.

Investors' Guide: I am inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for your reply on Bendix Aviation. Your Investors' Guide column is very interesting and helpful to investors.—O. R.

Answer: Bendix Aviation corporation was formed in 1929 as a consolidation of several companies. Its business is primarily the production of mechanical and other parts for automobile manufacturers. It also occupies a prominent position in the aviation parts and marin equipment industries. In addition, the company makes products used in industrial plants, such as ventilators and safety devices. Active research laboratories are maintained. These have brought out many new and improved products which have been important factors in maintaining earnings.

Earnings fluctuate generally with automobile production. In 1935 the company managed to obtain a larger share of available business than formerly. Earnings for the fourth quarter of 1935, according to preliminary estimates, were the best for any three month period since 1929. Credit for this is due in part to the automobile producers' new policy of bringing out new models late in the year.

The company earned 93 cents a share for the first nine months of 1935, against 83 cents for the corresponding 1934 period. It earned 91 cents a share in 1934, 59 cents a share in 1933, lost 76 cents a share in 1932, and made a profit of 74 cents a share in 1931.

Current position on Dec. 31, 1934, was strong. Cash alone was about seven times total current liabilities. Working capital was equal to about $5 a share.

Dividends were resumed on the 2,097,663 shares of $5 par capital stock with the quarterly payment of 25 cents a share on Dec. 12, 1935, the first payment since April, 1932.

Brooklyn Edison 5s.

Investors' Guide: Please inform me as to the soundness of Brooklyn Edison 5s, due 1949.—C. D.

Answer: These bonds are sound. Brooklyn Edison Co., Inc., has covered its fixed charges by wide margins every year, the smallest coverage in the last ten years having been in 1934, when they were earned 3.83 times. In the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1935, fixed charges were earned 4.12 times. Current position is strong. The 5s, due Jan. 1, 1949, are callable at 105 and interest on any interest date upon 30 days' notice.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ARE 15 TO 75 CENTS LOWER

Cotton futures broke sharply early yesterday as the result of weakness in Liverpool and fairly general liquidation, including some pressure from the far east. Prices dropped as much as $1.20 per bale of 500 pounds at the bottom, only to rally sharply later. Chicago prices closed 15 to 65 cents per bale lower and other markets were off 15 to 75 cents per bale, new crop months showing the most strength.

Spot cotton closed 50 to 75 cents per bale of 500 pounds lower with New Orleans at 11.50 cents, Houston 11.20 cents, Galveston 11.15 cents, and New York 11.60 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES RISE ON WEATHER REPORT

The forecast of a severe cold wave in the leading butter and egg producing areas brought in fair buying of futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter closed ¼ cent higher with February at 32 cents per pound. February eggs closed at 22½ cents per dozen, an advance of ⅞ cent over Monday.

Reports from New York indicated the recent arrivals of foreign butter would be needed to take care of the retail demand, as receipts from the west are expected to be light for several days owing to the unfavorable weather conditions. Sales of butter were 109 cars and eggs 48 cars. Prices:

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

STUDEBAKER'S MIDWINTER CLEARANCE

ENABLES YOU TO MAKE THE SAVING OF A LIFETIME IN THE PURCHASE OF A FINE, NEARLY NEW OR SLIGHTLY USED CAR. SEE THESE BARGAINS NOW.

THE REASON

Sales on the 1936 line of Studebakers have been so phenomenal that the Studebaker Sales Co. of Chicago has just enjoyed the biggest January new car business in their history. As a result "trade-ins" have piled up to such an extent that today the Studebaker Co. has the biggest stock of used cars they've had at this time of the year.

TWO BIG FLOORS
are jammed to the roof with 1935s—1934s—1933s—and others in Sedans, Coaches, Coupes, and Sport models. Take your pick from Fords, Chevrolets, Plymouths, Buicks, Pontiacs, Dodges, Oldsmobiles, Chryslers, Studebakers, Packards, Hudsons, Auburns, etc.

ALL PRICES
DEEP CUT!
The Boss said—"We're overloaded; we need the room—so sell out all used cars; take a loss if need be—but get rid of them."

OLDSMOBILES.
Three 1935s—also '34s and '33s at practically your own price. They're all beauties.

FORDS—FORDS!

25 FINE CARS,
including all popular makes and models—all priced at under $100—many available now as low as $25 each—nothing else to pay!

BUICKS—BUICKS
12 of them to choose from, including many late models, priced for today low as $145.

STUDEBAKERS

We recently received five carloads of 1935 and 1934 Studebakers, virtually brand new cars, that are available at sensational discounts.
